BRITISH SEEK A-BOMB POOL

Keep Peace with Big Air Force—Arnold

4-POWER RULE OF REICH FLOPS, SAYS MONTY

Fears an Uprising; Blames French

BERLIN, Nov. 11 (AP)—Field Marshal Montgomery declared today that allied coöperation had fallen short of making the four power government of Germany effective, and that the British were taking precautions against civilian uprising which might be caused by winter's hardships.

Marshal Montgomery

He asserted that French recalcitrance toward setting up a central administration for Germany was the chief obstacle to efficient four power control.

He took a grave view of the possibility of civilian outbreaks saying they "may well have a disastrous effect on the recovery of the country."

The British commander described the present machinery for control of Germany as "one of the boldest experiments in the history of international coöperation," but added that if it fails "the prospect of successful coöperation between the great powers in a wider field will be much impaired."

Tells View at Confab

Expressing his views at an Armistice day press conference, Montgomery said:

"There is no need for me to tell you the chief obstacle that stands in our way . . . You know very well that it has not been possible so far to reconcile the view of France in this matter with that of the three powers which sat together at Potsdam and agreed to establish these central administrations."

Montgomery expressed the belief that a way around these difficulties "will be found," adding that such a step was necessary because of "certain practical considerations demanding early action by the four powers in coming to grips with the economic situation thruout Germany."

Official informants had said previously that if France persists in opposing a central administration, the other powers would attain this end by effecting bilateral agreements between military zone commanders. Approval of a central administration by the allied control council, of which France is a member, requires a unanimous vote.

Ruhr, Rhineland Issues

The French are said to be insisting that their proposals for internationalization of the Ruhr and detaching the Rhineland from Germany be discussed before the council considers a central administration.

Montgomery said that it was natural that there should be divergencies among the four powers, but that the coöperative spirit among them "has not proved sufficient up to this date to make the government of Germany as a whole by the control council effective."

Montgomery's statements on the effect of civilian uprisings recalled Gen. Eisenhower's recent report to the American congress in which he described present unrest in Germany as "just one step" from organized resistance. Eisenhower also deplored slowness in setting up a central administration.

Eisenhower is en route to the United States where he is expected to report on the military government.

The British commander said that while the German people at present are docile and well behaved, "It is impossible to estimate what will be the effect on them of the shortage of food and fuel under the rigorous conditions of the central European winter."

He described the food situation in the British zone as the most critical since the allies entered Germany.

Portland, Ore., Nov. 11—Fifteen hundred and ninety-one Chicago and Illinois high point men of the 33d division, formerly the Illinois national guard, today stepped on United States soil at this port of debarkation, for the first time since July of 1943.

Maj. John Prentice has milk on arrival at Portland. [Acme Telephoto]

These men have been places and done things. They have one more job to do, and one more place to go. They have to go to Fort Sheridan, Ill., by troop train and then become civilians.

In most cases that last mission will be accomplished by the end of next week, or Thanksgiving at the latest. Once the men reach Fort Sheridan, they will become civilians within 48 hours.

Part of 6th Army

These troops, part of a shipment of 3,317 officers and men of the 6th army, of which the 33d was a part, walked down the gangplank of the troopship Marine Falcon after a fast but uncomfortable voyage from Nagoya, Japan. They sailed on Oct. 30.

On the second and third days out they ran into a heavy storm. The ship rolled from side to side, listing 41 degrees. Most of the men who have been thru the battles of New Guinea, Morotai, and Luzon, said they "were scared plenty when the bullets were flying," but that they had spent some hours on the ship that were about as bad.

During the storm, according to Capt. O. L. Thomsen, the ship commander, 13 soldiers were slightly hurt, none seriously enough to require hospital treatment. The skipper characterized the storm as one of the worst he had seen in 48 years at sea.

Cheer Red Cross Girls

The first man down the gangplank was Pvt. Robert W. Fanjoy, 9127 S. Racine av., Chicago. He went into federal service with the 33d division on March 5, 1941. At that time he was a member of Company F, 108th quartermaster regiment, but since has become a combat infantry man. The second ashore was Lt. Col. James M. Hilton, 7838 Kimbark av., Chicago. Col. Hilton has the distinction of having served with the 33d in both World Wars I. and II.

Now of the 123d infantry, he formerly was the executive officer of the 131st infantry. He wears the silver star for gallantry in World

Washington, D. C., Nov. 11—The scope of aerial warfare of the future was envisioned today by Gen. Arnold, commander of the army air forces, in calling for a powerful peace time air force as the best insurance for the perpetuation of peace.

Gen. Arnold

The general discussed the future of air power at length in his final report on war activities of the air forces, replete with maps and photographs of the air war in Europe and in the Pacific. The report was prepared for War Secretary Patterson.

Gen. Arnold found that in the future war in the air will be even more devastating than it was in Germany and in Japan.

What the Future Will Bring

He said the future will bring:

1. Aircraft, piloted or pilotless, that will move at speeds far beyond the velocity of sound, well over 700 miles an hour.

2. Improvements in aerodynamics, propulsion, and electronic control that will enable unmanned devices to transport means of destruction to targets many thousands of miles distant. Until guided missiles are so developed that there is no further need for manned aircraft, however, research in the field of "conventional" aircraft of improved design must be pursued vigorously.

3. Small amounts of explosive materials, as in atomic bombs, that will cause destruction of many square miles.

New Defense Visioned

4. Defense against present day aircraft may be perfected by target-seeking missiles, and only aircraft or missiles moving at extreme speeds will be able to penetrate enemy territory protected by such defenses.

5. A communications system between control center and each individual aircraft will be established.

6. Location and observation of targets, take-off, navigation, and landing of aircraft, and communications will be independent of visibility or weather.

7. Fully equipped air borne task forces will be able to strike at far distant points and will be totally supplied by air.

Scientific Study Urged

Gen. Arnold called for a highly trained air force, the best of personnel, the most modern equipment, scientific research and development, maintenance of potential shift of industry to war production, and a high development of intelligence. His program for the air forces is:

1. To maintain a striking air arm.

2. To keep the A. A. F. and the aviation industry able to expand harmoniously as well as rapidly.

3. To maintain well equipped overseas bases.

4. To support an alert and aggressive system of commercial air transportation—one of the foundations of American air power.

5. To remember that it is the

HALSEY ARRIVES FOR ARMISTICE AS CITY'S GUEST

Adm. Halsey, Pacific hero who flew to Chicago yesterday for Armistice day, declared that he is for unity of command of army and navy forces at the fighting front, but doesn't like the idea of an over-all command in Washington.

Halsey added that he knew "nothing about Washington or what they do there."

"We should have a hold on bases in the Pacific," the fighting admiral said, but he pleaded he was not qualified to discuss the politics involved in the international question.

Halsey said during a press conference that if universal military training can be conducted "economically and fairly" he favors the plan. "Every citizen has an obligation to his country," he added.

In comment on a statement last week by Lt. Gen. James H. Doolittle that B-29 bombing raids were basically responsible for winning the Pacific war, Halsey shrugged.

"Jimmy Welcome to Opinion"

"If that's Jimmy's opinion, I'm sure he's welcome to hold it," he said. "Jimmy's a good friend of mine, and I don't want to open a controversy with him. But I'd like to remind him that the island bases from which the B-29s took off were conquered by the combined efforts of the army, navy, and air forces."

Adm. Halsey was welcomed at Chicago airport at noon by Mayor Kelly, flanked by two dozen uniformed policemen. When the four motored Douglas transport plane with a four star admiral's flag on its nose dropped from the overcast sky, Halsey stepped out with his hand outstretched.

Key to City for Admiral

The admiral was greeted by Vice Adm. Arthur S. Carpender, commandant of the 9th naval district, and by Mayor Kelly, who presented to him a key to the city. Halsey—who earned the nickname Bull as a fighting sailor—looked tired and strained, but he had a big smile for the officials who went to tell him that Chicago was glad to see him.

Trim and military in a khaki uniform with overseas cap and a black topcoat, Halsey told newsmen that keeping a touring schedule was "more rugged than combat." He said Chicago's fame as a host to service men and women had spread around the world and that he was glad to visit a city with such a hospitable reputation. He was taken in a city limousine, preceded by a motorcycle escort, to the Ambassador East hotel.

Halsey's visit was the first that any four star admiral ever has made as the official guest of the city.

City-Wide Services

Meanwhile, veteran, fraternal, church, and civic groups were paying tribute in city-wide services to the men who have died to keep America free. At 79th and Halsted sts., the Leroy A. McCullough post of the American legion joined with other Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars posts in armistice services.

Hotel Sherman post held a 15 minute program in the hotel lobby. A memorial service was held at Lawrence and Western avs. by the Marshall Foch post, and the Cook county council held ceremonies at Medinah temple, 14 E. Ohio st.

Expect 10,000 Marchers

Today's parade, expected by officials to be the largest since 1942, will include 10 bands, 10,000 marchers, and a 60 piece symphonic orchestra from Great Lakes naval training center.

Adm. Halsey, whose 3d fleet left a trail of enemy ruin and destruction across the Pacific from September, 1944, until surrender day, will lead the parade with Mayor Kelly and Gov. Green. Adm. Carpender and Gen. David McCoach Jr., commanding the 6th service command, will participate.

The navy's official three inch salute gun has been installed in Grant Park for the navy's 17 gun salute to a four star admiral.

Form Parade at 9:45 A. M.

The parade will form in Columbus dr., south of Jackson blvd., at 9:30 a. m. and move west in Balbo dr. to Michigan av. at 9:45. The marchers will proceed north in Michigan av. to South Water st., west in South Water and Wacker dr. to State, and past the reviewing stand at Madison at 10:10 a. m.

Adm. Halsey will speak, with a broadcast over W-G-N. Traditional Armistice day ceremonies at the reviewing stand will be conducted by the American Legion after a pattern set for 26 years.

All banks and public offices will be closed today. Private business will be halted for one minute at 11 a. m.

WILLING TO GIVE UP SECRET IF REDS GO ALONG

Attlee Talks with Truman Resumed

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 11—President Truman and Prime Minister Attlee of Great Britain today renewed their discussions on questions of incalculable moment ranging from the security and commercial interests of the United States and Great Britain to the atomic bomb and international policy. Also a party to the discussions is Prime Minister Mackenzie King of Canada. The conferences began yesterday.

The outstanding topics of consideration are:

1. The future use and control of the atomic bomb, involving the question whether the secret of its manufacture shall be shared at this time with Russia and other nations. In this connection, it was learned authoritatively that a proposal to share internationally all scientific developments, including the secret of atomic energy, was placed before President Truman by Mr. Attlee. The proposal, it was reported is contingent upon Russia's clear disclosure of her policies and objectives, as well as upon guarantees from other nations that they will coöperate sincerely with the allied nations organization, thru which the pooling would be done.

2. Financial assistance asked by Great Britain of the United States, the pending proposal being a 4 billion dollar 50 year loan at nominal interest.

3. The Palestine question brought to a head by Mr. Truman's proposal that the British permit the immediate admission to Palestine of 100,000 European refugee Jews.

Armistice Day Ceremony

The heads of the American, British, and Canadian governments observed Armistice day by placing wreaths on the grave of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington cemetery and performing a similar rite at the grave of Gen. John Dill, senior British member of the combined chiefs of staff, who died during the war. Then they motored to the Washington Navy yard, where they boarded the 105 foot navy yacht Sequoia for a cruise in Chesapeake bay. They returned to the White House tonight.

The conversations got under way aboard the yacht after lunch. They will be continued tomorrow.

"Living, Moving Program"

There were indications, even before disclosure of the the Attlee proposal for sharing the atomic bomb secret, that Mr. Truman and Mr. Attlee were finding a common ground of approach to the question. The President said last night at a state dinner for Attlee and King. "We are hoping that agreements and policies will come out of the conferences which will make the united nations organization a living, moving, and active program."

This sounded a great deal like an echo of the British cabinet position stated by Foreign Secretary Bevin in the house of commons last Wednesday. He said he was encouraged to believe, "In view of the fact that the industrial side of the development of atomic energy is

TRUMAN LEARNS HIS WAX IMAGE NEEDS A SUIT; GIVES IT ONE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 11 (AP)—Brig. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, President Truman's military aide, took steps today to see that the chief executive is made presentable to London crowds.

He gave T. L. Rowan, secretary to Prime Minister Attlee, a gray plaid suit with which to adorn the wax image of Mr. Truman in the famous Tussaud museum.

Vaughan told a reporter that Rowan had agreed to take the suit, one of the President's older ones, together with a suitable shirt and tie, to London when he returns with the prime minister. "Some time ago I read in the papers that they needed a suit for the figure of the President," Vaughan said.

Hunters' Prey: Rooster, Owl, Pheasants Too

Yesterday was the opening of the pheasant season, and nothing with feathers was safe, as sundry owls, roosters, and songbirds could testify if they were still alive.

This all came to light at Northwest highway and Barrington rd., and at Dundee rd. and route 12, where the state department of conservation established road blocks, in charge of Anthony Maggio, assistant chief inspector. Game wardens stopped all cars, to ascertain whether hunters had bagged more than the limit of two cock pheasants. They also wanted to see if they had any hen pheasants, a practice which is frowned upon.

Find Owl and Rooster

By midafternoon, the road block at Barrington rd. had netted 10 hen pheasants, one owl, and one rooster. Their possessors were taken before near-by police magistrates, or were given summonses for appearance in court later in the week on charges of violating the state game laws.

The car of Edward Effting, 45, of 3129 N. Kostner av., had been examined and was about to be waved on, when Maggio spotted an old rubber boot in the trunk. Thrusting his hand into the leg of the boot, he pulled out a hen pheasant who came to her death as the result of gunshot wounds at the hands of a person or persons unknown.

Lacks Money for Fine

Effting said he was surprised and that he had no idea how the pheasant came to be in the boot, but Police Magistrate Arnold H. Sass of Barrington fined him $55. Because he didn't have that much on him, the court impounded his two guns.

This is the fourth consecutive year that the department of conservation has established road blocks to check on the pheasant bag. Maggio estimated that nearly 100,000 hunters were in the field yesterday, but said that violations were running considerably under the average of previous years.

Aussie Flyers Won't Sail on 'Overcrowded' Liner

LONDON, Nov. 11 (AP)—Four hundred royal Australian and royal New Zealand air force officers and warrant officers refused to sail for Australia aboard the orient liner Orion today because of what they termed "disgusting overcrowding." A senior R. A. F. officer said that conditions aboard the ship, which carried approximately 2,600 men, were no worse than on any other troop ship.

JUGOSLAVIA VOTES BY DROPPING RUBBER BALLS INTO BOXES

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Nov. 11 (AP)—Voting in the Yugoslav constituent assembly elections passed quietly today. There was no official announcement tonight of the trend or the result of the balloting.

[The Yugoslav telegraph agency in London said a "very heavy" vote was cast but that final results will not be known until today.]

Ballots were cast by a simple method. Each voter was provided with a tiny rubber ball and he indicated his choice by dropping it into one of a series of ballot boxes. Election rules required that the voter's fist be put into all the boxes to prevent disclosure of the vote.

BRITAIN GOES DANCE-CRAZY, PLEASURE MAD

LONDON, Nov. 11 [Reuters]—Britain is pleasure conscious. The young and the old are packing dance halls, movies, restaurants, stage shows, and sports grounds.

There is a "no jitterbugging" phase in the dance halls since the departure of American doughboys who set the fashion when they arrived in England over three years ago. The dance halls look almost sedate in comparison with the war days. Cheek to cheek dancing, also introduced by doughboys, has almost ceased.

In London, the dancing phase which is sweeping the city is vexing political and social organizations. They are finding it more and more difficult to book a hall for their conferences and meetings even three or four months ahead because dances have priority.

Painter on 60 Foot Stack Is Critically Hurt in Fall

Twelve hours after he fell from the top of a 60 foot smoke stack, Robert Schroeder, 45, of 4850 Winthrop av., a painter, lay in a critical condition last night in Norwegian American hospital. Schroeder's safety belt snapped while he was at work on a stack at the Favorite Wet Wash Laundry, 1703 N. California av. He fell to the roof of the one story laundry. He suffered a skull fracture and internal injuries.

Marshall Says He Hopes to Be 'Among Neighbors'

Berryville, Va., Nov. 11 (AP)—Gen. Marshall, speaking at an Armistice day ceremony here, said without elaboration "it is my hope ry shortly to be among my neighbors"—thus seemingly giving credence to reports that he may resign as chief of staff of the army. The general spoke before about 5,000 persons. He is a resident of Leesburg, Va.

Pledge 2,000 Portable Units for Vet Homes

Two thousand war veterans can be provided with homes for their families if workmen can be found to put up the houses, Mayor Kelly said yesterday on his return from Washington. He was assured, he said, that Chicago could have 2,000 of the portable type dwellings used around war plants to start the job of findings roofs for 32,500 families of ex-service men.

"Now that we have these houses available, I hope we can go right ahead and get them ready," he said. "I don't know just where the buildings are that the government will allot to us and I don't understand just how they are to be erected, but there is no problem we can't lick if we look at our housing shortage as an emergency as serious as the war was."

Presumably, the mayor had in mind the long established ban of the building trades unions against ready made housing.

Under Building Code Ban

Pre-fabricated dwellings also are banned by the city building code. The mayor said he would approve special permission for emergency housing, which would leave only consent of the unions to be obtained.

Mayor Kelly added that in Washington he suggested financial help thru established federal agencies.

"I asked that the home owners loan corporation help with repairing and conversion of suitable buildings," he said.

The mayor also proposed that the federal housing administration restore its grants of 90 per cent loans on rental property and that the Chicago housing authority use its legal power to build housing for sale at cost.

May Get Army-Navy Game

Besides the 2,000 houses, the mayor brought back the virtual certainty of a new airport and a good chance that Chicago will get the army-navy football game next year. Douglas air field, near Park Ridge, is to be disposed of by the surplus property administration and he received assurance from W. Stuart Symington, head of SPA, that the city could have it at a low figure.

"The only questions asked me were whether the army could have hangar space and other reasonable port facilities and whether the army could take over the field in case of war," the mayor said. "I told them that, of course, we agreed. All the city has to do now is to present its claim."

Promotion of Chicago's bid for the annual service football game has been taken over in Washington by Robert E. Hannagan, postmaster general, the mayor reported.

ARMY SETS UP PARIS SHOP TO SELL SURPLUS

35,000 Items from Jeeps to Pistols Listed

BY LARRY RUE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, Nov. 11—In a showroom near the famed Chateau de Vincennes and not far from where Mata Hari was shot as a spy in World War I., the American army is busy selling surplus equipment to French, Dutch, Swiss, Swedish, soviet, and other government representatives. The merchandise includes vehicles of all kinds, tools, accessories, and other material. The showroom is part of an ordnance depot built on a French race track and from which American armies fighting in France and Germany were supplied with everything from .45 caliber pistols to 40 ton tank transporters.

Sales are made under the direction of the foreign liquidation commissioner to whom the ordnance service in this theater has turned over more than $98,000,000 worth of equipment declared surplus.

35,000 Ordnance Items

More than 35,000 items of ordnance equipment are displayed and as the chief desire of the purchasers are those in the automotive line, a giant warehouse within the depot area provides an opportunity to buyers to see just what equipment is available.

Various items are listed in 15 different categories and priced according to their categorical condition.

So far allied and neutral governments and relief organizations — UNRRA, for example—have had a practical monopoly in purchases altho some equipment was released to American civilians as for example 12 jeeps which were sold sight unseen to American newspaper men for $1,100 each.

Showcases Packed

Capt. Lyle A. Smith of Huntington, W. Va., a former automobile salesman, conducts visitors thru the showrooms and explains the functions and value of equipment shown. Showcases are packed with every one of the items available and on the walls there are pictures of vehicles for sale, including jeeps, trailers, trucks, and tanks.

The display room took months of work by 15 German prisoners of war under the supervision of Master Sgt. Guido Diamone of Erie, Pa., and Tech. Sgt. Lawrence T. Allemong of Evansville, Ind. Officers in charge are Maj. Stephen R. Browder of Louisville, Ky., depot supply officer, and Capt. William Stuart of Millington, N. J., crating and packing officer.

Col. Thomas H. Nixon, theater chief ordnance officer, said: "Speedy disposal of all surplus equipment will enable ordnance to release technicians no longer considered essential to their maintenance, thus speeding the deployment program."

TRIBUNES FLOWN TO 33D DIVISION ON WEST COAST

TRIBUNES rushed to Portland, Ore., by air express were distributed yesterday among 1,591 Chicago and Illinois' veterans of the 33d division, formerly the Illinois National Guard, when they stepped off the troopship, Marine Falcon, on their way home from Nagoya, Japan.

P. H. Cummings

The papers were dispatched Saturday morning at the request of George Schreiber of THE TRIBUNE staff and former lieutenant colonel of the 33d, who was awaiting the troopship at Seattle, Wash., where it was scheduled to dock Saturday night. The papers were shipped aboard a United Air Lines express plane, in charge of a Tribune circulation employe.

P. H. Cummings, air traffic executive of the Railway Express agency, who has been speeding up express shipments since 1908, on one hour's notice made the arrangements for flying the papers to Seattle. Before the plane reached Denver the army shifted the debarkation to Portland. Then bad weather forced the plane down at Denver. Cummings radioed to the pilot, in time to reroute the shipment to Portland in time to meet the troopship.

British Left Wingers Urge Troops Taken from Asia

LONDON, Nov. 11 (AP)—Britain's left wing Independent Labor party announced tonight a resolution by its national council demanding the immediate withdrawal of all European forces from Indo China and Indonesia and all British forces from India, Ceylon, Burma, Malaya, and Hong Kong.

THREE BICYCLES STOLEN

Three bicycles, owned by James McEnroe, 14, and his brothers, Thomas, 13, and John, 10, were stolen yesterday from a side porch at the McEnroe home at 3903 Dakin st., their mother, Mrs. John McEnroe informed the police.

1,591 ILLINOIS TROOPS OF 33D REACH PORTLAND

War I. and the oak leaf cluster for the same medal in this war.

As the ship lay at the dock and the port authorities were making routine inspections, the troops lined the rails and sent out cheer after cheer for a group of pretty Red Cross girls who were awaiting them. The girls had not only open arms but they had strictly non-GI coffee and real American donuts. The big rush, however, was for the table with bottles of fresh milk.

The troops were piled into trucks and driven to Vancouver barracks, the pine-studded, historical army post once commanded by such generals as Grant, Sheridan, and Eisenhower. After a brief orientation in which the men were told the army hopes to get them on their way to Fort Sheridan within 48 hours, they sat down to a dinner of broiled steak, mashed potatoes, and all the rest of the trimmings. They cheered the orientation officer when he announced they were short of such things as C and K rations and dried eggs.

Green Sends Message

As the men were seated in the theater listening to the orientation talk, a message of welcome was read to them from Gov. Green of Illinois. The governor telegraphed in part:

"The 33d division in this war did much to bring victory in the Pacific theater. You have won the everlasting gratitude of the people of your nation and your state."

Among some of the other soldiers who were off the ship early were Pvt. 1st Class Angelo Rossini, 34, formerly a bartender in Ricardo's cafe, 437 N. Rush st., Chicago, who has 44 months in the division to his credit; Staff Sgt. Robert Zimmerman, Manito, Ill. [near Peoria]; Corp. Robert Crabtree, Glassford, Ill., and Pvt. 1st Class Leo Webb, Benton, Ill., who hopes to greet for the first time, his daughter Sandra, now 3.

Webb, the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Webb, proudly carries a picture of his daughter in color, and like any proud father, is anxious to show it.

Some of the officers who debarked early were these Chicagoans: Maj. John R. Prentice, who has been gone so long he knows his street address is only near 86th and South Shore; Lt. Col. Harold O. Carlson, 907 E. 82d st., and Maj. F. A. Wittosch, 11335 Forest av.

Given Souvenir Editions

Upon arrival at Vancouver barracks, each Chicagoland man was handed a souvenir edition of THE TRIBUNE, flown to Portland in a chartered United Air Lines plane. The men lost no time retiring to their bunks to catch up on the news.

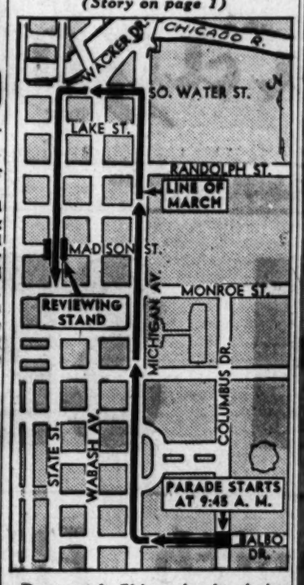

"It's a little bigger than the overseas edition of THE TRIBUNE," said one soldier, "but it looks just as good to us."

The portable recording equipment of station W-G-N also was on hand to record the event. The recordings are to be flown to Chicago to be broadcast at some time to be announced later.

Capt. Fred H. Dittmar, public relations officer at Fort Sheridan, was sent here by Brig. Gen. John T. Pierce, commandant, to do everything to speed the men on the way to the middle west and eventually to their homes and families.

NAVY TO RETAIN PIER AS SCHOOL FOR RADIOMEN

Unless naval officials in Washington decide otherwise, the navy will continue to occupy and use Navy pier until the end of its lease, June 30, officers at Great Lakes said yesterday.

Mayor Kelly said that he did not know of any move by the navy to vacate the pier and that he thought the navy should have continued use of the pier if it needed it.

Officials of the Chicago Association of Commerce said Saturday that four conventions within the next year would use the pier if it were available. The association has urged that the pier be released by the navy for public use. Public Works Commissioner Hewitt said Saturday the navy pays $60,000 rent a year for the pier which is used for the training of naval radio operators and aviation machinists' mates. At present there are more than 5,000 students in training.

BRITISH RENEW JAVA BOMBING; BATTLE TANKS

Indonese Slain as They Attack Vehicles

BATAVIA, Java, Nov. 11 (AP)—British air attacks were renewed on Soerabaja late today in support of Indian troops fighting in the center of the great naval base. The British reported that their bombers scored direct hits on the main Indonesian army headquarters and on three other staff headquarters.

Tanks seized from the Japanese by the Indonesians were sent into action against Indian troops, the British command said. The tanks fired 30 rounds into the 5th Indian division, but finally were silenced by artillery, the announcement said.

The British report, in its first mention of Indonesian casualties, said many of the "enemy" were killed in fanatical charges against British tanks, and that many Indonesian bodies were removed by women last night following fighting yesterday.

Charges Vast Massacre

President Soekarno of the Indonesian republic in a statement at Jogjakarta where he addressed 50,000 cheering Nationalist youths with a fiery exhortation, called on world public opinion to condemn the British attack on Soerabaja, a tightly packed city of 500,000. He said two entire Indonesian quarters had been burned down and the Chinese and Arab quarter severely damaged.

Soekarno said:

"I strongly protest against the use of bombers and heavy weapons against a city population which is not able to defend itself properly against those weapons. I hereby draw the attention of the whole world toward the vast massacre of men, women, and children."

Among the casualties, he asserted, were hundreds of "Chinese and Arab innocent and peaceloving people who came here as merchants and traders."

Delay Indiscriminate Attack

The headquarters of Lt. Gen. Philip Christison, British commander, denied native assertions that the British had made indiscriminate air attacks upon the city. The headquarters added that it had received no reports that the British were employing naval guns to support the 5th Indian division, as the Nationalists claimed. The Dutch news agency Aneta said only 20 bombs were dropped on the city.

Christison's headquarters said 3,500 internees had been rescued from the jail in which they had been held by the Indonesians. The British seized the Soerabaja telephone exchange intact, and telephone communications were opened to Batavia. Soerabaja's water and lighting systems were out of order, the British said.

Win Two-Thirds of City

Advancing under cover of darkness 5th Indian troops gained two-thirds of Soerabaja, the Dutch said. Earlier British accounts said that Maj. Gen. E. C. Mansergh's forces pushed 1,200 yards into the city from jump-off positions in the dockyard perimeter.

Brig. Loder-Symonds, commander of royal artillery, was killed in the take-off crash of a Mosquito bomber. Loder-Symonds, who won the American distinguished service cross for the Arnhem action on the western front, was starting on an observation flight.

Charges that three captured Indian soldiers rescued in the British advance had been stripped of their clothing, bound to posts and severely beaten by Indonesians were made by Lt. Col. Roy Oliver.

Both Indonesian and Dutch sources here reported that a change was likely in the cabinet of the Indonesian republic. Dutch sources predicted that the leader of the new native cabinet would be Sjahira, chairman o fthe working committee of the Indonesian national council.

Renew Attack on Java Base

Perspective map shows the Java naval base of Soerabaja, where British Indian troops renewed attack yesterday against Indonesians.

LET-UP IN BATTLE

[The following dispatch from Tribune Correspondent Veysey apparently was written early Sunday before the British renewed their attack on Soerabaja.]

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

SOERABAJA, Java, Nov. 11 — British Indian troops today eased up their efforts to clear Soerabaja, giving local Indonesian leaders an opportunity to respond to orders from heads of the Indonesian republic to comply with British terms.

Artillery eased up, air attacks were unscheduled, and warships lay in the harbor with guns covered. The infantry advanced about a half mile farther into the city, but found most houses and buildings empty.

Aerial reconnaissance this morning showed normal train traffic — two trains leaving the city and one entering. Streets were deserted. A few fires are still burning in the city, some started by British shells and some by Indonesians themselves carrying out a scorched earth policy.

A radio plea from President Soekarno saying the Indonesian "republic" had disowned the local leaders and asking them to stop fighting was apparently having no effect.

Jap Troops Fighting

Japanese troops are apparently fighting with Indonesians here. British officers reported as Indian troops reached the center of the city. Officers said scattered machine gun positions were being manned by Japs, altho so far no Jap bodies have been recovered.

Troops late today reached the postoffice after encircling machine guns mounted in a school near-by. At the postoffice they are only a couple of hundred yards from the hall of justice and government house. These two buildings were Indonesian headquarters and are badly scarred from the bombing and shelling yesterday.

Because troops are moving slowly, checking every room and every closet of all houses, five more days may be needed to clear the entire city, which before the war had a population of 180,000.

Near-by Town Peaceful

Aerial observation showed pathways to the south and east are crowded with persons fleeing the city. But at Griessee, only five miles to the east, life apparently was going on normally, with markets operating and people moving freely about the streets. Naval parties, which went to Madura Island off Soerabaja to buy vegetables, were fired on and left empty-handed.

Eurasians released from prison last night added to the atrocities charged against the Indonesians. One said five of his group of 25 were killed with spears and swords as they entered the prison 25 days ago.

Call for Holy War

Three frigates and a destroyer joined the artillery in laying down a heavy five minute barrage on a group of buildings being used as the Indonesian headquarters, and as the shell fire lifted, six Thunderbolts and Mosquitos bombed and strafed the same area.

By nightfall the British had occupied the northern third of the city. Clearing out houses, room by room, is a slow business.

The Indonesian radio denounced the "murderous British" and urged the Javanese to fight a holy war.

BRITISH SEAMEN WALK OFF SHIP CARRYING DUTCH

SYDNEY, Australia, Nov. 11 (AP)—The crew of the British ship Moreton Bay walked off the vessel today just before it was to sail for Java with 1,600 Dutch troops, while demonstrators at the wharf shouted at the soldiers "go back to Holland!" and "hands off Java!"

The soldiers replied by singing patriotic songs and hoisting their national flag. The crewmen sent a cablegram to the British national union of seamen pointing out that the Australian seamen's union had refused to permit members to work on ships carrying troops to battle the Indonesians, and asking if British sailors should follow suit.

STRING ON LOANS TO RUSSIA ASKED BY HOUSE GROUP

Conditions for Britain, Too, Are Proposed

BY ROBERT YOUNG
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 11—Loans from the United States to Russia and Great Britain must be dependent upon the satisfactory clarification of several points, including soviet production figures and liquidation of lend-lease obligations by the British, the house special committee on post-war economic policy and planning said in a report today.

Rep. Colmer

The committee report, filed with congress, recommended steps to stimulate American trade and to stabilize world economy. The 18 man committee is headed by Rep. Colmer [D., Miss.].

Want Troops Withdrawn

The committee said that "before any loans are made to Russia, the Soviets should disclose their production figures, including the proportion of the country's production being devoted to armaments. The house group also called for freedom of journalists and diplomats to make uncensored inquiries within Russia, and for an agreement as to the rights of entry of aircraft.

It was further recommended that Russia fulfill her political obligations on the same terms as those of other governments, including withdrawal of Russian occupation forces in accordance with the Potsdam and Yalta agreements.

Terms for Britain

As conditions of a loan to Great Britain, the committee recommended:

1. A reduction of sterling debts owed by Great Britain to countries in the sterling area, and the elimination of restrictions preventing trade between the United States and those countries.

The sterling area covers those countries whose currencies are based upon the British pound sterling, or in which the British pound is negotiable for the purchase of goods. This area includes the British empire, excluding Canada, Egypt, Iran, Iraq, Scandinavian and Baltic countries, Belgium, Holland, France, and Portugal. The sterling debt is the money in terms of British pounds which Great Britain owes to countries in the sterling area. This is distinct from the dollar debt which Great Britain owes the United States.

2. Removal of discriminatory trade quotas, exchange controls, and tariff preferences.

3. The use of as much as possible of whatever loan is made for the liquidation of lend-lease obligations and for the purchase of surpluses.

Scientists Probe Nagasaki Ruins for A-Bomb Secrets

NAGASAKI, Nov. 11 (AP)—American and British coöperation in atomic research is exemplified here today in this ruined city, one of the world's two greatest laboratories holding the mysteries of the atomic bomb. The allies are probing thousands of acres of utter devastation in search of the bomb's secrets.

The Royal Air Force specialists and the Americans of the United States strategic bomb survey are secretive about their findings, but the general effects of the second atomic bomb dropped here cannot be a secret.

Thruout the long valley stretching northwestward almost from Nagasaki's historic waterfront, the secrets of the bomb's power are laid bare. There are thousands of shattered windows and buildings crazily askew.

Japs Poke in Debris

The devastation reaches its climax in the heart of the valley.

Hundreds of Japanese poke thru the debris in search of buried stores of food or belongings in the ruins of their homes.

Nagasaki is one of the focal points of a world-wide search for knowledge enabling man to cope with the terrifying force he loosed. Hundreds of American and British experts are combing almost every foot of the tragic valley.

They are a closed corporation, pledged to secrecy of their findings until the two powers decide whither man's grappling with this monster of his own making is tending.

The Japanese subjects of this historic experiment show far less interest. Nagasaki is beginning to dig itself out of the ruins. Americans say the utter community stupor which persisted for six weeks after the bomb fell is giving way to the first efforts to make living conditions tolerable.

Marker in Center

The area of desolation is approximately three and a half miles long and a mile wide. In the heart of the area, soldier guides show a white stone marker which is almost directly under where the bomb exploded 1,800 feet in the air. In the middle of this area, American bulldozers have cleared a strip once covered by hundreds of buildings, and have made a landing field which they call "Atomic field."

Rising from the ruins are the skeletons of two huge munitions works—the Mitsubishi steel works and the Mitsubishi ordnance plant. The bomb dropped approximately halfway between.

Not Original Target

However, authorities disclosed the bombers markmanship was something less than perfect. The target was a point halfway between the steel works and a third great Mitsubishi war plant, the shipbuilding yards on the waterfront. The bomb fell about a mile and a half northeast of the target, sparing major buildings in the main part of the town.

Capt. Herbert W. Horne Jr., Lowell, Mass., American military government medical officer for southern Kyushu, quoted Japanese figures saying 30,000 to 40,000 persons perished almost instantaneously. An equal number died, Horne said, during the subsequent six weeks, nearly all of them the victims of gamma rays, similar to X-rays, which were by-products of the atomic fission. Their chief effect was to destroy by burning the bone tissue, including blood making cells within the bone marrow, making a person incapable of restoring his own blood. Against this Japanese science was helpless.

Three or four still die weekly.

'FREEDOM GONE,' SO CLERIC BANS 'RULE BRITANNIA'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Nov. 11—Because of the British government's control over almost everything, the Rev. Desmond Morse-Boycott, founder of the St. Mary of the Angels song school at Addlestone, Surrey, has banned "Rule Britannia" from the choir's repertoire.

"I've done it in the interests of truth," he explained today. "What's the use of singing that 'we never will be slaves' if we are slaves. We're in bondage to a government which cloaks totalitarianism under the cloak of democracy. We fought a war for freedom but have none and can hope for none."

Complaining that under the proposed hospital bill parents would have to get permission to have a child in their own home, the pastor said: "I'd like to quit England and replant my choir in New Zealand which has more love for the mother country than our present government."

RESUME TALKS ON FUTURE ROLE OF ATOM BOMB

Truman and Attlee Take a Yacht Cruise

both costly and long term, it gives us time to build up the united nations organization for peace efforts and world organization."

Abolition of War

The thinking of the conferees appeared to be crystalizing in a conviction that the only safety from the atomic bomb lies in the abolition of war thru a development of the new league of nations into an agency capable of preserving peace.

The Attlee expedition to Washington grew out of unfavorable British reaction to Mr. Truman's statements regarding the bomb in the Navy day speech on Oct. 27. The United States, the President proposed, should keep the secret of manufacture of the bomb but initiate international negotiations to outlaw its use. From numerous British sources there at once arose a clamor against this policy.

Britain should have the secret of the process it had helped to perfect, it was contended, and Britain should have a supply of the bombs, either British-made or American-made. From other quarters came demands that the secret be shared with Russia in order to improve the deteriorating Anglo-American relations with Moscow.

"Stand Up to Harry"

Attlee was urged to go to Washington to "stand up to Harry" on this question. He lost no time in complying with the demand, announcing his mission without even inquiring whether Mr. Truman would be at home.

Then came the speech of Russian Foreign Commissar Molotov last Tuesday which fell like a bombshell in London. The British were incensed almost beyond words by the Muscovite's animadversions upon British foreign policy. They called it a saber rattling speech. The house of commons exploded on the subject the next day.

To Molotov's charge that British maneuvers to form a western European bloc are not conducive to European peace, Bevin defiantly replied that Britain has as much right to cultivate good neighbors in western Europe as Russia has in eastern Europe. Bevin admitted he was resentful and he thought the house would agree he had a right to be.

Britain "Naturally Suspicious"

Britain, he said, is naturally suspicious of the soviet union's "cutting right across the throat of the British commonwealth," which patently was a reference to Molotov's demand at the London conference for a Russian trusteeship of the Italian colonies, Tripolitania and Eritrea, and for naval bases in the Dodecanese Islands, athwart the British empire's "life line" thru the Mediterranean and the Red sea.

It remained for Winston Churchill to let the cat out of the bag. He had reason to believe that Attlee was going to Washington to ask Mr. Truman to give the bomb secret to the Russians. He said it would mean giving the Russians access to American arsenals.

"I trust," he said, "We are not going to put pressure on the United States to adopt such a course. I am sure if the circumstances were reversed and we or the Americans asked for similar access to the Russian arsenals it would not be granted. During the war we imparted many secrets to the Russians, especially in connection with radar, but we were not conscious of any adequate reciprocity."

ATOMIC ENERGY PROMISED REDS IN BERLIN FETE

BERLIN, Nov. 11 (AP)—A Russia "strong and prosperous, in which we also will have atomic energy," was promised today to Red army soldiers, who dedicated a huge memorial to comrades who fell in the battle for Berlin. The promise was made by Lt. Gen. Telegin, chief deputy to Marshal Georgi Zhukov.

The program was held in the Tiergarten just west of the Brandenburg gate, and Americans, British and French each contributed an honor company. On the speakers' platform were the Berlin district commanders of the three western allies, Zhukov and a dozen other soviet marshals and generals.

The unveiling of the huge seven shafted semi-circular marble and granite monument was the highlight of the Russians' week long celebration of the anniversary of the "October revolution." After the ceremonies all troops passed in review before Zhukov, the other soviet generals, and the allied commanders, United States Maj. Gen. James Gavin, British Brigadier W. R. N. Hinde and French Maj. Gen. Geoffrey de Beauchesne.

CHIANG WANTS YANKS TO STAY IN NORTH CHINA

Factions Urged by U. S. Chief to Compromise

BY JOSEPH HEARST
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

CHINWANGTAO, China, Nov. 11.—If the Chinese central government has its way United States marines will remain in north China this winter, holding important ports and urban areas they occupied when they arrived to take the surrender of the Japs.

Vice Adm. Daniel E. Barbey, commander of the United States 7th amphibious force, commenting on the confused situation, told correspondents he believed peace can be achieved only if both sides are willing to make greater concessions in an effort to reach a compromise than they have to date. Unless there is more evidence of "give" in future conferences, a most unfortunate civil war is quite probable, he said.

Chinese nationalist leaders in north China, meanwhile, are afraid that Manchuria is swinging far to the left and they suspect Russia is quietly fostering the movement.

Fear Separate State

These Chinese believe Russia would welcome the creation of a weak separate state of Manchuria on their Siberian border—a state such as Outer Mongolia.

The Chinese in recent weeks have arrested a number of White Russians who allegedly were trying to filter into Manchuria to spread soviet propaganda and others are reported to be actively talking up the communist party line in Shanhaikwan, walled city stronghold where Chinese Communists are blocking the route of nationalist troops into Manchuria. In return for their service, the Chinese say, the White Russians admit they have been promised soviet citizenship, a right that has been denied them since the bolsheviks came into power in Russia.

Lt. Gen. Tu Li-ming, supreme commander of the northeastern provinces [Manchuria], said it is "necessary" that the United States marines stay in Chinwangtao because thousands of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's Kuomintang [Nationalist] troops now in this area soon will be leaving. Chinese troops of the 13th and 52d armies brought here in American ships in the last weeks originally were scheduled to occupy Manchuria but to date are encamped before Shanhaikwan.

Chinese to Move On

Aked what is going to be done with Chinese troops in this area, Gen. Tu said: "They will move forward by the proper process." Asked if they would move by land or sea, he answered, "By land."

Whether this forecasts an effort to break thru the great wall defense of the Communists and a march into Manchuria was not explained but Tu said the Nationalists desired a united, peaceful nation and will take no offensive action so long as there is a chance to obtain peace.

Tu said his troops had been attacked seven times by Communists before Shanhaikwan, but asserted his forces had only defended themselves and had not counter-attacked. He also charged communist attacks on railroads had increased in the last 10 days and asserted the Tientsin-Chinwangtao railroad had been damaged 174 times. He also said 32 separate telephone and telegraph lines had been destroyed.

Tu said the proposal of Adm. Barbey that American ships be turned over to the Chinese so they can transport their own troops and free the United States navy from its onerous task has been well received by Chiang. Plans to man the ships are now being made so the government will be ready to operate them if the proposal is adopted.

HOPE FLARES, FADES

CHUNGKING, China, Nov. 12 [Monday]—(AP)—New hopes for peace in turbulent China arose today and almost immediately had cold water splashed over them.

The increasingly influential Chinese Democratic league, a liberal organization, broke a deadlock in peace talks between the government and the Yenan Communists with an invitation for a general conference. Both sides accepted.

Almost immediately, however, the government announced that the Chinese national assembly would be convened May 5, apparently regardless of whether the Communists participate.

"Grave Affair" to Reds

The assembly was scheduled to open today, but during the communist-government talks last month the opening was postponed indefinitely when neither side could agree as to its make-up. The Communists asked for complete reapportionment of delegates and the Kuomintang countered with an unaccepted offer to keep the present delegates, but to expand the total number to include communist representation.

The Reds have indicated they would consider the summoning of the assembly, supposed to introduce constitutional government to China, without communist approval and participation as a "very grave affair."

The Chinese press today confirmed that troops of the nationalist 13th and 52d armies had been landed from American transports at Chinwangtao, just south of Shanhaikwan, where communist troops are entrenched around the eastern anchor of the great wall, blocking the entrance to Manchuria.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

THE QUESTION

Should our military services be under a single department of control and wear one uniform?

WHERE ASKED

Garfield park conservatory.

THE ANSWERS

Mrs. John Harris, housewife, Wausau, Wis.—I like the idea of the competition between the different branches of the service. Competition is an American trait and it's this fighting spirit that makes our navy, army, and marine corps what they are. A single military service with one uniform would eliminate this factor.

Gus Bellfuss, retired florist, 8026 Manistee av.—Men who are in the military services are supposed to protect a country in times of war or during emergencies. I see no need for the duplication of work that is involved in keeping the three branches of service as they are now. One uniform would create more unity.

Emil Petruska, fire control 3d class Mahogany City, Pa.—There will always be friction between groups who perform different duties in the military service. Navy men are proud to be in the navy. Army men prefer the army. I like the idea of being able to make a choice of what branch I want to be in.

Rosalynd Brazen, student, 348 S. Springfield av.—I think the different uniforms create initiative and interest. Without this interest I'm afraid the military services would slump to an all time low. The friction between the different groups serves as an inspiration. I believe this competition is necessary.

Mrs. Evelyn Baldwin, housewife, 440 N. St. Louis av.—One uniform and one head would eliminate duplication of work which in turn would save a lot of taxes. The men in the service would feel more equal. That's a good feeling and promotes unity. I think the advantages of one control greatly outweighs the disadvantages.

UNITY WITH JAVA NATIONALISTS IS ANNAMITES' AIM

BY ALFRED WAGG
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

SAIGON, Indo-China, Nov. 9 [Delayed]—A strange coalition of Chinese government representatives, Annamite Communists, and Indo-Chinese Trotskyites are carrying on negotiations to decide the fate of revolt-torn French Indo-China, according to an Annamite leader and member of the Viet Minh Nationalist party.

In addition to organizing to oust their French masters and gain independence, the Annamite leader said the Indo-Chinese are preparing their program in unity with native factions in Java and Burma. He said his people are in daily touch with Burma and Java thru captured Jap radios.

Organize 66,000 Troops

The Annamites are said to be organizing 66,000 troops in the vicinity of the town of Pakse, to oppose the French 11th Colonials and recent arrivals of the 9th Colonials. Of 4,500 men of the 11th Colonials, only 1,600 took up arms again as regulars after the defeat of the Japanese. The Japanese do not appear to have bothered these troops much. Some were jailed, but comfortably, last March. The 9th Colonials now has 3,700 men from France but has no vehicles. But by the end of the month, Adm. Dargenlieu says 9,000 French troops, with the latest American equipment, will arrive. In addition to the French forces are 18,000 British Indian troops.

The fight for political control in Indo-China is now largely based on the mass powers of the population, from which the various groups draw their support.

Annamites in Majority

There are 16,000,000 Annamites and 200,000 Chinese. The balance is divided among the natives of the three provinces of Cambodia, Laos, and Tonkin.

The three political powers nurtured by these peoples are the Stalinite followers, many of whom studied at Stalin university at Moscow; the Trotskyites, more violent than the other communist group, who run an underground news sheet titled Cam Tu [Volunteers for Death]; and the Chinese, who control the sources of food and river transport.

The French position is that of a superimposed imperialism, based on intrigue; the "purchase" of the support of the leaders of the two largest kingdoms, Cambodia and Laos; a puppet police force mostly of Annamite extraction, and their occupation troops. Many of the Annamite police have deserted to the nationalist cause, and the army, which depends on the police for primary law and order, is thereby considerably weakened. In effect, therefore, the Annamites consider the French no longer a political force in their country.

The French ministry of information, in an effort to convince correspondents of the futility of the independence movement, today exhibited bows and arrows supposedly being used by the Annamites. Natives said they had been taken from the Saigon museum.

YOKOHAMA WAR CRIME SUSPECTS SEEK RELIGION

YOKOHAMA, Japan, Nov. 11 (AP)—Maj. William F. Nern, 8th army chaplain, said today that suspected war criminals at the Yokohama jail were turning to religion.

"It's ironic to note that our visits were sought by the prisoners," the Milwaukee, Wis., officer added, "and that they're perturbed if we fail to arrive at stated intervals when directly or indirectly many of these same individuals were responsible for religious persecution and suppression in Germany, Japan, and the Philippines."

He named as among prisoners seeking such visits Col. Josef Alfred Meisinger, so-called "Beast of Warsaw," Jose Laurel, who was puppet president of the Philippines, and Iva Toguri, accused of being "Tokyo Rose."

NAVY DISCLOSES 'HEDGEHOG' GUN, U-BOAT NEMESIS

Device Fires 24 Shells in 1.8 Seconds

BY CHARLES GOTTHART
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

New York, Nov. 11—The navy today made its first public disclosure of an anti-submarine weapon that succeeded the depth charge and routed the German wolf pack—the "hedgehog."

Operating on the rocket principle and installed on navy crafts as large as destroyers, the device, first known as the mark 10 projector, mounts 24 projectiles which are fired from the bow of the attacking ship. The first "hedgehogs" fired their projectiles in 2½ seconds. The projector is held level despite the roll and pitch of the sea, and the projectiles fall in an elliptical pattern above the calculated position of the submarine.

They exploded on contact only, rather than on the principle which detonates depth charges, so that when an underwater explosion was heard from the attacking ship the guesswork of a U-boat "kill" was eliminated. Also eliminated was the often dangerous procedure of running the ship past the underwater target and dropping depth charges from the stern.

Named for Appearance

The "hedgehog," named for its appearance, was designed in Great Britain early in 1942, when U-boats were taking a heavy toll of allied shipping. The Carrier corporation, manufacturer of refrigeration and air conditioning equipment, adapted British designs to American mass production principles and began turning out the devices at Syracuse, N. Y.

They were secretly mounted on subchasers at the rate of 80 a month, and the battle of the Atlantic swung in favor of the allies. Then, the doom of the U-boat was sealed when the Carrier corporation improved the weapon, and in January, 1944, began producing a more efficient mark 11 "hedgehog."

Credited in 300 Sinkings

The new device fired its 24 charges in 1.8 seconds, and the "buckshot" pattern in which the projectiles fell covered a wider area.

In all, 1,501 "hedgehogs" were produced for the navy, and altho mechanical details are still secret, they are credited with the major role in the sinking of approximately 300 German submarines.

One dramatic action led to the destruction in April, 1945, of the U-546, wiliests of a dwindling fleet suspected of planning to launch robot attacks against coastal cities of the United States.

The U-546 had sunk the destroyer escort F. E. Davis and its trail soon was taken up by another American craft, the Flaherty. The skill of the German commander prolonged the battle, but the craft was sunk after hours of stalking and surviving members of its crew were captured.

INDIA'S DUTY IS TO REVOLT, SAYS LEADER AT BIG BOMBAY RALLY

BOMBAY, India, Nov. 11 (AP)—Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, a leader of the All-India Congress party, said tonight it was India's duty to "revolt" and asserted that if the country was not prepared for a revolution to free itself, it was a dead nation.

In a speech at a mammoth meeting here, Nehru said he used the word "revolt" after sufficient thought. He added that the Indian Congress party had never allowed the flag of "revolution" to be lowered.

A large number of Indonesians attended the meeting, at which the Indonesian flag flew alongside the Congress flag. An Indonesian representative expressed thanks to the Indian Congress party for its support.

CHINA WILL BUY RAIL TIES AND 30 LIBERTY SHIPS

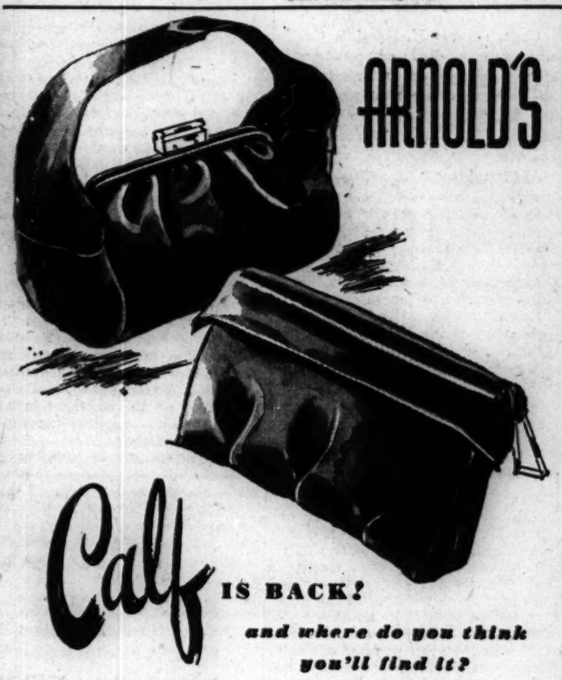

SHANGHAI, Nov. 11 (AP)—The Chinese government has ordered the purchase of 30 Liberty type ships from Canada and the United States and 500,000 railway ties from Canada, Communications Minister Yu Fei-feng announced today.

The order was the first step toward restoring China's merchant fleet and internal communications, both sorely hit by the war, the official added.

He also disclosed that China had taken over from the Japanese and the Japanese-sponsored puppet government 1,370 locomotives, 1,396 passenger coaches, 18,593 frate cars, and 824 vessels of all descriptions, mostly small river boats.

YANK PRISONERS 'PAID' FOR WORK AS MINE SLAVES

Japs' Elaborate Records Only a Fiction

(This is another article in a series on "Men Who Wouldn't Die," whose author was a prisoner of the Japanese for 40 months.)

BY MAJ. A. C. TISDELLE
as told to Carl Wiegman

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune]

The Japs had an elaborate pay roll and record system in our prison camp. It was so complicated and cumbersome that Lt. Charles P. Christie, who was responsible for trying to make it work, nearly went crazy. Often he struggled with the mountain of camp records until midnight, and then had to be up at 4 a. m. to start a new round of entries and computations.

The Japs were very proud of these records, pointing them out to every visiting dignitary. A person unacquainted with the Japs might even look at the records and think the prisoners were being treated like honest laborers. The joker was that our "pay" was a fiction.

Captain's "Pay" 85 Yen

As a captain, I was theoretically much more fortunate than the enlisted men, since I was "paid" 85 yen a month. However, 65 yen was credited to me in Jap war savings, and with the balance, 20 yen, I couldn't buy anything except occasional cigarets and useless junk like soap dishes in our "canteen." Twice I did manage to buy phonograph records for the camp.

Enlisted men could earn no more than 13 yen a month, assuming they were not sick during the period and had earned all the possible bonuses for good work in the mine. They, too, had no place to spend their pittance, except the black market run by civilians in the mine, where our men risked their lives every time they talked with them.

The theoretical money system even extended to gifts. In August, 1944, Prince Shimazu, identified to us as the Japanese Red Cross delegate, inspected our camp and left us a gift of 300 yen. Lt. Uri, our camp commander, took possession of the money with the explanation that we could draw on it. However, there was never anything of value obtainable.

Drag Thru Third Summer

As we dragged thru the third summer of our imprisonment, my diary entries became less frequent. We thought that every possible thing had happened to us.

On Aug. 13 Pvt. Carl Norris of Marion, Ill., died in the camp hospital. Many men were ill with scurvy. Baron Mitsui sent us a large quantity of tangerines, but Lt. Uri left them in a warehouse until many of them rotted. Then he issued them, each man getting 15 apiece. Thereafter the baron sent us tangerines every two weeks until January. The scurvy disappeared.

On Sept. 3 more prisoners arrived —200 Americans from Camp Cabanatuan on Luzon. They were in frightful condition because they had spent 62 days in the hold of an old Japanese frater.

On the same day, Lt. Fukihara succeeded Lt. Uri as commander of the camp, and Maj. Mamerow resumed his original position as the American commander. I returned to my former assignment as adjutant.

Many Recorded Sick

The change in Jap commanders brought no improvement in camp conditions. It is worth mentioning only because the murders committed prior to Sept. 3 were done under the direction of Lt. Uri. After Sept. 3 the responsibility for them lies with Lt. Fukihara.

On Sept. 11, I recorded sick records in my diary. Of the original American group, now down to 496 men, 31.7 per cent were sick; of the Australians, 31.5 per cent; of the Dutch, 23.1 per cent, and of the British, 23.5 per cent. To be counted as sick, a man had to be very sick.

On Sept. 29 the Japs issued whale meat for us to eat. It looked spoiled, but we never could be choosy about food. Our mess crew boiled out the blubber and made steaks, each about the size of a lamb chop. They tasted very gamy, but we ate them.

Bulk of Prisoners Ill

Several hours later most of the men in camp were ill, including me. We suffered chills, fever, cramps, and nausea. All night long we were retching in the ditches outside our barracks. The Japs apparently felt a twinge of conscience over this incident because they were solicitous and sympathetic. They even excused sick men from working in the mine.

A month later came another blow. Capt. Tom Hewlett, our surgeon, who was the most popular officer in camp, was arrested by the Japs and thrown into the camp jail.

The Japs kept Tom standing at attention for hours with a bowl on his head. They made him sleep on the concrete floor without any covering for three nights, before we managed to smuggle blankets and extra socks to him.

The Japs held him for two more days and nights, after which he was released. They never gave him an explanation for the punishment, and the only reason we could guess was that they felt he had been marking too many men sick and unavailable for mine duty.

When Tom got back to his hospital he found that much work had piled up in his absence. He tackled it with his usual disregard for his own health, staying up all hours of the night, and soon came down with pneumonia. For 10 days he was near death.

The whole camp was tormented with anxiety. We thought about the hours he had spent, working with the crudest equipment or with no equipment, and of the many lives he had saved. We almost went around on tiptoe until he recovered.

Suffer from Cold

Bitter cold weather came again in December, and we suffered more than in the previous winter. We filled our canteens with hot water and sat with our hands on them much of the time. There was no heat in the hospital, where the patients were cold all the time, because they couldn't take a steaming hot bath in the tank before going to bed, as the other prisoners did.

On Dec. 20, Pvt. Marion E. Bruce of Lawrenceburg, Ind., died of malnutrition.

Christmas—our third and last in a prison camp—was a working day at the coal mine, but we celebrated on Jan. 1, the Japs' holiday. The Japs issued Red Cross boxes at the rate of one box for each 10 men after taking the powdered milk and preserved butter out of each box. They told us the butter and milk were going to our hospital, but it never arrived there.

For our Christmas [Jan. 1] dinner we had pork and beans, soybeans, bread and tangerines. In the evening we had a good show in the mess hall, attended by the Jap officers and officials of the coal mine. Lt. Fukihara refused to permit the mine foremen to attend.

On Jan. 8 the Japs sprang a sudden search of the camp. I got wind of it just in time, and hid my diary in a sand bucket. Lt. Christie, the details officer, and Lt. Owen W. Romaine were not so fortunate. The Japs went directly to Christie's office and dug up newspapers and maps which they had buried there. The newspapers had been obtained from civilian mine workers and had been smuggled into camp.

From the manner in which the maps and papers were found we suspected that a skunk among the prisoners squealed to the Japs. Christie and Romaine were held in jail for a month, and were beaten unmercifully. Christie's head was a pulp when he was released.

Jailed for 10 Days

During the same period, Lt. John H. Allen, who was in charge of our show troupe and camp entertainment program, was jailed by the Japs for 10 days. The charge against him was that he was responsible for the mysterious disappearance of a curtain borrowed from the coal mine theater for use at our Christmas show. We never learned what happened to the curtain. Certainly, Allen didn't steal it.

Capt. Thomas H. Hewlett (left), who nearly died of pneumonia after being jailed and mistreated by Japs at Omuta prison camp, and Lt. John Allen, who was imprisoned 10 days for loss of theater curtain.

Lt. Charles P. Christie (left) and Lt. Owen W. Romaine, who were jailed and beaten after Japs found newspapers they had hidden.

CANADA CLOAKED IN CONSTITUTION SPURNED BY U. S.

Adopt Ideas of Hamilton, Britain's Friend

[This is the third of a series of stories on Canada's rise to nationhood.]

BY FRANK HUGHES
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 11—When Canada began to draft her constitution, in 1864 to 1867, she had before her the example of the great American Constitution, but she spurned it in favor of a plan so much like the draft of Alexander Hamilton, the federalist and good friend of Britain, as to suggest his ideas may have been borrowed.

Hamilton was a delegate from New York state at the American constitutional convention in 1787, but he was almost totally out of sympathy with the republican principles that conference produced. In fact, he produced a draft of his own which was never given serious consideration at Philadelphia.

Executive for Life

His draft contains these ideas which have been embodied in the British North America act of 1867, which is Canada's constitution:

1. An executive of life tenure [king in Canada's case] holding absolute veto over national legislation, with the power to appoint state [provincial] governors, who would hold similar veto power on state legislation.

2. An upper house chosen for life on a property basis. [Canada has a senate, property qualification $4,000, appointed for life by the "governor general in council," which means the prime minister. The Canadian senate has legislative power equal to that of the house of commons, and its members generally are politicians to whom the prime minister is indebted].

3. A lower house [commons in Canada] chosen by manhood suffrage. [The Canadian commons is almost an exact replica of the British, except that it deals wholly with national affairs. It has power, however, to annul legislation of provincial legislatures].

4. The supreme judicial authority to be vested in judges appointed and holding office during good behavior. [State, county, and local judges generally are elected in America. In Canada all judges are appointed].

5. Laws of the states [provinces in Canada] contrary to the constitution are utterly void, and to prevent passage of such laws state governors appointed by the central government are to have right of veto.

Double British Vote

There are some differences between Hamilton's constitutional plan and the British North America act, but they are, generally speaking, minor. Hamilton provided that the chief executive and senators should be chosen by electors selected by the people. The senate was vested with the power to declare war in Hamilton's draft, whereas in both the United States and Canada both legislative houses must approve a declaration of war.

In addition, the British North America act gave England a double veto over Dominion legislation, so strong that even Hamilton probably would not have been able to swallow it.

The governor general of Canada, a British lord, could veto Dominion laws by "withholding the assent" of the British sovereign. The British parliament also had the power to veto Canadian legislation by passing laws, binding upon Canada, which could nullify any Canadian statute.

H. D. McClokie of the University of Manitoba, in his book "Canadian Government and Politics," says:

"The British North America act of 1867 made no declaration of intention to supersede or annul all previous British legislation for Canada as a colony. Not only, therefore, was the Dominion restrained by former laws and rules of colonialism, but it was bound by later legislation specifically applying to Canada and to the colonies generally."

U. S. Adopts Madison Plan

The American delegates in Philadelphia discarded Hamilton's British plan in favor of the ideas generally credited to James Madison, which produced a much more representative form of government, more freedom for the people, and guaranteed the sovereign rights of the states.

Hamilton said that "the British government is the best in the world and I doubt much whether anything short of it would do in America." He denounced popular governments, elected by the people, as "but pork still, with a little change in the sauce."

The British house of lords, he said, was "a most noble institution, forming a permanent barrier against every pernicious innovation." In setting up the Canadian equivalent of a house of lords, John A. Macdonald of Ontario, one of the leading confederation founders, said at the Quebec conference that senators should represent the rich.

"A large qualification should be necessary for membership in the upper house," he said, "in order to represent the principle of property. The rights of the minority must be protected, and the rich are always fewer in number than the poor."

Refuse to Quit Forts

Secretary of State Jay negotiated a treaty with the British in 1794 to adjust serious Anglo-American diplomatic issues arising out of the treaty which ended the Revolutionary war. Britain had refused to evacuate Canadian frontier forts on American soil, had refused to admit American ships to British North American ports, had refused to make a treaty of commerce or to exchange diplomatic representatives, and had intrigued with the western Indians against the United States.

Madison and Thomas Jefferson were sponsoring new American navigation laws in congress that held the possibility of serious discrimination against British trade. England sent George Hammond to the United States in 1791 to "discuss" these issues.

Hamilton, then secretary of the treasury, promised Hammond that he would try to block any commercial discrimination against England. At the same time, Britain instituted arbitrary naval orders that resulted in the capture of hundreds of American ships. Lord Dorchester, the British governor general of Canada, also delivered a bellicose speeech against the United States to the western Indians.

Hamilton, however, kept his word to the British minister and persuaded President Washington to stop short of any commercial retaliation against Great Britain, and on Hamilton's secret advice, Jay acquiesced to the British naval orders for the duration of Britain's war with France.

Hamilton and his federalists kept the peace and won England's promise—which was not kept—to keep hands off the American northwest territory. England got a better deal. With Hamilton's help she kept America neutral and retained her best customer—the United States.

[Next: Canada's weakness kept England from siding with the confederacy and spurred Canadian confederation.]

Gasoline Costs Him $3.50 for a Trip of 1,900 Miles

Santa Barbara, Cal., Nov. 11 (AP)—Robert C. Ferguson, recently discharged aviation cadet, took the long—but inexpensive way home. Attaching a second hand gasoline motor on a bicycle, Ferguson rode 1,900 miles, with sightseeing detours thrown in, from Roswell, N. M., to Santa Barbara. The trip took two weeks, but he averaged 125 miles a gallon and the fuel bill was only $3.50. He won $20 from a friend who bet he couldn't make it.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

Nov. 12—Capt. Dale Battles Indians

WHAT one historian conservatively described as "one of the most remarkable of naval and personal combats on record" was fought between canoes on the lower Alabama river 132 years ago today.

In November of 1813 Capt. Sam Dale and a small party of soldiers, afoot and in canoes, were scouring the wild country of southwestern Alabama for warring bands of Indians. On the morning of the 12th they saw a huge canoe with 11 Indians aboard come floating down the Alabama toward a landing place. They dashed for the spot and shot two of the Indians. Three others leaped overboard and managed to warp the canoe back into deep water.

Dale ordered six of his men to take the party's own two canoes and go in pursuit. They returned after they had had a glimpse of the live Indians in the bottom of the enemy craft. In anger, Dale called for one of the canoes and, with three companions, made off after the Indians.

When he drew alongside, he leaped up and placed one foot in the Indian canoe. He and two of his companions began clubbing away at the Indians while the other, at the paddle, tried to keep the two craft together. The current was too strong. As the boats pulled apart Dale jumped into the Indian canoe.

He was alone now with his enemies, and four of them were unwounded. One aimed a terrific blow at the hardy American. Dale parried it and plunged his bayonet into him. As another Indian sprang forward he was dropped by a bullet from one of the men in Dale's canoe, a few yards off. The third Indian lunged with his tomahawk, but was impaled on Dale's bayonet. The fourth clubbed Dale with a musket and dislocated his shoulder, but fell under the same bayonet.

ASKS LUMPING OF SHIP WAGE COSTS IN STUDY

LONDON, Nov. 11 (AP)—British delegates to the international maritime conference opening in Copenhagen, Denmark, on Nov. 15 will propose that seamen's hours and wages and the manning of ships be considered together in any attempt to establish international labor standards on the high seas.

The conference, called by the joint maritime commission of the international labor office, is to try for a preliminary international agreement on regulation of merchant fleet employment conditions.

The British shipping federation's view is that total wage costs rather than wage rates alone are the determining factor in international competition.

SEEK TO HALT YAMASHITA WAR CRIME HEARING

Defense Files Petition to Quash Trial

BY ROBERT CROMIE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MANILA, P. I., Nov. 12 [Monday]—A petition which may halt the trial of Gen. Yamashita and return him to the status of a simple prisoner of war was filed this afternoon before the Supreme court of the Philippines by the battery of attorneys defending the Japanese general accused of war crimes. The petition alleges that:

1. The charge against Yamashita is so vague as not to allege actual violation of the laws of war.

2. That the military commission hearing the case is without jurisdiction since the Philippines are not under military law, there is no military government and no hostilities, nor are the Philippines an occupied country.

Called a Violation

3. That under the rules of the trial as laid down by Gen. MacArthur, there is no chance of a fair trial; that the rules laid down not only violate the articles of war as passed by congress but also violate the American Constitution.

4. That the trial is a violation of the Geneva convention since Spain—Japan's protecting power—was not notified that it was going to be held.

The petition asks that the trial be halted, which would take Yamashita from the jurisdiction of the court and place him in a concentration camp like any other war prisoner, and that he eventually would be tried in the Philippine civil courts.

Blown Up in House

Virtually the entire male population of the town of Bauan in Batangas province was wiped out by the Japanese last Feb. 28, according to survivors of that massacre testifying today in the Yamashita trial.

Gemeniano Brual, 21, told how the Japanese took the whole town to a church, then permitted women and children to leave, after which all men were taken to a nearby house and locked in. Then the house was blown up.

"The Japanese outside shot those trying to escape, then two soldiers came inside and bayoneted all those who moved," she said. "I escaped thru a hole blown in the wall just as I saw another soldier enter with a can of kerosene, pour it over the bodies and set it afire. I could hear those people crying for their mothers, wives, and children."

Deposition Admitted

In the next two cases—the murder of 50 persons in San Rosario, Batangas, and 150 in San Jose, Batangas—all evidence was introduced solely thru the medium of a deposition on atrocities, gathered by a war crimes commission investigator. The defense objected heatedly to its introduction. Maj. Gen. R. B. Reynolds ruled that such statements would be admitted.

A widow, whose two young sons and two daughters were slain by the Japanese in Santo Tomas, Batangas, told how she and 50 other women and children were taken to a river bank where the Japs systematically bayoneted the group, then poured gasoline over them and set it ablaze.

KIDO, SPONSOR OF TOJO, WILL RESIGN, REPORT

TOKYO, Nov. 11 (AP)—Marquis Joichi Kido, lord keeper of the privy seal and one of the men closest to the emperor, was reported today to have decided to resign and assume responsibility for recommending Tojo as premier and supporting him.

Kido, Emperor Hirohito's principal adviser, has been instrumental in naming premiers for several years and was a key figure in the selection of Hideki Tojo, under whom Japan went to war against the United States.

Japanese in all walks of life have criticized Kido bitterly since the occupation. Many have demanded his resignation, some asserting he should be arrested as a war criminal.

"That's Joe's wife. She's here to see that he takes home his take-home pay."

M'ARTHUR'S HAT IN RING, 'ASSERTS MANILA EDITOR

Says He's Interested in Nomination

BY LOWELL LIMPUS
[New York News Staff Correspondent]

MANILA, Nov. 11—Declaring Gen. MacArthur is interested in the 1948 Republican nomination, a prominent Manila editor today tossed the American commander's famous gold braided cap into the Presidential ring.

MacArthur was nominated in a special article signed by Ernesto R. Rodriguez Jr., editor of the Philippine Liberty News, an influential paper widely circulated in Catholic circles here. The article attracted wide attention because of the paper's position and the fact that MacArthur is the universal hero of the Filipino people.

Sees Nomination Assured

In his article Rodriguez said:

"What are MacArthur's chances? There is no question that the liberator of the Philippines is—his denials to the contrary notwithstanding—really interested in securing the G. O. P. nomination, and of course, the White House post. He comes from a family of Wisconsin politicos who have always had their eye either on the White House or the state governorship.

"There is no doubt that should MacArthur really and earnestly strive to get the nomination, he will get it."

Just what basis may exist for the Manila editor's unqualified statement that MacArthur is interested in the nomination is not revealed.

Predicts Dewey's End

Rodriguez' reasoning is that the election of William O'Dwyer as mayor of New York means the beginning of the end of Gov. Dewey, and clears the way for other Republican candidates.

He believes MacArthur emerges ahead of a trio of other contenders—ex-Gov. Stassen of Minnesota, and Senators Taft of Ohio and Vandenberg of Michigan. And he writes off Dewey's chances completely if Dewey loses the gubernatorial election next year.

Like most other political dopesters back home, this observer sees MacArthur as the only hope for a Republican victory over President Truman. Rodriguez predcts either Paul McNutt or Gen. Eisenhower will be Truman's running mate.

ZEALAND WANTS TO SPEND DOLLAR AND HAVE IT TOO

BY QUENTIN POPE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, Nov. 10—The Americans were most anxious to trade with New Zealand and there were many classes of export this country could use, but the great problem was dollar exchange, Frank Picot, commissioner of supply, told New Zealanders when he returned here after a five weeks' visit in Washington, D. C., and Ottawa, Canada, to wind up this country's war time supply setup.

Build Up Dollar Balance

Picot's statement was the latest in the barrage designed to convince the country it is dollar poor and, presumably, to aid the British bargaining position in Washington. The personal spending of the Americans still stationed here and the dollar income of American service men's brides, still stands at around $8,000,000 a year, despite heavy departures for the United States.

From January to July New Zealand's shipments to the United States amounted to about 40 per cent of the country's total exports, the majority of which went to Britain under the war time plan to purchase all of New Zealand's wool. But shipments of this as well as of large quantities of hides, since British purchases have lapsed, have earned substantial dollar balances for this country.

Rebel Against British Pool

In addition, the war time clearing system created by the state department enables New Zealand banks to turn over dollar notes still being collected thruout the country and receive credits for them.

All these sums add up to substantial aid for this country which, today is much better off than before the war when it consistently bought London dollars to finance American purchases. Moreover, New Zealand has rebelled against the British dollar pool and has been turning over to the British only the balance left after its American spending.

New Zealand thus appears in no way handicapped in buying in America if it chooses to release dollars from its current income. But the new import schedule for 1946, released under the trade control plan, shows that Finance Minister Nash still is putting the lid on American trade on the ground of the uncertainty of financing it.

NAZI DEFENDERS WILL APPEAL TO WORLD OPINION

Tell Objections Tomorrow to International Trial

BY HAL FOUST
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

NUERENBERG, Germany, Nov. 11—Attorneys for the 22 nazi leaders awaiting trial before an international military tribunal will meet with the press Tuesday for a joint statement of their objections to the court and the laws created by America, Great Britain, Russia, and France this summer for formal disposal of Hitler's lieutenants. In individual interviews the German lawyers have argued that the proceedings are designed to convict and not to adjudicate.

No Precedents Exist

The war crimes prosecutors acceded to the arrangements for the defense to address world opinion. This recognition of freedom of speech was in keeping with other efforts to dignify the processes. There is no precedent for fixing individual responsibilities for war time leadership in administration, diplomacy, industry, finance, politics, propaganda, and the military.

The defense objects that the court has decided in advance of the hearing that Germany's wars were an unprovoked criminal violation of international agreements. They protest against the court's pre-trial decisions that a defendant cannot clear himself by showing that all his offensive acts were in obedience to orders from his government or his superior officers.

Conspiracy Is Alleged

The theory of the prosecution is that all of the 22 under indictment were engaged in a conspiracy for conquest which included military invasion, persecutions, mass enslavements and imprisonments, and mass murders. The very bulk of the documentary evidence—miles of film and tons of records from the nazi archives—would seem to be in keeping with a design to justify harsh treatment of all Germans and the acquisition of German industries and commerce.

The defendants already have been convicted in public opinion of the allied nations and most of them could be convicted in the ordinary courts on a simple murder charge if their deaths were the sole objective of this elaborate tribunal set up by the four victorious countries.

FIND GERMANS FAVOR NAZISM DESPITE TRIALS

Believe the Defense, Not Prosecution

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LUENEBURG, Germany, Nov. 11—If allied experts believe that the forthcoming trials of Germany's war leaders at Nuernberg will discredit the Nazi system in the eyes of German citizens, they are due for a rude awakening to judge from the reaction of men and women to the mass trial of concentration camp jailers and murderers here.

Nineteen of 20 Germans interviewed yesterday and today expressed concern for the men and women on trial in Lueneburg and Nuernberg. They believe these persons "are facing punishment because Germany lost the war," and not because they took part in mass murder or precipitated the conflict.

Letters Disclose Convictions

Anonymous letters received by members of the court and correspondents here referring to both the Lueneburg and Nuernberg trials, reflect the German conviction that the trials were "organized by the Jews to discredit the Germans," or are "vain attemps to blacken nazism in the eyes of the Germans, which is an impossible task."

The only dissenting voice came from the wife of a Socialist leader who "hoped" that eventually her countrymen would realize that "they must cleanse the community of nazi murderers." She said "the trials help in this task."

The fact that British defense lawyers painstakingly sought to disprove charges filed against the jailers of the Belsen and Auschwitz concentration camps did not convince the Germans that the courts were instituted by the western powers to be fair, even to murderers and their helpers.

Accept Defense Claims as True

They accepted the claims of the defense as the only valid ones and wiped the charges and evidence of the prosecution out of their minds. A railway official voiced his widespread feeling: "Since the court allowed the defense lawyers to say all these things in favor of the accused they must be true, and the charges of the prosecution cannot be so serious."

A teacher confessed, "I've heard the evidence of murder, and it's terrible. I know too many people died in the camps. My mind tell me I should condemn the Nazis, but I cannot tear the Fuehrer out of my heart, even if the Lueneburg and Nuernberg courts find the Nazis guilty."

A rich industrialist who has a big factory in this region quoted the assertions of the defense lawyers in the Lueneburg trial, finding them "much more reasonable than the charges."

AUTOMOBILE STOLEN

Harry O'Connor, 8201 Merrill av., told police yesterday that his 1941 sedan was stolen from his home.

IKE LET DOWN BY ALLIES WHO STILL HIRE NAZIS

BY HENRY WALES
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BERLIN, Germany, Nov. 11—Many weeks ago Gen. Eisenhower made the belated discovery that former members of the Nazi party were working for the American army or military government or even for themselves. He smacked down Gen. Patton for defending the employment of anybody useful in bringing order into chaotic Germany, and issued "Order No. 8."

That provides that any one hinted to have had membership in Hitler's political party is barred from any work except manual labor. At the same time he drew to the attention of the British, French and Russians that they should purge even the lowliest party members from any job except pick and shovel, or the allies would surely lose the peace after winning the war.

Our allies at a control council meeting promptly and unanimously concurred in Eisenhower's sentiments "in principle."

Nobody Does Anything

But in the weeks that intervened neither Russian Marshal Zhukov, French Gen. Joseph P. Koenig, nor the British representative, have followed the American lead in ousting the former National Socialists from all jobs except physical work.

Some American military government officials feel sore at the allies' failure to heed Eisenhower's warning. For weeks, at the control council meetings, they tactfully inquired whether their colleagues had tossed the untouchables into the street; but on every occasion the inquiry was brushed off with the reply that the "matter is being examined."

Today, following the latest meeting, the disillusioned Yanks decided to forget it, and if the allies want to jeopardize the peace by utilizing the Nazis, it's just too bad.

Red Explains Attitude

A Russian colonel explained the Kremlin's attitude: "According to the American propaganda, the brutal Hitlerian regime forced the German people to bend to its will, so why should we persecute the ordinary members, who were terrorized into joining the party?"

The British political member said: "You Americans have an extraordinary idea of punishment—you place these dreadful Nazis in the manual labor category, where they get No. 1 food cards entitling them to the most to eat."

The French commandant made the practical observation: "We get efficiency from certain former Nazis and we find nobody to replace them, and furthermore their coworkers make no complaint. We cannot afford to permit our zone administration to revert to a standstill while training replacements."

CUT NINE HOURS OFF HONOLULU TO TOKYO FLIGHT

HONOLULU, T. H., Nov. 11 (AP)—A shorter route from Honolulu to Tokyo, cutting the flight distance by 1,229 nautical miles and shortening the flying time by nine hours, has been established by the Naval Air Transport service.

The new route, NATS said, is by way of Midway and Marcus Islands and covers 3,720 nautical miles with an hour stopover at each of the island bases. The old route via Johnston Island, Kwajalein, Guam, and Iwo covered 4,949 miles in 29 hours.

Under favorable flying conditions the planes now move from Oakland, Cal., to Tokyo in 31 hours elapsed time. Wake Island, 40 miles off the new route, will be used as an alternate base.

ARNOLD URGES AERIAL MIGHT TO KEEP PEACE

Visions Sky Tactics That Dwarf Present One

team of the army, navy, and air forces working in close coöperation that gives strength to the fighting in peace or in war.

6. To make available to the allied nations organization, in accordance with provisions of its charter, adequate and effective air force contingents for possible use by the security council in maintaining international peace and security.

7. To promote scientific research and development and to maintain a close contact with industry.

10,000 Plane Raid Too

In detailing the war in Europe, the general told of the destruction visited upon German industry by bombing, emphazing the blows to the German aircraft manufacture, oil production, and transportation and transportation facilities. He disclosed that one of the largest bombing operations of the war was carried out Feb. 22 when 10,000 allied planes struck at 200 targets over an area of 250,000 square miles.

The attack, known officially as "operation clarion," marked the end of large scale mobility for the German armies.

"All over Germany bombs exploded on signal control points, marshalings, embankments, bridges, viaducts, round houses, overpasses, and small junctions," Arnold said. "Fighters and fighter-bombers, attacked rolling stock. Immediately, according to Gen. Buhl, war production was cut in half. Gen. Maj. Peters said traffic was reduced 90 per cent."

German Blunders Recited

The general said German blunders contributed materially to allied victory. He listed underestimation of the royal air force, failure to invade England after Dunkerque, underestimation of the temper and power of the United States, failure to appreciate the threat of American heavy bombers, and incappacity to understand soviet determination to resist.

He said Japan made two serious blunders — the failure to invade Hawaii after the attack on Pearl Harbor and the failure of Japan to secure bases in Australia.

The general held that the air forces' contribution in the war against Japan was the decisive factor in victory in that theater.

Strategy Held Vindicated

"The collapse of Japan has vindicated the whole strategic concept of the offensive phase of the Pacific war," he said. "Viewed broadly and simply, that strategy has been to advance air power, both land and carrier based, to the point where the full fury of a crushing attack could be loosed on Japan itself, with the possibility that such attack would bring about the defeat of Japan without invasion, and with the certainty that it would play a vital role in preparation for and coöperation with an invasion. No invasion was necessary."

The general said the atomic bomb did not cause the defeat of Japan, altho it did play a large part in the Jap decision to surrender.

"Japan was defeated already by the cumulative destruction of her capacity to make war," he said.

Japs Proclaim Own Defeat

"In defaulting the final tactical air battles over Japan, the Japanese air force proclaimed its own total defeat. The hoarded planes would certainly have done tremendous damage to our invasion fleet if they had been thrown in in mass suicide attacks, but this hoarding meant that we could deliver unopposed the atomic, or any other bomb, to any point we chose in the Japanese islands.

"The atomic bombs were staggering in their destructive scope, but their unheard-of powers simply underlined the basic truth that our command of the air already had marked out every Japanese war installation or production facility for certain and complete destruction."

Nazi Weapons Described

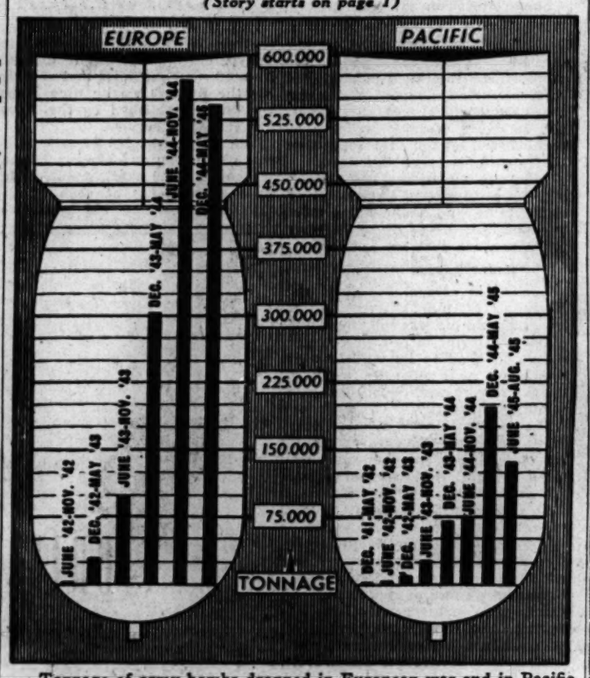

Arnold disclosed that the Nazis were developing many new and deadly weapons "which might have caused us severe losses." One weapon was the Viper, a piloted, rocket propelled missile with a maximum speed of 620 miles an hour, designed to attack aircraft with cannon, rockets, or by ramming. The Viper was shot skyward from a ramp by means of rocket power and the pilot automatically ejected himself before ramming a target.

The report said that in all incendiary attacks on Japan, more than 100,000 tons of bombs were dropped during the 15,000 raids against 66 Japanese cities, including Tokyo. Almost 169 square miles were destroyed or damaged in the 60 cities for which photographic reconnaissance was available, the report said, with more than 100 square miles burned out by fire bombs in the five major cities attacked.

Arnold said jet propulsion is in its infancy despite war developments. His report described the original use of jet propulsion—that of assisting planes to take off with heavy loads on short landing strips, or for a short duration speed boost in emergencies. On such a heavy plane as the B-29, special jet units give it a takeoff boost that makes it leap from the ground, Arnold said.

JAP SHIP TAKES 2,900 CHINESE PRISONERS HOME

FUKUOKA, Japan, Nov. 11 (AP)—A Japanese ship is carrying home 2,900 Chinese prisoners of war and contract laborers whose rioting forced American marines to stand guard at the Chinese camps for a month. American troops rode the trains that brought these Chinese to this northern Kyushu Island harbor from Kyushu and southern Honshu. A detachment of 40 men is accompanying the repatriation ship on the five day trip to Tangku, China. The vessel departed Thursday.

Two Chinese were killed, two others were wounded, and a score of Japanese police and civilians were beaten in disorders which prompted the stationing of leathernecks at each camp.

The Chinese laborers accused Japanese coal mine operators of failing to pay wages promised in contracts signed at Shanghai last year.

Check and Double-check

Have you ever noticed that whenever two trains pass, freight or passenger, a trainman will signal, with hand or lantern, to the trainman at the rear of the other train?

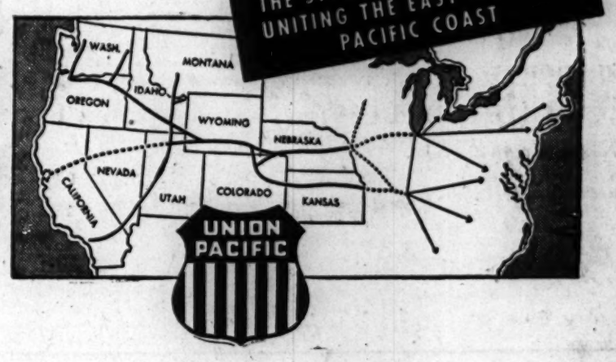

This is not merely a friendly gesture. Each man makes a careful visual inspection of the other's train while it passes. Then he signals that all is well or that he has spotted some defect.

This is just one phase of a continuous "check and double check" system. All Union Pacific trains are thoroughly inspected before leaving terminal points . . . all station agents check each train as it passes. Even track crews, along the right of way, are alert to spot any sign of trouble.

Thus, Union Pacific trains are checked time and time again as they transport passengers and freight over the Strategic Middle Route, uniting the East with the mid-West and the Pacific coast.

ANGLO-POLISH TALKS SNAGGED ON TROOPS, DEBT

Report British Warning on Broken Pledges

BY JAMES SLOAN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Nov. 11—Almost half the Polish troops remaining in this country want to go home, but the Polish provisional government is showing considerable reluctance to let them do so. The soviet sponsored Warsaw government also does not want to pay the debts the Polish forces have incurred since they came to Britain in June, 1940.

These attitudes are responsible for difficulties that have arisen in talks here between Polish Foreign Minister Wincenty Rzymowski and British Foreign Minister Ernest Bevin, according to sources close to the British government. The Polish stand on the financial problem reportedly caused Britain to decline to release the Polish gold reserves and assets in this country.

Want Return of Troops' Pay

It is said Britain considers as a lend-lease gift all equipment, food, and maintenance supplied the Polish forces serving under the succession of emigre governments, but considers as a debt, payable by the Polish government, all pay allowances, pensions, and costs of civil government advanced to the Polish regimes.

In addition, the Warsaw Polish government is expected to be responsible for the war loan granted in September, 1939. Warsaw, however, insists it will not accept responsibility for the financial liabilities of any previous regimes, so Britain locked the door on Polish finances here.

Other sources said 22,000 of the 70,000 Poles still in Britain have applied for repatriation.

Kept Out of Work.

Many Poles were invalided, but they are said to be unable to get work due to the British trade union's stand against foreigners. Polish deserters, of whom 100 are officially listed, are reported enlisting in black market gangs when their meager finances run out.

The British government is said to have advised Warsaw repeatedly that it is not observing the Moscow agreement which guaranteed full freedom to political parties and newspapers, while the continued expulsion of Germans from the Oder and Neisse areas violates the Potsdam agreement.

Issue of New Money Skyrockets Food

BY LARRY RUE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, Nov. 11—Disorganization of economic life by the communist rule in Bulgaria and Yugoslavia, requisitioning of homes and apartments belonging to the middle classes, price control, and inflation are causing no end of misery and suffering, letters from residents there to friends here say.

An American woman writes from Belgrade: "This place is so sad and disappointing I do not know where to start. There is no food and I have never opened so many cans in my life. It is the same situation everywhere."

"Ceiling prices are so low the peasants no longer bother to bring food into the city," writes the wife of one of Marshal Tito's officials.

Lodgers But No Rent

"People are allowed only one room in their own homes or flats," writes a Serbian woman. "We have lodgers but they do not pay rent."

Food costs are way up since the government issued new dinars [prewar value about 19 cents] at the rate of five new for 100 old. On this exchange butter, which used to cost 200 dinars a kilo [about 2 1-5 lbs.] is now 400, another correspondent informs.

Conditions in Sofia seem to be about the same. A correspondent quotes a price list for October showing that prices for bread have been increased four times; the cost of a suit of clothes has advanced from 3,000 levs [about $36] to 35,000 [about $422] and with steep increases in the cost of eggs, milk, flour, coffee, potatoes, and coal.

An old servant writes from Belgrade: "I would go and see your friends more often if they would not fill my ears with so many troubles and sorrows. I can help no one. I am not an American, only a servant that nobody will understand. They are afraid to take their troubles to the American embassy."

As for her new mistress, she said: "They have sold everything—even their personal belongings and now they do not know where to turn for money for their factory is closed and their home confiscated. You asked about the White Russians who took refuge here after the revolution. They were the first to be shot when the Russians came in."

CHICAGO Becomes a WORLD Port

FOR years the people of the Midwest of necessity traveled to an eastern seaport in order to board a steamship for Europe.

Result: Chicago thought of itself as an inland city, separated by almost a thousand land-miles from transatlantic "starting points."

Chicago is on the threshold of a new era! As a coterminal for three transatlantic airlines, Chicago no longer will be at a disadvantage to coastal cities. Pan American, TWA and American Airlines System will make Chicago a world port in the near future. Chicago's new geographical status will mean greater national and international importance for every industry, business and profession in Chicago.

Millions of business, professional and vacation travelers from thousands of cities in many overseas nations are directly connected with Chicago by these transatlantic airlines. Wonderful, new vistas of industrial, cultural and friendly relationships are thus opened up for Chicago.

Our company seeks to help expand Chicago's radius of influence. Through air transportation, Chicago can embrace transatlantic nations tomorrow as effectively as it serves its neighboring states.

TYRANNY'S ARSENAL

The British are carrying out the pledge in the united nations charter to assist colonial peoples in developing self-government by killing Javanese who have had the temerity to seek it. The British are doing the killing because the Dutch, who claim Java, haven't the force with which to do it.

The British general in Java says he is going to use all the forces at his disposal—land, sea, and air—to suppress the Indonesian independence movement. Among the planes which have been strafing Javanese are American Thunderbolts.

Their pilots are members of the R. A. F. Participation of Americans will have to wait for the senate to ratify the pending bill giving Delegate Stettinius to the world security council the power to sacrifice American lives without the consent of congress. Wall street, which has some concessions for the exploitation of colonial peoples and would like to have more, expects its son, Mr. Stettinius, to be obliging in this matter.

News correspondents' reports from Java verify what the striped pants brigade in the state department was afraid to admit the other day—namely, that lend-lease, once hailed as the arsenal of democracy, has in fact become the arsenal of tyranny. The British and Dutch are using the weapons we gave them to maintain tyranny in the Pacific.

The state department found questions on this subject so embarrassing the other day that its spokesman could only scream, "Contemptible." It is he, of course, who is contemptible, and his associates, our dilettante diplomats. They surround and utterly control poor little Busybody Byrnes from Spartanburg, S. C. There is no American foreign policy, only a pull and haul between the tools of Britain and the tools of Russia, competing for the right to use the strength of America for the selfish interests of their sponsors.

THE LIFE AND TIMES OF B. O. PLENTY

The last we saw of B. O. Plenty he was tied hand and foot to a plank and was being carried by the current of an underground sewer to the sea.

Not too much is known about the early career of this remarkable man. He was apparently born about the time that Lazzari and Trevisan began to sing "The Barber of Seville" for the Chicago Opera company. He adopted eating tobacco about the period that Ralph Mulford's celebrated character, Hopalong Cassidy, first began to achieve some of his more notable successes, such as scoring on the hub of a wagon wheel at five paces.

We were first introduced to B. O. Plenty as he was tilling his broad acres with a tractor. Evidently he was a progressive farmer. He was a bachelor, contented with his lot, even if the coffee pot was not washed too often, and the ragged confusion of his whiskers indicated that he had no compelling desire to commend himself to the fair sex. He probably would have gone on collecting his checks from the AAA if Breathless Mahoney, in full flight from Dick Tracy, had not tottered into his field with a knitting basket full of long green.

There's an Eye in every garden and so it was here. B. O. Plenty suddenly was swept away by the lust of money and other forces beyond his control. We saw him getting in deeper and deeper all the time, until finally he tried to do Breathless in with the cord from a newspaper file in the public library.

B. O. Plenty, now in control of the roll, carelessly went off to the gilded saloons to spend the $50,000. Naturally, no good came of this. Itchy got on B. O.'s trail and snatched away the money, with the results to B. O. already made known. Breathless, having forgiven her mother for plugging her with a pearl handled gat, went off to repent in the women's reformatory, and Mrs. Mahoney redeemed past errors by stopping a bullet Itchy had intended for Dick Tracy.

One may survey and compute, as Mr. Churchill says, the somewhat complicated series of events which brought B. O. Plenty to his pass and which produced a none too happy ending for Mrs. Mahoney and her daughter. There are those who say that Mr. Gould's art errs on the side of exaggeration, and that the various pains, anxieties, and discomforts inflicted on his characters possess little relation to reality.

But fell as one may consider the fate of B. O. Plenty, it might have been worse. Mr. Gould might have let him meet his just deserts in the cataclysmic explosion of an atomic bomb. Itchy might have dispatched this amiable old character by resort to a V-2 buzz bomb, with which the Germans were wont to pay their respects to the worthy and unworthy alike. B. O. might have been immolated with a flame thrower. He could have been tied to a stake while Itchy opened up on him with an 81 mm. mortar, model M-3, 1942. B-29s could have rained bombs on him and P-51s could have strafed him at the same time.

Mr. Gould's consideration spared him all this. B. O. merely was sent drifting on a plank thru the sewer after suffering a few trifling burns from lighted matches applied to his toes. The triumphs of civilization were held in abeyance. What Maj. De Seversky has called the science of demolition was not invoked.

Outside the comic strips men have learned to dispose of one another by the most modern means. In the atomic age "Dick Tracy" is a quiet backwater beside the rushing stream of progress toward the extinction of the race. Its characters seem by comparison to be as innocent as figures in a fairy story. B. O. Plenty was the product of a gentler time.

THE NAVY'S ROLE

Lt. Gen. Doolittle's testimony before a senate committee regarding the future roles of the army, the navy, and the air forces was impressive. Secretary Forrestal's note of protest hardly can be regarded as an effective answer.

The question at issue is the future organization of the nation's defenses. Gen. Doolittle favors unification in a single department in the belief that this will work against the mossbacks in the older branches and in favor of realistic preparation and training.

Gen. Doolittle remarked that the battleship was obsolescent for 20 years and obsolete for 10, but we continued to build them. Even the carrier, he believes, has passed the peak of its usefulness in view of the growing range of the land-based plane and the vulnerability of any ship. His aim is so to organize the nation's fighting strength that the exponents of such more or less outmoded methods of fighting will not remain in control.

Obviously, the danger which he sees is real. The navy's true role in the last war was to provide a passenger service for aviators. That is what its carriers were for. Its cruisers and destroyers had, as their principal duty, the protection of the carriers. The navy's battleships and lighter vessels were employed in the attack on island positions whose usefulness lay in their air fields. In truth, the old fashioned navy [the submarines excepted] was an auxiliary of the air arm. A lot of naval officers wish it weren't so, but it is; the old fashioned ships today are merely yachts for naval officers.

The role of the army also has undergone change. Its principal usefulness in the future will lie in holding air bases and in protecting uranium deposits, but even for these purposes the army should be much more a flying force than a walking or motoring force.

Gen. Doolittle is encountering the same kind of stubborn and angry opposition that met Gen. Mitchell when he tried to spare the country some costly mistakes. This time, it is to be hoped, the good advice will not be rejected.

ATOMIC CONTROL

Most of the leading scientists who worked upon the development of the atomic bomb now have joined in a declaration drafted last month at Rye, N. Y., criticizing provisions of the Johnson-May bill for the control of atomic energy. The bill, as originally submitted, was objectionable to the scientists principally because of its implied threat to free scientific investigation and because of the broad censorship powers to be granted the proposed atomic energy commission.

"The bill," said the Rye statement, "creates a commission with autonomous powers not only in the area of atomic military research but in scientific, medical, and industrial fields." It is clear that any such body as contemplated, exempted of responsibility to congress, might become more powerful than government itself.

Since these complaints were first made, the house military affairs committee has effected some improvements in the bill. Private experimentation, for instance, is authorized so long as a sufficient amount of atomic energy is not released to constitute a national hazard. The amended bill, however, does not meet other fundamental objections.

Everybody and his brother has tried to chisel in on the credit for developing the atomic bomb. Ambitious army generals who want to establish themselves in posts of life time importance talk with a pretense of authority on aspects of atomic fission which they are hardly capable of understanding. The administration has boasted of Mr. Roosevelt's willingness to "gamble" 2 billion dollars on the bomb, as if he had a record of financial prudence that would make that expenditure startling. Atomic studies had progressed to a point where the bomb was a safe bet—much safer, for example, than projects to harness the tides at Passamaquoddy.

Just as the achievement of the bomb depended upon the efforts of competent scientists and not upon those of the army, a government commission, or government itself, so further progress in the atomic field depends upon the work of such men, freed of unreasonable government interference. They should be granted, as they ask, sufficient materials under proper safeguards to make independent research possible. Secrecy regulations should be applicable only to design features and laboratory tests pertaining to the plant and to details of the atomic bomb itself; otherwise, the free exchange of scientific information should be permitted.

The potentialities of atomic energy for evil have already been realized. Its constructive possibilities await fulfillment. Progress will come from trained men at home in physics and chemistry laboratories, not from politicians or generals on the make. The role of congress is to establish safeguards to maintain secrecy in the military applications of atomic energy, to encourage the fundamental research necessary to the maintenance of American leadership in the atomic field, and to prescribe the regulations under which atomic energy may be put to industrial use. That is as far as control need go.

COURTS MARTIAL NEAR SCANDAL

[Illinois State Journal]

A fine scandal is brewing in the army as reports on the military brand of justice reach the public. There seems to be no doubt that justice for enlisted men is of a different brand from that for officers.

Recent disclosures of cases involving Negro troops already have led to practical vindication of at least a portion of those accused. Now comes additional news that outrages the sense of justice of any civilized person. When an enlisted man in Nice, France, became drunk and struck the mayor of the town, he was sentenced to 20 years. When an officer in Calcutta shot a sleeping sergeant for an alleged affront to his wife, he received five years, yet the same court martial sentenced an enlisted man to 20 years for hitting a military police officer with his fist. Maybe he, too, should have used a gun. Similar inequalities of justice are reported in the navy.

Surely Gen. Marshall and Adm. King, as heads of the two branches of service, should look into this situation. If they have any hopes of maintaining any semblance of morale in their present forces they had better start cleaning house.

PARALLEL, NOT DEADLY

On Oct. 11 this column disagreed with the prophets of "the atomic era" in a few observations to which nobody paid any attention. Thus spake the skeptic:

"The common elements which are the building material of the planet earth, are composed of extremely stable atoms whose energy appears to have been safely imprisoned for eternity. If this were not so, the world would have disintegrated long before its alleged owner, Mankind, appeared on the premises."

We went on to say that the dreaded bombs were loaded with artificial atoms, produced in the laboratory; that the minerals from which these atoms were created are rare; and 140 parts of uranium, when secured by elaborate processes, provided only one part of its explosive twin, called uranium 235. From these facts we derived a hope that atomic bombs would be scarce even if the human race should take an idiot's delight in making them.

In the November issue of the Atlantic Monthly, Albert Einstein, a physicist who commands universal attention, speaks along the same line:

"To give any estimate of when atomic energy can be applied to constructive purposes is impossible. What is known now is only how to use a fairly large quantity of uranium."

"Nor can one predict," Einstein continues, "when materials more common than uranium can be used to supply atomic energy. Presumably all materials used for this purpose will be among the heavier elements of high atomic weight. Those elements are relatively scarce, because of their lesser stability. Most of these materials may have already disappeared thru radio-active disintegration."

FOR BEAUTY'S CHILD

And now November—and the brutal wind
Has snatched the last bright blossom from your hand.
You look where, lately, golden pear trees groaned
With ripened fruit, and russet apples sunned
Along the bending bough and see ungleaned
The blackened harvest rotting on the ground;
You whisper, "Surely this is Beauty's end."
Where bright October got her mortal wound
From Winter's blade, the ground is crimson-stained.
But do not grieve: Beauty is not confined
To any season; no day yet has dawned
That was not somehow touched by Beauty's wand.

When It's Pawpaw Time in Indiana

Around my desk is the fragrance of pawpaws from southern Indiana, which conjures up the time Dad and three pals borrowed Meyer's grocery rig to go nutting. Our women folks fixed fried chicken and such, and a "pony" of beer [four gallons, $1] was picked up at the brewery.

In Nine Mile woods three fence rails were lashed into a battering ram to jar down bull hickories in skull stinging showers. Smaller shagbarks were gotten with clubs.

Walnuts were spread on the bare ground and the unhitched horse led over them to crush the hulls. A sheet spread under shaken beech trees was quickly covered with the small nuts. I happened upon a few pawpaw trees and uncovered some half-ripened fruit in the long grass.

Then a coffee pot was set on the fire, a wooden faucet was hammered in the keg, and tin cups of lager went round with the food. Soon Dad and his pals were cutting capers like school kids; then they sang marching songs of their regiment, the 169th Indiana, and Negro melodies learned in Kentucky and Tennessee bivouacs. Back home, Dad put the pawpaws in a bureau drawer to ripen and let me believe that they were the prize find of the trip.

CHEERFUL LITTLE EARFUL

She never, of course, really meant to give pain,
But she always was sure it was going to rain
If you'd planned on a picnic and wanted to go,
And she smugly delighted in telling you so.
If you had a new frock and the color was right,
She feared it might fade when exposed to the light.
If your daughter was out with a handsome new beau
She always had doubts as to where they might go.
If your husband was late getting home to his dinner,
She'd speak of a friend who was known as a sinner.
She knew all the answers, and what was far worse,
She couldn't resist quoting chapter and verse.
I know a nice place for solicitous ladies—
Populous, warm, and so permanent . . . Hades!

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks will answer questions of service men, veterans, and their dependents by mail if stamped envelope is sent to 435 N. Michigan av. The Tribune's veterans' bureau, 1 S. Dearborn st., Superior 0200, gives personal interviews.]

T. P. M. writes: "When I was discharged I did not make a claim for compensation because of malaria. I was told I could do this later. Can you tell me where to file the claim?"

File your claim with the veterans' administration at Hines, Ill., or with the downtown office, 327 S. La Salle st. Use V. A. form 526. The Friend of the Yanks will supply the form if an addressed, stamped envelope is sent with your request.

Mrs. B. J. C. writes: "I have a son who has been in service since 1942. He has spent the last 18 months in the Hawaiian Islands. Last month he was sent to Japan, presumably for occupation duty, for the next six months. Is it true that a mother's allotment is increased when a son is sent overseas? I was granted B-1 support just before he was sent overseas. I am receiving $79 a month for myself and two minor children. Am I now entitled to another increase?"

Allowances for dependents are the same whether the service man is in the continental United States or overseas. If you are getting $79 a month for yourself and two minor children that is the maximum payable to you. When your son left the United States for overseas duty his pay was increased 20 per cent. He will continue to draw the 20 per cent increase until the day he returns to the United States.

ACUTE RHINITIS—THE COMMON COLD

THE old nose is a bear for punishment and, in some persons, is so sensitive that a slight draft will occasion a watery secretion. An invasion by a micro-organism is all that is necessary to cause swelling of the membranes and stoppages of the passageway, thus initiating a few days of general discomfort.

The filtrable virus is a common offender in the ordinary cold, but this "bug" is not long lived for soon the streptococcus of staphylococcus will take over and finish the job. Sometimes the germs come from the tonsils or sinuses, particularly during periods of fatigue or lowered resistance.

At first there is a sense of dryness and tickling. The eyes itch and chilliness, sneezing, headache, and fullness between the eyes are the rule. This is followed by sniffing and a thin discharge. The blockage is now complete and usually more marked on one side. Within a few days the secretions become thicker and, with the release of the purulent material, breathing is easier altho a dull, heavy sensation may persist. Unless extension to the sinuses, throat, or bronchial tubes occurs the disorder subsides in four days to a week. In children, ear complications may ensue, but judging from the frequency of colds in youngsters, the hearing apparatus is spared most of the time.

Contact with victims and individual peculiarities are the important causative factors. Sitting or lying in a draft produces that telltale irritation in the schnozzle. Others are plagued when the temperature changes suddenly, especially from warm to cold. Dietary indiscretions may be responsible. Loss of sleep leads to increased susceptibility and those who catch cold only under these conditions learn that they must obtain more rest.

Some boast of never being bothered with colds; others are afflicted once or twice a year. Now and then a man or woman is encountered who always has nasal difficulty. Here, chronic rhinitis may be associated with infected tonsils, sinus trouble, or polyps. These sufferers complain of obstruction and dripping into the throat. Possibilities to investigate are allergy, irritation from dust and smoke, anatomical defects, and the routine use of nose drops.

In the treatment of a coryza, simple measures are always best. A few days of rest at home may be all that is necessary. In addition, this will keep the microbes on their own bases. The local application of heat via either warm, moist towels or the infra-red lamp, will prove comforting. Salicylates ease headache and nose drops containing one of the silver preparations are often of value. Blowing may spread the infection unless the mouth is kept open during the act. Many physicians question the effectiveness of sulfa locally claiming that it does not reach the source and may harm the membranes.

Drugs containing ephedrine and other constrictor ingredients encourage temporary shrinkage and promote drainage. Long continued use of these substances, however, may be followed by secondary congestion. The reaction may be misinterpreted and the self-medication maintained, thus setting up a vicious cycle. When it is discontinued, healing proceeds normally. Those with persistent nose trouble should bear this in mind, for the medicine itself may act as an irritant.

YES, INDEED

J. W. writes: Does sugar appear in the urine in any disorder besides diabetes?

REPLY

Yes, traces may be excreted after the ingestion of carbohydrates. The condition may also be noted in renal glycosuria, after the administration of certain drugs, in poisoning, various endocrine disturbances, grief or fright, and in gout.

IF NEEDED

D. T. writes: Is niacin helpful in clearing a bad skin?

REPLY

This depends on the type of blemish present. If the lesions resemble pellagra, there may be a vitamin B deficiency, in which case supplying the lacking factor would help.

FAT AND FORTY

Mrs. H. W. writes: Why do women have a tendency to put on weight during the menopause?

REPLY

The glandular disturbance is probably responsible. However, obesity can be overcome to a great extent by exercise and curbing the appetite.

STONE FORMATION

G. T. writes: Can one develop gallstones after the gall bladder has been removed?

REPLY

Not in the gall bladder but tiny pebbles may form along the remaining duct which leads from the liver to the small intestine.

Armistice Day 1945

[Back in the hills of Italy in the bitter cold of last January 2¼ American soldiers who had forged ahead of the main company took shelter from approaching Nazis in a farmhouse. A German shell landed in the center of the house. Of the 2¼ men, three lived. The following poem was written in a hospital in Italy by one of the three. "It is not a very pretty poem," wrote the person who sent it here, "but the war was not very pretty, and it would be a good idea for people to realize a little more that because a number of signatures are affixed to a surrender, everything ruined is not automatically cleared up."]

Can I forget the chunk of iron I stopped?
The way the jagged needles of its edge
Ripped in and tore and dug and burned?
Or the stealthy silence, so secure,
That prefaced screaming hell?
Can I forget the men beside me—
Jack, his brains red globules on the dusty floor,
Bob raging in those last minutes of despair
"God damn those sons of ——!"
How can I forget?

Can I forget that shrieking scream
With the falling dust blinding us all,
And the crazing panic to escape
Only to be held by bricks and beams
And rubble five feet high over us,
And the spasms and retching agony,
Tht screams of terror and prayers for swift death,
And the Hail Mary and Our Father broken only by cries of pain.
And I sitting and looking and hearing
With my own legs pinned down like a beetle's?

But it ended and I guess everything ends finally.
The dying ended in a hospital between sheets
And the dead were thrown on trucks.
And what do you think my dreams are about, brother?

An American just out of khaki and Berlin tells of the two Russian soldiers who broke into an American depot in Berlin and were promptly shot and killed by American guards. Had this happened to American soldiers, he observed, there would have been tremendous repercussions. A worried American M. P. lieutenant picked up the two bodies, placed them in a truck, and drove them to the Russian commandant. Here, very apologetically, he explained matters. "Well," said the Russian, with a wave of his hand, "you shot them. Now you have to bury them."

Genesis

If you ever get around any "old" marines, meaning those who once in the period between wars had the China station duty, you'll hear perhaps of the wildest argument ever held in a Shanghai bar. Both American marines and British marines were there, and they naturally were bragging. The American marines told how they raided New Providence and the Bahamas during the American revolution, and the British told how they were with Nelson at Trafalgar. Finally some one said that it made no difference; all thru history there had been marines. They began to cite them: The Phoenicians, who were amphibious warriors; the Argonauts, who went with Jason to find the Golden Fleece; Triton, who was a member of Neptune's landing party. At last a really old marine spoke up, his voice dry and bored. "All recent stuff," he said. "If you'll go to the public library and get a volume called 'History of the Marines' and turn to page 69, about midships on the port side you'll find an asterisk. That asterisk will direct your attention to a footnote which reads: 'About this time the world was created.'"

Dilemma Not New

Uncle Ike, having lost his teeth, was candidly upset [C. F. M. bulletins]. "When I talk, I expose my deficiencies," he complained. "Fiddlesticks!" was Aunt Maria's comment. "You always did when you talked, no matter how many teeth you had."

HE CAN STILL LAUGH

Chicago, Nov. 7—I am a veteran of 33 months in that rotten lowland called New Guinea [crying]. I was discharged about four months ago. [Joyful groan.] I came home for the first time in about five years.

I'll not begin with: "What is wrong with the world today?" We all know, they're nuts!

When I walked into the home shack I found the leading lady had flown the coop. My brother in the navy; my sister running around till all hours of the night with every Tom, Dick, and Edward, my week-end uncle who has been here for years, still griping about his ulcers, and my father sick in bed over the whole affair.

About three or four weeks later the landlord left a note in the mail box—a "get out" notice with "double time" written in the lower left hand corner. He should have changed it to double cross.

The landlord we had when I left recently sold this termite nest to the one we have now. This landlord suddenly, after 20 years, decides, with the housing shortage and all, he would take his wife from his mother's house and provide her with the home of her dreams. What dreams that woman must have!

The country doesn't owe me anything special for fighting this lousy war, but I figured I had a home left anyway.

Who do you know who has a one or two room kitchenette, steam heat, north, furnished or unfurnished, for rent, to take father and son with no kids, no pets, no women, and no sense—if I had any I'd have stayed in New Guinea with the natives.

$1,920 FOR FILING CLERKS

Chicago, Nov. 6—I have tears in my eyes when I read about the plight of the federal employes, and where did they get the idea that their salaries are below the level of those in private industry. Isn't it true that these employes took these jobs for the salary and the security the job has to offer?

Let me quote an instance in my office. During the war some seven or eight girls left to take government jobs and to work 48 hours a week. Today after 2½ years in these jobs their salary for 40 hours is $1,920 per year. That is more than some of us are getting who stuck to our civilian jobs. These girls are doing the simplest kind of filing, and, believe me, for that kind of work and the short period of service, they are doing pretty well. What about the people who never went on 48 hours? They never did get in on the lush overtime. Living expenses also went up for them, and with lower salaries.

MARY MARTIN

WHILE JOBS VANISH

Chicago, Oct. 15—Please print part of a boy's letter from Okinawa:

"I'm stuck here, 8,000 miles from home, and there isn't any indication in the world that I am going home. There is a mob of high point men and 38 year old men still sitting here on Okinawa, waiting for transportation. Of course, when the navy pulls its fleet into 'Frisco and New York, to put on a Navy day show, to boost the civilian morale, I guess we are supposed to cheer them on. The war is over and so is patriotism.

"We're stuck here until the people back home wake up to the fact that wishing isn't getting us home. First come the celebrations, and then, of course, the German and Japanese prisoners must be taken back to their homeland. Then they will drydock the ships for a while for a new paint job, and fixing the water pipe in the scullery. By then six months will have elapsed and many of us won't give a hoot if we get home or not. What for? So we can stand around and sell pencils? The jobs will be taken by then and we'll be surplus men."

ROMANIAN RIOT INQUIRY CALLS 130 ROYALISTS

Liberal Leader Is to Face Military Court

BUCHAREST, Romania, Nov. 11 (AP)—The Bucharest military court today ordered 130 royalists—including the head of Romania's liberal party—to appear Monday for questioning in connection with the king's birthday riots of last Thursday in which at least 11 and possibly 20 persons were killed.

The communist newspaper Scanteia published the court's proclamation ordering the interrogation of Constantine Bratianu, 80 year old Liberal party leader, and 129 others to determine their "responsibility for the birthday demonstration."

The soviet-sponsored government of Premier Petru Groza charged Friday in an official bulletin that Bratianu and Juliu Maniu, veteran head of the Peasant party, were responsible for the planning of the birthday celebration and held it in defiance of government orders. The government called the demonstration an "anarchial moment."

Fire on 40,000

Government troops fired on between 40,000 and 50,000 people in the square in front of the royal palace as the climax to the demonstration of loyalty toward 24 year old King Mihai.

Among others ordered to appear before the court were three other liberal party personalities and several second and third rank members of Maniu's party.

The court ordering the investigation has tried numerous political cases under various past Romanian regimes. Several times it has been accused of intolerance and terroristic methods.

Maniu and Tohari Georgescu, communist ministers of the interior, engaged in a sharp exchange only last night over responsibility for the disorders at the royal palace.

Party Rivals Clash

Georgescu, at a press conference, delivered a long discourse against the Liberal and Peasant parties.

In an interview a few hours earlier Maniu called the government "assassins" and said Georgescu warned the Peasant party general secretary the day before the demonstrations that there be "bloodshed."

Maniu disclaimed responsibility for the manifestation and said it was a spontaneous demonstration of the people's feeling for the king.

"More than 1,000 are now under arrest and have been severely beaten," Maniu declared. Georgescu said "about 300" had been arrested.

The minister of the interior said "the two parties printed 10,000 manifestoes calling on the people to demonstrate" and "orders were given that they should arm themselves with rocks and pistols."

Asked Cancellation

He said he called in the general secretaries of the two parties the day before the demonstrations and asked them to cancel them. Their failure to act, he said, resulted in "bands of assassins" attacking headquarters of the workers confederation and the ministry of interior.

Georgescu said the first shots came from the crowd.

Maniu said:

"The best proof was that the crowd was unarmed and that no arms were found on the killed, wounded, or prisoners."

GIRL, 13, KILLED; 2 SEIZE DRIVER AT POINT OF GUN

Dolores Beck, 13, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Beck of 5440 Higgins av., was struck and killed yesterday by a truck driver who was stopped three blocks away by two hunters with shotguns. The accident occurred after the child alighted from a street car at Milwaukee and Higgins av.

Ernest Randall

Jack Abernathey of 706 Schubert av. and Raymond Thompson of 3915 N. Seeley av., who were driving to a hunting ground, saw the accident and followed the truck driver, Ernest Randall of Colfax, Wis. When Randall refused to stop, one of the hunters pointed a shotgun out the window of the automobile and shouted: "Pull over or we'll shoot."

Explains Why He Fled

Randall told Irving Park police that he attempted to flee because he was frightened. He said he did not know it was illegal to pass a standing street car. He and Donald Schuster, 22, of Burlington, Wis., a passenger in the truck, were held for the inquest today at 4559 Milwaukee av.

Paul Damgaard, 2, of 1653 N. Richmond st., and Arthur Klinger, 42, of Morris, Grundy county, were killed yesterday when two automobiles driven by hunters collided at the intersection of state route 47 and a rural road at North Plato, 10 miles west of Elgin in Kane county. Klinger was a passenger in a car driven by his son-in-law, Everett Corlew, 22, of Morris, who suffered minor cuts.

Others in Car Hurt

Nis T. Terp, 55, of 2416 Irving Park rd., driver of the car in which the Damgaard child was riding, suffered a fractured back and pelvis. The child's father, John, 39, suffered broken ribs; his mother, Gertrude, 39, suffered a broken jaw and serious shock, and another child, John Jr., 8, suffered severe cuts.

The injured were taken to St. Joseph's hospital, Elgin. Terp and Damgaard planned to hunt near Sycamore, De Kalb county. Terp's car was struck broadside and hurled 25 feet over a wire fence.

COUNTY POLICE RAID CASINO IN REAR OF TAVERN

Forty men and women in the back room of Quinn's tavern, 12500 Archer av., in Oakwood Grove, near Lemont, were sent scurrying from the place in confusion yesterday in a gambling raid by county highway police led by Lt. Max Ramelow and Sgt. John Kringas from the Bedford Park station.

With axes, the police smashed a dice table, a poker table, two blackjack tables, and a roulette wheel, and confiscated other equipment, including a new mahogany dice table which Ramelow said was worth $850.

Herman Quinn, 50, owner of the tavern, was charged with operating a gambling place. Chicago and Northern Illinois

A MARKET

UNEQUALLED IN SIZE AND DIVERSITY

This area has a population of about five million.

Unlike a region which is characterized by one or two dominant types of industry, Chicago and Northern Illinois industry is highly diversified. In addition, this area is a world hub of agricultural and commercial activity. These factors combine to provide an economic balance that tends to cushion fluctuations in business.

What do we mean—industrial diversification?

There are 10,000 manufacturing plants in Chicago and Northern Illinois. They make everything from tractors to toothpaste, from abrasive wheels to X-ray equipment—a total annual production even before the war of almost 4½ billion dollars. 86% of all types of U. S. industries are represented in this area.

Why is Chicago and Northern Illinois so important in the nation's agriculture?

It is because this area is situated in the center of the rich mid-west agricultural valley, unquestionably the greatest food producing area in the world. This, in turn, has made Chicago and Northern Illinois an outstanding center for food processing and distribution.

Here is also an area that creates tremendous buying power of its own—the goods and services for living that people here want and must have.

What do we mean—tremendous buying power?

We mean, for instance, that this year the total income of people living here reached a rate of 7½ billion dollars annually, that this income is of course reflected in buying power, and that buying power created retail trade in the Chicago and Northern Illinois area exceeding 2 billion dollars in 1943. More than that is the fact that the Chicago area is an outstanding center of wholesale trade—another 5¼ billion dollar market. One building alone—the Merchandise Mart—attracts 400,000 buyers a year. These are some of the reasons why Chicago is nationally known as the "Great Central Market".

What does all this mean to you?

It means that if you are contemplating location or expansion of an industry that could benefit by participation in a market unequalled in size and diversity, the Chicago and Northern Illinois area deserves your thorough investigation. We shall be glad to assist your study of this area and all it holds for postwar industry.

Industries locating in this area have these outstanding advantages

Railroad Center of the United States • World Airport • Inland Waterways
Geographical Center of U. S. Population • Great Financial Center
The "Great Central Market" • Food Producing and Processing Center
Leader in Iron and Steel Manufacturing • Good Labor Relations Record
2,500,000 Kilowatts of Power • Tremendous Coal Reserves
Abundant Gas and Oil • Good Government • Good Living

This is the fourth of a series of advertisements on the industrial, agricultural and residential advantages of Chicago and Northern Illinois. For more information, communicate with the

JEROME KERN DIES AT 60 IN N. Y. HOSPITAL

End Comes 6 Days After Composer Collapses

New York, Nov. 11 (AP)—Jerome Kern, composer, 60, died today in Doctors' hospital. Dr. Harold T. Hyman, his physician, said death was due to a cerebral thrombosis. Kern had been in an oxygen tent the last three days.

Jerome Kern

The musician collapsed on Park av. in midtown Manhattan Nov. 5 and was taken unconscious to City hospital. Later he was removed to Doctors' hospital. His wife, Eva, and their daughter, Betty, were at his bedside.

SONGS SWEPT NATION

Dean of American composers, Jerome Kern for the last 30 years was the leading melodist of American romance, producing contagious tunes which swept the nation and kept it perennially humming, whistling, and beating time to his music.

There was the immortal "Ol' Man River," which he wrote in 1928 for "Show Boat" and considered his best work, and "The Last Time I Saw Paris," which had a tremendous vogue after the fall of France, but his unfailing hold on the American public was thru the love songs which featured his musical productions.

The Kern vogue had its beginning in August, 1914, when a first night Broadway audience heard Julia Sanderson sing, "They Didn't Believe Me," in "The Girl from Utah."

World War I. Favorite

Soldiers went away to World War I. in 1917 singing "Till the Clouds Roll By," and "I Want to Be an Old Fashioned Wife," from "O Boy." In the early '20s there was Marilyn Miller in "Sally," singing "Look for the Silver Lining," and later in "Sunny," demanding, "Who Stole My Heart Away?"

Thruout the '30s Kern kept up his parade of musical hits. In 1931 it was "The Night Was Made for Love," from "The Cat and the Fiddle," and two years later "I've Told Every Little Star" was the hit song of "Music in the Air." In 1934 he wrote the music for "Roberta," with its unforgettable "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes."

After 1934, when Kern moved from New York to Hollywood, he wrote more for the movies and less for the stage. His last Broadway show was "Pretty Warm for May," in 1939, which included the songs, "All the Things You Are," and "Heaven in My Arms." All told he wrote the music for nearly 50 plays.

Wrote "Isle of Capri"

Among the notable Jerome Kern films were "Show Boat," "Sweet Adeline," "Swingtime," "When You're in Love," "One Night in the Tropics," "You Were Never Lovelier," "Cover Girl," and "Can't Help Singing."

Others among the more popular Kern songs are "Isle of Capri," "I Know and She Knows," "I Won't Dance," "Make Believe," "She Didn't Say Yes," "Tell Me That You Love Me," "The Touch of Your Hand," "Dearly Beloved," and "Long Ago and Far Away."

Kern was not a graduate of Tin Pan Alley, and never a composer of what Tin Pan Alley calls popular music. All his music was written for musical productions.

Shunned Spotlight

He avoided public appearances thruout his career, altho in World War II. he overcame a natural shyness to visit army camps and navy bases with U. S. O. shows and play the piano to entertain service men. He was a fastidious dresser, with owlish eyes which gleamed behind tortoise shell glasses. In his later years he had a shock of wavy white hair.

He was born Jan. 27, 1885, in New York, and was taught to play the piano by his mother. In Newark High school he wrote the music for school shows and directed them. He took courses at the New York College of Music and later studied composition in England and Germany. He married Eva Leale in England in 1910. Their daughter, Betty, called him "Ol' Man River."

Sold Book Collection

If Kern had not won such outstanding recognition as a composer, he would have achieved moderate fame as a bibliophile. He accumulated one of the most valuable collections of rare books in the world and when it became so large that it threatened to get out of hand sold it at auction in January, 1929, for a total of $1,729,462.

New York book dealers are said to have regarded Kern as a "pushover" because he paid asking prices and never haggled. On one occasion, it is said, a dealer, seeing Kern about to enter his shop, hastily marked up the price of a Robert Burns presentation copy from $2,000 to $6,000. Kern paid without argument, but this item brought $23,000 at his auction.

MOLOTOV TOAST HINTS ENDING OF RED CENSORSHIP

News Stories Go Uncut Since Nov. 7

MOSCOW, Nov. 11 (AP)—Soviet censorship of outgoing news dispatches appeared today to have been lifted, altho there has been no official announcement and correspondents still are submitting stories to censors.

All Associated Press dispatches filed since Nov. 7 have been passed without deletion and other correspondents report similar experiences.

Soviet censorship was established when the Nazis invaded Russia. Its continuation after the end of the war was protested recently by the Anglo-American Correspondents' association which received a reply saying that Foreign Commissar Molotov found "without substance" certain of the points on which the protest was based.

To Better Understanding

The only mention of censorship by Molotov in person, however, came Nov. 7 at Molotov's reception during the celebration of the Red revolution anniversary.

Molotov, moving thru the crowd of guests, stopped before Associated Press Correspondent Eddie Gilmore and said: "I want to drink a toast with American Correspondent Gilmore—if you were in my position, what sort of toast would you propose?"

Gilmore suggested a toast to a better understanding between the press of the soviet union and the United States.

"That is a good toast," Molotov said, "but what is your main issue as a correspondent now."

"Mine is trying to write an interpretation of your speech last night at the Kremlin which I thought was the most important in months," Gilmore replied.

Toast in Vodka

Molotov said, "Now come on—you are not a politician and I will not be one. You know correspondents do not like soviet censorship. You want to wipe it out."

"Well, sir, you read our letter and our telegram," Gilmore answered.

"What would you say if I told you I would agree to reciprocity?" Molotov asked.

"I think it would be a very fine thing," was the reply.

Molotov beamed and said: "Let us drink a toast then."

Gilmore chose vodka and Molotov smiled, saying, "That's a real Russian toast."

They drank to a "better understanding of both our countries."

Molotov emptied his glass and held it upside down over his head, smiled and passed on.

MUMS EXHIBITS IN 2 PARKS ARE SEEN BY CROWDS

Chrysanthemums in all colors and sizes were viewed by visitors to Garfield and Lincoln park conservatories yesterday during the second day of the 33d annual chrysanthemum show sponsored by the Chicago park district. Approximately 20,000 of the flowers are on display at the two shows, which will continue thru Dec. 2. More than 300,000 persons are expected to visit the displays.

STRICKEN IN AUTO; DIES

Mrs. Hilda O. Walgren, 75, of 919 6th st., Rockford, died in St. Joseph's hospital, Elgin, yesterday after suffering a heart attack while riding in a car with her niece, Mrs. Bert Olsen, of 821 St. Charles st., Rockford.

REDS' COAL FOR BERLIN CALLED POLITICAL GIFT

Violates Agreement by Four Powers

BY HENRY WALES
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BERLIN, Nov. 9 [Delayed]—Russian distribution of 20 kilograms [about 44½ pounds] of coal to each German family in the Red army zone of Berlin aroused criticism in the command headquarters here today during a recess in a four power session. The distribution was in celebration of the anniversary of the Russian revolution.

"We are treating Germany as a conquered enemy country, whereas Russia is treating the Germans as liberated people, obviously currying favor with them for political reasons," said members of the American delegation. "We had a specific four power agreement that there would be no issue of coal to the civilian population."

A British member, asked about the story that the British had sent 50,000 Berlin children to areas where they will be better fed, warmed, and cared for, remarked: "That's not currying favor with Germany, because the British have no political aspirations here."

Infant Mortality Drops

An American spokesman, Col. Frank Howley, denied that half the German children are doomed to die this winter, and pointed out that while infant mortality reached 66 per cent in July it had dropped to 50 per cent in August and to 22 per cent in September because of the American powdered milk distribution and the reduction in the number of dysentery cases.

The four powers have abandoned the attempt to reach a definition of "democracy" after fruitless hours of discussion in many of the preceding sessions in an attempt to reach an agreement.

Will Hush up Debate

While theoretically this prevents the application of all the Potsdam pronouncements and pious pledges for "democracy," it is said that none of the four powers intends to haggle over the other colleagues' interpretation of the word because the debates reveal lack of unity.

British and Americans are miffed at the daily articles in the German press printed by communist influence concerning the large amounts of food and supplies the Red army is distributing to the civilian population, the inference being that they supply about everything.

"America is feeding and supplying people from one end of the world to the other and getting no credit," remarked an American delegate bitterly.

Service Widow Asks for Rugs and Clothing

BY SALLY JOY BROWN

[Sally Joy Brown activities are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

Mrs. P., widow of a soldier who was killed in service, and unemployed because she is unable to leave her three young children, boys, 6 and 10, and a girl, 12, has asked our assistance in providing rugs for the bare floors of their far south side quarters. She has found it extremely difficult to make her income fit the needs of her growing family, and has been unable to provide against cold weather by the purchase of necessary warm clothing. Perhaps some reader can aid her from a no longer used supply of apparel in women's sizes 18-20 and children's sizes according to the ages given.

Mr. and Mrs. S. were permitted the use of a friend's furniture during her absence. Her sudden return, however, makes it necessary for them to obtain enough household items for four rooms—a gas stove, icebox, table and chairs, bedroom and living room pieces, and a baby bed. The recent birth of their baby boy and a severe attack of pneumonia have caused a piling up of bills, which precludes furniture purchases. An acute eye condition prevents sustained employment for Mr. S., which adds to their financial difficulties. He is also in need of an overcoat, size 38. Arrangements can be made to call for south side offers.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Nov. 11—Henry Fonda's first picture for 20th will be with John Ford. And before Fonda does "Ethan Frome," he'll play opposite Joan Fontaine in "Christabel Caine." . . . Lucille Ball moves over to 20th, but I'll bet it won't be long before Metro will be begging to get her back. She and Keenan Wynn were building up a solid comedy team. . . . Just got a picture from Sun valley of Gary Cooper, Clark Gable, and Bing Crosby with two pheasants among the three. But I was assured they got their quota next day. Bing is having himself a time, for he has nothing to do till spring. That isn't good for Crosby—or his listeners. . . . Joan Blondell obtained her release from 20th. She has been on suspension ever since "Adventure" with Clark Gable, because she refused to do a couple of minus-plus parts. . . . John McClain's out of the navy and back to his writing contract at Metro. . . . I'm getting letters from disgusted fans about Mrs. Garner's statement, "Who wants to live in an $18,000 home?" One read: "Peggy Ann Garner's success has gone to her mother's head."

Them That Has Gits

Clarence Brown, our richest director-producer, bought "Our Vines Have Tender Grapes" for $1,000, then sold it to Metro for $25,000. George Victor Martin, who wrote it, got only $810. I couldn't help recall Mark Twain's line: "The only race prejudice I have is against the human race." . . . Elizabeth Taylor will have a book on the stands by spring. Its title is "Adventures of Nibbles" [with illustrations]. Nibbles is her pet chipmunk. Elizabeth's story about animals reveals the philosophy of a 13 year old. The publisher wrote her mother: "The book has captivated every one who's seen it. It's amazing that any one so gifted as an actress could be equally gifted as a writer. She has that quality of unself-conscious simplicity that will please adults as well as children." The book has seventeen chapters—she wrote a chapter a day. . . . When Harpo Marx heard Ben Hecht was three days ahead of schedule after five days' shooting, he called up to say, "I must speak to Mr. Hecht immediately!" After great difficulty he was put thru, and Ben said, "What is it?" Harpo replied, "I'm putting in my bid now for preview seats—when will it be?"

Marine Cameraflage

John Payne tells about the big marine who came up to him on the street and said, "You so-and-so, you got me into this outfit. I joined up after seeing 'To the Shores of Tripoli,' but, brother, I just want to tell you I never met a marine who looked like you in that picture." . . . Ezra Stone was just signed to direct the Michael Todd show, "January Thaw." . . . Dudley Digges does the same role for the picture, "The Searching Wind," he did on the stage. He turned down a play with Guthrie McClintic to play it. . . . Louis B. Mayer arrives in New York any minute. Before leaving he tried to have a talk with Sports Writer Vincent X. But police arrived and informed her the monkey was harmless—but playful. It had escaped from a pet hospital.

Thru the Looking Glass

The eyelids and the skin about the eyes are so delicate and fine that they need lots of care to preserve their firmness of texture and smooth finish. Squinting, crinkling the eyes in laughter, straining against light and wind, all tend to etch their tiny lines about this area. Unless the tissue is kept well lubricated the lines become obvious and detract from the loveliness of the eyes.

A good eye cream to soften and smooth the sensitive tissue is the best safeguard against these lines and one notably rich cream is a fine blend of rare, nourishing oils especially suited to use about the eyes. It's a rather thin, yellowish cream which spreads readily and without any undue coaxing or pulling. The woman who is getting on in years will want to use it both day and night to keep the skin in condition.

At night before retiring the cream should be used with gentle massage. Apply a small quantity on the third finger of each hand and, starting at the inner, upper corner of the eyelids, press lightly and firmly over the lids and under the eyes, circling round to the nose. Follow this with a light tapping under the eyes and over the outer corners. Leave a rather generous film of cream on overnight to do its work while you sleep.

During the day time wear a light film of the cream on the lids to help protect them and keep them satiny and soft. The oils will not only help counteract dryness but will give the lids a flattering sheen meanwhile.

An eye cream is really a beauty essential for the older woman and will do much to preserve the texture of the delicate tissue if faithfully used. LOUISE DOOLEY

Clear Up One Fault at Time, Parents Told

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Wise sayings by the score come out of the orient. Altho I do not read books by eastern soothsayers, I am impressed when I come across gems which are quoted from them. This one from the Persian seems to fit particularly well into the subject with which this column is concerned.

"One pound of learning requires 10 pounds of common sense to apply it."

A rather striking illustration of the truth of this lies in the plaints I often hear from mothers. They vary—but in substance run something like this:

"I've always read all the books I could lay my hands on, on child psychology, but they don't seem to do me any good. I am a failure with my child"; or,

"My husband and I are college graduates and I majored in child psychology and I read many books when I was expecting my baby, but she is now 3 and I am a nervous wreck."

Of course, there may be many reasons why a mother fails in managing her children—some of which we frequently go into in this column. But there is one thing that will not automatically insure success: The reading of just facts and directions.

It would be better, if you needed help or wanted to improve yourself as a mother, to read a page or two a day—or one article—and digest it. And then try to apply the parts of it which you believe in to the day by day handling of your children.

Suppose, for example, you read a chapter on having patience in a book on child guidance. Stop there, and ask yourself: Is all this trouble I'm having caused by hurrying the children thru everything; that I never can wait for their young fingers to do slowly the things that look so easy to me? If the answer is "yes," then take that one principle to heart, apply it, and discipline yourself.

In fact, correcting one thing at a time about your handling of the children is a good way to begin on your new path: you can use 10 pounds of common sense to the one pound of learning right there.

Mrs. Marion B., Chicago—When laundering square doilies or napkins which I want to keep a uniform size, I place them evenly over each other for drying. Then, before ironing them separately, I run my iron lightly over the whole block.

Mrs. Eva W., Sandusky, O.—I place fruit jar rings between my very best plates so when they are stacked there will be less danger of scratching.

Marjorie G., Grand Rapids, Mich.—This fall I made an all-over slip cover for my husband's army trunk, with the top buttoned down on three sides so lid of trunk is easily lifted. It serves—outwardly—as a low, handy table. Inside I have stored my best household linens.

ANSWERS TO SATURDAY'S QUIZ

Q. 1—Partner opens with one diamond and you hold:

♠ 4 2 ♥ J 10 8 6 ♦ A J 10 5 ♣ J 10 9

What is your response?

A.—Two diamonds. This gives a complete description of your hand. The practice current in some quarters of responding with one heart is frowned upon by this department. The bid has no merit. If the hand is to play at hearts partner must be able to name that suit himself.

Q. 2—As South you hold:

♠ K J 6 5 ♥ A 3 ♦ J 3 2 ♣ A K 10 5

The bidding has proceeded:

East	South	West	North
1 heart	Double	Pass	2 diamonds
Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. There is no bid that you can safely make. Remember you forced partner to speak and he may have little or nothing. If partner had a really good hand it was his place to bid one more diamond than was necessary, to wit: Three diamonds. Had partner responded with either spades or no trump a raise by you would be in order.

Q. 3—As South you hold:

♠ J 6 2 ♥ Q 6 4 ♦ A J 5 3 ♣ 10 5 2

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 spade	Pass	1 no trump	Pass
2 hearts	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Two spades. Inasmuch as you are able to return to partner's first suit without increasing the tariff you ought not to definitely consign this hand to a part score. The hand evidently fits well and when one regards the spades and hearts in their promoted light, the no trump response was considerably above minimum. In fact if partner bids again over two spades, we would be inclined to go on. A game is by no means out of the question.

Q. 4—Partner opens with one spade, you have 70 part score and hold:

♠ A J 10 3 ♥ J 4 2 ♦ A Q 5 3 ♣ J 5

What action, if any, do you take?

A.—Two spades. Despite the fact that the game is completed you must allow partner one more chance just in case he has a very big hand, so that a possible slam may be uncovered. Do not make the mistake of bidding two diamonds. With the score as it is partner might pass.

Q. 5—As South you hold:

♠ Q ♥ A J 10 7 ♦ 10 7 4 3 ♣ K Q 6 5

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	1 spade	2 diamonds	2 spades
Pass	Pass	3 hearts	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Four diamonds. Despite the fact that you had a very questionable opening bid, it would not be good policy to quit at this point, because the hand has improved so considerably since you picked it up. If partner happens to have something like five good diamonds and three hearts to the king, a game in the minor suit will be highly probable. It would be improper to gamble it out at hearts, with the danger of spade leads shortening your trumps. If partner has four hearts he will know enough to return to that suit.

Q. 6—As South you hold:

♠ A 7 4 3 ♥ A J 10 7 4 2 ♦ K 3 ♣ 5

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	Pass	1 spade	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Two spades. The temptation to give a double raise should be resisted. Jump bids should not be made with distribution as their only excuse. Sight must not be lost of the fact that your opening bid contained very little over 2½ honor tricks. There is too much danger that partner will get slam minded if you should jump the bid after having opened.

Q. 7—As South you hold:

♠ Q J 7 ♥ K 8 5 ♦ A K J 6 ♣ K Q 10

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 no trump	Pass	3 spades	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	4 hearts	Pass
4 spades	Pass	5 spades	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. Despite the fact that you have a very fine no trump bid the conservative course is recommended because your honors in clubs have little value. You must presume that partner lacks the ace of clubs, because in possession of that card he would have bid five clubs instead of five spades. Now then it seems that at best the slam will depend upon a finesse, for if partner held both ace-king of spades and ace-queen of hearts he would likely have bid the slam himself.

Q. 8—As dealer you hold:

♠ — ♥ Q J 10 9 8 7 ♦ A ♣ A K Q J 10 9

What is your opening bid?

A.—Five hearts. No matter what strength partner may have the only things you are interested in are heart honors. If partner has one of them he should bid six. If he has both naturally he should bid seven. An opening demand bid would not be good strategy because you wish to avoid getting partner all worked up if he holds ace-king of spades and king-queen of diamonds.

Open Sessions of Methodist Women Today

Women delegates, missionaries, and deaconesses from 19 Methodist conferences in nine midwestern states will assemble here today for a meeting dedicated to world peace and Christian fellowship. The gathering, designated as the fifth annual conference of the North Central Jurisdiction of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist church, will open with a fellowship dinner and devotionals tonight in the Central Y.M.C.A., 19 S. LaSalle st.

The Chicago temple at 77 W. Washington st. will be the setting for subsequent sessions, which will continue thru Wednesday and which are open to all interested persons. The preliminary dinner program tonight will be shared by women from Methodist churches of the Chicago area.

Dr. Charles R. Goff, minister of the temple, will make the welcoming address at 8:45 a. m. tomorrow, and the keynote speaker tomorrow afternoon will be Miss Mary Lou Barnwell of New York, executive secretary of the Bureau of Urban work for the women's society. As a deaconess, Miss Barnwell has served in community centers in Georgia, Tennessee, Florida, and Louisiana.

Preceding Miss Barnwell's talk, a dramatic presentation on the theme, "Our Youth Today," will be given by Dr. Eugene Durham and students from Northwestern university's Methodist foundation.

A former missionary to Japan, Miss Elizabeth Lee, will address the 7:30 o'clock session tomorrow. Miss Lee recently visited Methodist church and other denominational centers in Latin America as executive secretary for the Methodist woman's division work there.

Bishop Charles W. Brashares of the Des Moines area will speak before the women Wednesday afternoon, and the Wednesday morning program is to be shared by Mrs. Alexander Stewart of Chicago, and Mrs. E. R. Bartlett of Greencastle, Ind., chairman of the division's committee on international relations and world peace.

Returning Veterans Plunge Into Battle for Place to Live

BY JUDITH CASS

No treasure hunt ever was carried on with greater zeal than the current search for living quarters of any size, shape, or description that is being conducted by returning army and navy veterans and their families. Hot on the scent of a house that was to be converted into a double apartment, the Graham Fairbanks and the Samuel Bodmans were disappointed at the last moment and forced to start their search anew. They are making their temporary headquarters with Mrs. Fairbank's and Mrs. Bodman's parents, the Paul W. Clevelands and the Andrew McNallys.

Luck was with Lt. and Mrs. Frank F. Fowle Jr., who have bought the Winnetka home of Mrs. William S. Miller and the late Mr. Miller now that Lt. Fowle is about to be released from the navy. Mrs. Fowle and their children are with her parents, the Ernest S. Ballards, in Winnetka. Mrs. Miller also came to the aid of her next-door neighbors, the Dudley Palmers, whose house was sold, by renting her apartment in the Whitehall to the Palmers during her absence this winter. Mrs. Miller and her son and daughter-in-law, the Joseph S. Millers, and their children, arrived yesterday in Seattle, Wash., where the young Millers will live. Before going on to Florida for the rest of the winter, Mrs. Miller will visit one of her daughters, Mrs. Charles N. Proctor, and her family in Yosemite National Park, Cal.

Other Housing Notes

While house hunting, James Slattery, who recently was discharged from the navy, and Mrs. Slattery are staying with Richard D. Nugent in his apartment. Mr. Nugent's wife and their little daughter, Gray, who went to Santa Barbara to visit her parents, the Sellar Bullards, in September, have been making an unexpectedly long visit, for until last week-end Mrs. Bullard, Mrs. Nugent, and her sister, Mrs. John Russell Holmes, were patients in the Cottage hospital, Santa Barbara, suffering from typhoid fever. Mrs. Nugent and Gray will return as soon as they can obtain reservations.

Lt. Harmar D. Ker, on terminal leave from the navy after four years overseas, and his wife will be able to celebrate their first Christmas together since their marriage in the house they have found in Lincoln Park West. Mrs. Ker will arrive the end of this month from Palm Beach, where she and her two children have been staying in the home of her parents, the Frank Gordons, to supervise the decoration of the new house. Her husband has been staying at the Chicago Athletic club while house hunting.

Maj. George E. Hale, who has been discharged from the army, and his wife and little daughter, Margaret, who arrived a week or so ago from Washington, D. C., temporarily have no housing problem. They plan to stay in Winnetka with his mother, Mrs. William B. Hale, until they can obtain a house on the north shore. Col. and Mrs. Ralph Soto-Hall, who temporarily have an apartment in E. Bellevue pl., also have joined the house hunting throng.

Hazel Scott Best in Boogie; at Least to One Who Doesn't Know Much About Boogie

Hazel Scott doesn't know much about my kind of music, and I know less about hers, which made for something less than complete rapport when I attended her Sunday afternoon concert at Orchestra hall. She did the classics considerably less damage in swing than when she thought thru an interminable first half she was playing them straight, but I missed the outrageous twinkle that brightened such goings-on when Dorothy Donegan was the pride of the Down Beat room.

The best of Miss Scott for my money was the shining line of "Somebody Loves Me," with Wilmore Jones tenderly stroking the drums in what otherwise was a sea of embroidered Gershwin, and her "Tale of Four Cities," a boogie woogie excursion with trio into New Orleans, Kansas City, Chicago, and New York. What I know about boogie woogie you can put in a thimble and still use it to sew, but even I could tell the girl was good, and I liked her best in the deep south's walking bass where Eugene Sedric's clarinet gave off faint but sympathetic moans.

Otherwise, I earned little place in a capacity audience so devoted it sometimes verged on the devout. As a serious pianist, Miss Scott is facile but limited in technique, and her playing lacks form and style to such a degree as to make many a familiar work spinelessly unrecognizable. As an arranger, she leans toward the fancy or pastry tube school of decoration, which removed most of her Gershwin from its native idiom, and prevented the Jerome Kern interlude from taking on memorial stature. As a composer outside boogie, her Passion Suite, which attempted to tell the story in spirituals, was a good idea turned gibberish except in the Crucifixion. Here she played the great spiritual ["They crucified my Lord an' He never said a mumbelin' word."] in terms of Chopin's funeral march, and while the result matched neither, it derived beauty from both.

Probably the whole point is nothing more or less than that Miss Scott and her trio belonged not on the concert stage of Orchestra hall, but in some intimate club where they stick to their last and make you like it. Even yesterday's rapt audience was polite thru the first part, interested thru the second, and downright daft thru the boogie third.

Schwieger Engaged

Hans Schwieger, conductor of the Fort Wayne orchestra, who made a guest appearance at the Grant park concert last summer, has been engaged to conduct two concerts with the Chicago Symphony orchestra. The first is Wednesday night's broadcast, the second the "Pop" concert at Orchestra hall Dec. 22.

Note

Burton Holmes begins his 53d season of travel talks at Orchestra hall on Feb. 13 and this time his five topics for the usual five weeks will be California, the tourist's Hawaii, Quebec and the Gaspé peninsula, Rio de Janeiro and Brazil.

Lack of Focus Mars Singer's Vocal Talents

BY ALBERT GOLDBERG

The program of Fay Satton's song recital at Kimball hall yesterday afternoon was uncommunicative as to the classification of the singer's voice; either the young woman or her advisers could not make up their own minds or preferred to leave it to hearer's choice.

Our vote would be for mezzo-soprano, tho frequent excursions into the register and repertoire of the dramatic soprano seemed to indicate that she herself has contrary notions, at any rate, it is much too beautiful a voice to be endangered by the experimentation to which it now apparently is being subjected. And its owner has likewise too much personal attractiveness and natural musical feeling not to set herself speedily upon the path of vocal correctness.

In its middle and lower register Miss Satton's voice is of uncommon depth and luster. There are moments when its natural properties stand forth unobscured, but the moments are more numerous when its production is anything but natural and free. And tho the high tones are definitely in the voice, the methods—except that of main force, frequently employed by Miss Satton ascends to and descends from them often tend to nullify their effectiveness. The unsteadiness of tone and the uncertainty of pitch which also on occasion afflict her singing are by-products of the fundamental insecurity of her present method.

Miss Satton was generally more successful in the dramatic drive of "Ritorna vincitor" from "Aida" and Lia's air from Debussy's "L'Enfant Prodigue" than she was in the restraints of lieder by Brahms, Schumann, and Schubert, and songs by assorted French composers. Thruout, tho, the light of a genuine singing talent was visible, no matter how much it may have been dimmed by faulty technical processes. Robert Macdonald was the always expert and sometimes rescuing accompanist.

Many of Metal

Metal toys are back for Christmas. A preview of State street's toy treasures held yesterday in the State Street Council's offices at 209 S. State st. showed a return to pre-war construction in such items as steel scooters, steel horses that walk, "buck," and rock, tricycles, swings, skates, tools, and metal automobiles, tanks, guns, and sleds with steel runners.

A metal swing suspended on its own metal rack was priced at about $28. Another new item was a telephone set operated on four batteries.

An airplane designer has turned out a jet-fly coaster wagon with metal wheels and rubber tires. Plastics have been converted to toys, and a plastic ark is a floating home for a fine menagerie.

Party Dresses for Juniors Are Sparkling, Too

BY REA SEEGER

Date and party dresses for the junior sized shoppers have everything—glitter, glamor, and what this season are some of the most reasonable of price marks. Simple looking black dresses flash with bands of jet black sequins, vivid scarlet and green crepes have a holiday look that is hard to equal with anything less than the red and green colors of Christmas wrapped gift parcels. The smart winter white woolens are marvels of high fashion, ready for any occasion. Nearly all these festive frocks have short puffed sleeves or wide band brief sleeves, and there are enough elbow lengths to satisfy all kinds of shoppers.

Bright wool and rayon crepe are the two best materials used for these party clothes, all of day time length with the glitter and flash of contrasting trim to give them dress parade rating. Skirts have the newly released fullness, that rounded hip silhouette, and the bodices also are fashioned with the new round line over the shoulders. Skirts are wide enough to swirl when dancing, fullness being cleverly achieved with circular cut insets or flounces around the kneeline or with the side fullness distributed low at the hip. Peplum ruffles, smart back flares to simulate polonaise drapery, and a few harem drapes also will be found.

Two color jobs and combinations are fresh, crisp, and new looking. This artful merger idea is achieved with full gathered skirt of surah attached to simple short sleeved bodice top of black crepe, looking like two pieces but actually a smooth one-piecer. Bold, bright striped surahs are used, usually with the stripes in horizontal lines. Striped taffeta skirts with the stripes in perpendicular formation are attached to black crepe bodices and make very youthful and flattering dresses with a definite dress-up swish and charm.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Tolerance

John S. Allen, of long experience in the telephone industry, is writing a series of short paragraphs for Telephony magazine on the "Principles of Enduring Business."

In his most recent article he tells about hiring a young woman who looked as tho she could learn quickly. But at the end of the first week she wasn't doing well; at the end of the second—no better. Her percentage of error was high, and it seemed probable that he might have to let her go. However, he decided to make allowance for her mistakes and try a while longer. At the end of a month everything had changed. The girl had taken hold of the work, showed interest in it, and had a pleasant attitude toward her fellow employes. She turned out to be a valuable, conscientious employee. All that was needed was patience.

Mr. Allen notes that in the construction of mechanical equipment a machinist is allowed a certain percentage of error. His measurements may vary over, or under, to a slight degree, the specifications of the engineer. This allowance of error is called tolerance.

"In dealing with human beings, this form of tolerance is referred to as patience," says Mr. Allen. "Well directed tolerance and patience are valuable parts of management."

Office Irks

When I chance to arrive at the office about 10 to 8 and some coworker chirps up with the be-whiskered quip, "See you got up before breakfast!" JOHN FAHRNER, JR.

When I wear a new hat in the office and the other WCGs ask, concerning the hat I didn't buy, "What was the other one like?" SALLY

Our Political Campaign

While Nosey Parker has not exactly committed himself to be the WCGs' candidate for the Vice Presidency, it can be revealed that he expressed keen interest in the formation of the Woman's National Committee for Nosey Parker for Vice President. When it was suggested that the membership of this committee include such stellar comeons as Cullie, Shirley, Redheaded Steno, Diamond Lil, and other charmers, he straightened his necktie and said, "Tell me more."

This is interpreted by competent observers as indicating that a favorable decision may be expected within a matter of days.

"With Bated Breath"

By Alice Campbell

(Copyright: 1945: By Mrs. Alice Ormond Campbell)

SYNOPSIS: Avis Marriott accepts a job as companion-housekeeper to Maud and Erica Bolles, wealthy spinsters. Maud, a local autocrat known for her charities, has grown strangely penurious in her home. Erica, a semi-invalid, is dominated by Maud. A couple of guests and an evacuee family live with them at Turrets. Dr. Bruce advises Avis against accepting the position. Turrets is an isolated English manor with an abandoned underground passage. Avis' predecessor, Agatha Trimble, left under a cloud, suspected of theft. Robin Grier, Maud's godson, has been invalided out of the army. Mrs. Marks, a widow with family connections, seems too sophisticated for her surroundings. Avis arrives during a violent domestic scene, with the departing cook calling Maud a cheeseparing sinner. Avis' room is in the turret where Erica insists upon living. An unexpected guest, Oscar Moravian, arrives on Erica's invitation. From Mrs. Marks, Avis learns he is an East Indian half brother of her dead husband and has a criminal reputation. Apparently Maud dares not send him away. In the night the soldier husband in the evacuee family slips and falls downstairs to his death. Dr. Bruce saves Agatha Trimble from an attempted suicide. Smears of wax polish make the stairs even more treacherous. Did some one want to kill Erica? Ten one-pound notes are found on the victim.

INSTALMENT VII.

MUFFLED ALARM

Maud Bolles would have snatched the notes avidly, but the senior policeman apologetically held on to his find. "Does Miss Erica bank at our local Midland?" he inquired. "O, she does. That explains matters, then."

"Explains? Not at all. How can my sister, never setting foot outside these grounds, have obtained in person from her bank——"

"Some one other than myself secured this money. My sister has been keeping it in her rooms. Bandy stole it, tripped in the dark, and fell the full length of this stair. Are you sure he took nothing else?"

"That's the lot, Miss Bolles. I don't suppose you can say offhand what individual might have cashed Miss Erica's check?"

"I never dreamed that any one had. It is I who invariably . . . Olive! Robin! Did either of you——?"

"Me? O, no!" Robin disclaimed, while Olive gave a similar denial. It was the cough which drew the inspector's attention to the third, unobtrusive member of his audience. With impatience Maud snapped that Mr. Moravian had arrived only the previous evening.

"What about putting the question to Miss Erica herself?" the inspector hinted. "I," Maud rasped, "shall certainly do so, but I must strongly protest against embroiling my invalid sister in any official unpleasantness. Dr. Bruce, have I your support?"

"You say that poor man had got my 10 pounds in his pocket?" Miss Erica cried eagerly. "Then give them back to me now!"

"In due course, Miss Erica," the inspector soothed. "See, I'm going to hand you a receipt. Was this money just laying about?"

"All that money? No, no. I'd got it safely hidden away. Now don't ask me where," Erica said archly.

"Hrumph! Perhaps you won't mind saying who drew these notes from the bank and conveyed them to you?"

Doubt flickered. "Well, then," she defied, "it was Hilda. So nice of her, and all I gave her was half a crown."

"You sent that girl to the bank," Maud towered in wrath. "Incredible! What need had you for an additional 10 pounds?"

"But—but——" Erica grew suddenly bold. "It's my money, isn't it? I don't dream of asking for any of yours."

Feeling indecent to be present at this unseemly domestic wrangle, Avis slipped out, coming against Robin, who was just straightening up from a scowling scrutiny of the floor.

"I wanted to ask you something," she began. "Just before the doctor got here, did you happen to notice a low, buzzing sound?"

His gaze met hers squarely. "Now you mention it, yes. What was it, any idea?"

"I'm not sure, but I thought it came from your floor."

"It can't mean anything, of course, and yet—don't you see? It's one of those muffled alarms, my aunt's got one just like it. Miss Erica's heard it three mornings, and Robin and I heard it go off about an hour ago. What about all that fresh wax on the stairs? It didn't get there by itself, some one put it there—and the way I see it whoever it was set an alarm in order to make sure of waking up and wiping the stuff off before some early bird spotted it. Suppose the police surgeon starts getting excited about this wax and——"

"I am the police surgeon. Keep a still tongue, you leave this to me."

"B—ut you're so b—busy Maudie."

"Why tell lies? For whom did you wish this 10 pounds? Not Robin, surely. Olive, perhaps?"

"Certainly not. And I won't keep answering questions. I did want it, so there!"

"I see." Grim comprehension. "So that's how it is. Behind my back you choose to bestow benefits on a thieving hypocrite."

"She's not, she's not!" Erica sobbed. "Must I go on telling you it was all some wicked mistake? Aggie loves me. O, Maudie, how can you be so hard—?"

"Hard! You call it hard, do you, when but for my fool's clemency Agatha Trimble would now be serving a sentence behind bars? Dry your eyes. Here are your checkbook and pen. It is my bank day, remember. Shall I fill in the check and leave you to sign?"

With a sniff of wounded dignity Miss Erica retorted that she would write the entire check herself. "The usual, will it be?"

"Yes. No! Thanks to you we've yet another mouth to feed. I am drawing an additional two pounds, I must ask you to do the same."

"Ossie? O, of course . . ."

Hastily Avis backed from the door. Her new approach was nicely timed with the emergence of Maud. "Yes, Miss Marriott? O, the keys. I am coming down with them now."

Up the stairs creaked the elder police officer, requesting a parting word. The dead body had now been removed. "Inquest!" Maud said it seethingly as she came into the kitchen. "A proceeeding wholly unnecesssary and absurd. Tomorrow, as it happens, is quite my busiest day."

"Why don't you take it easy today?" Avis asked. "I'm sure you need it, after all you've gone thru in the last 12 hours."

"Rest, Miss Marriott! I am not one of those who require rest. At 9 precisely I shall be on my way. Please close the door. About my sister. Erica has become the dupe of a woman unscrupulous in character. My discovery of this has brought profound shock."

Miss Trimble, of course.

"I," Miss Bolles resumed, "have at all times been obliged to think and act for Erica. Tho it is a duty I most willingly perform, public demands on my time make it impossible for me to watch over her as I would otherwise do. I've no wish to air the circumstances which led to the dismissal of the person who for almost four years had been Erica's companion. For an extensive period my sister has been parting with large sums of money. That folly must be stopped."

Sticklers for tradition will be thankful for these steamed pudding recipes which are in keeping with the sugar supply. Some sugar is needed for the accompanying sauces, however, unless you serve them with cream, plain or whipped.

Most steamed puddings develop a richer, more mellow flavor when allowed to age, so it would be wise to get the puddings made up soon if you plan to include them in your Thanksgiving entertaining.

To store the puddings, wrap them in several thicknesses of waxed paper and place in a covered container. When ready to serve, reheat in the top of a double boiler. Sauces, too, may be prepared ahead and reheated, inasmuch as they keep well in the refrigerator.

If you don't have a regular pudding steamer, tin cans may be used for molds. After filling them tie waxed paper covers tightly over the tops, place them on a rack in a large kettle, add an inch or two of boiling water and cover tightly. If you prefer, pour the pudding mixture in the top compartment of a double boiler, cover tightly, and cook over boiling water. Whichever method is used, the molds or boiler top should be greased and filled just two-thirds full to allow for expansion.

Steamed Plum Pudding
[Serves eight]

1 cup ground beef suet
1 cup molasses
3 cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon cloves
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
1 cup raisins
1 cup nuts

Work suet with hands until creamy. Add molasses. Sift dry ingredients together and add alternately with milk. Dredge raisins and nuts with part of flour and add. Fill greased molds two-thirds full and cover tightly. Steam for three hours, and serve hot with any pudding sauce.

Ginger Fruit Pudding
[Serves six to eight]

1 cup light molasses
1 egg
½ cup butter, melted
1 cup chopped figs, dates, prunes or apricots
1 cup hot water
2½ cups sifted flour
1 tablespoon ginger
1 teaspoonful soda

Add beaten egg to molasses. Add butter and fruit [use plump, dried fruit]. Beat well. Add hot water, sifted dry ingredients and mix well. Pour into small greased molds, filling two-thirds full. Cover and steam for one hour. Serve hot or cold with one of the following sauces:

Vanilla sauce—Mix ½ cup sugar with 1 tablespoon cornstarch. Add 1 cup boiling water gradually, stirring constantly. Cook and stir until thickened and clear. Remove from heat and add 2 tablespoons butter and 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Orange sauce—Use orange juice for half the water and 1 teaspoon grated orange rind in place of vanilla.

Lemon sauce—Use 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind, the juice of half a lemon and a sprinkling of nutmeg or mace.

Steamed Cranberry Pudding
[Serves four]

½ teaspoon salt
½ cup molasses
2 teaspoons soda
½ cup hot water

Sift flour and salt and add washed, halved cranberries. Mix well. Add molasses and blend. Add soda to hot water and stir into cranberry mixture. Mix well, pour into a greased mold, cover tightly, and steam for 2 hours. Serve hot with sauce.

Here are two good sauces for the cranberry pudding if you can spare the sugar.

Creamy sauce—Cream ½ cup butter or margarine and 1 cup sugar. Add ½ cup evaporated milk, cook in double boiler until smooth, and flavor with 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Foamy cranberry sauce—Cream together ¼ cup butter and 1 cup confectioners' sugar. Add the beaten yolk of an egg, ¼ cup sweetened cranberry juice, and the grated rind of half an orange. Mix well and fold in the stiffly beaten white of an egg just before serving. The juice used in this recipe is the kind you drain from cooked and sweetened cranberries.

BY EDWARD BURNS

The Blackhawks, for the second successive Sabbath in Chicago Stadium, accorded a whipping last night to the greatly distressed world champion Toronto Maple Leafs. This time the spanking was by a score of 5 to 3. The outcome made 18,543 wildly partisan spectators very happy and restored the Hawks' first place tenancy, which had been reduced to a tie when the Chicagoans lost a 3 to 2 decision to the Leafs in Toronto Saturday night while the Montreal Canadiens were beating Boston.

The Hawks followed a pattern similar to that pursued a week earlier in that they hopped off to a lead, lapsed into a tie, then skated the Leafs dizzy in a furious third period in which they made three goals before the Leafs could add a futile one.

There was a marked difference in the play otherwise, however. The previous Sunday night there was only one penalty in the entire match and it came late in the final period. Last night there were eight penalties in the first period, five in the second and two in the third, the Hawks contributing four in the first, three in the second and one in the third, or eight out of 15.

It's a Hard Played Game

The Hawks led during the game 2 to 0 were tied at 2 to 2 then made it 5 to 2. Their seven point total was contributed by four scorers, Clint Smith being the gent who tallied twice. Other counters were Pete Horeck, Doug Bentley, and Alex Kaleta.

Those eight penalties in the first period were deserved, mostly because of spirited, hard hockey playing. The lone goal of the period was scored by Smith in 14:47 assisted by Horeck [who had served two penalties and Bill Mosienko who had served one two minute term].

While Horeck was serving his first assessment, Mike Karakas, brilliant all evening, put on his first great display of net-minding. Later on it was Goalie Gordon Bell to show his stuff. While Bill Ezinicki and Doug Baldwin of the Leafs were off simultaneously, it was six Hawks against four Leafs and the Chicago sextet certainly gave the Toronto goalie a merry barrage. It was right after this that Smith, Horeck, and Mosienko swept down the fully staffed rink for the night's first goal.

Five More Penalties in Second

There were five more penalties in the second period, and two of them hurt the Hawks. Chicago went ahead, 2 to 0, in 1:07 of the second period after Horeck had taken a pass in the Hawk defense zone and had dashed down the right boards for a successful swoop around Defenseman Baldwin and a slanting shot that registered.

Horeck immediately helped balance off his marker by getting thrown off for his third penalty of the game. While he was away Nick Metz got a solo goal in 3:30.

The Hawks also were short handed when Gaye Stewart, assisted by Ezinicki and Syl Apps, tied the score while Reg Hamilton was serving out a two minute jolt for interference.

Smith scored his second goal to break the tie in 1:39 of the third period from close in after taking the rubber from Eddie Wares. Doug Bentley made what proved to be the winning goal in 7:59, with Brother Max and Mosienko assisting. Kaleta had help from Joe Cooper and George Allen in registering the last Chicago goal in 10:08. Babe Pratt of the Leafs added an obviously futile goal in 16:58.

4 Games Still Have Bearing on Big 9 Race

Saturday Games

Notre Dame at Northwestern.
Fort Warren at Great Lakes.
Indiana at Pittsburgh.
Minnesota at Iowa.
Purdue at Michigan.
Illinois at Ohio State.
Penn State at Michigan State.
Wisconsin vs. Navy at Baltimore.

BY WILFRID SMITH

With two weeks left in the Western conference football season, four of the remaining seven Big Nine games will determine the 1945 champion. Undefeated Indiana now leads the field, but Purdue, Michigan, and Ohio State still are contenders.

The climactic conference games are: Nov. 7—Purdue at Michigan; Illinois at Ohio State, and Nov. 24—Purdue at Indiana; Ohio State at Michigan.

PURDUE—Conference champion by beating Michigan and Indiana if Michigan wins from Ohio State Nov. 24.

MICHIGAN—The Wolverines will gain the title if they defeat Purdue and Ohio State and Purdue wins from Indiana Nov. 24.

Hoosiers Wallop Gophers

This pencil work means little to Indiana which dealt Minnesota its worst defeat in history Saturday, an unbelievable 49 to 0 licking in which 34 Hoosiers took part and thus managed to keep from scoring in the fourth quarter. Indiana led, 35 to 0, at the half. The Hoosiers merely need to concentrate on whipping Purdue, which they did last year, and the conference title is theirs.

Indiana's rivals, who had more or less assumed that Minnesota could take care of the Hoosiers for them, certainly can not envision the complete collapse of the Gophers. Minnesota simply couldn't be that indifferent without complete absence of desire to play football. Here is a team that opened in its conference season by whipping Northwestern 30 to 7. Three weeks later the same players gained only 20 yards by rushing and yielded seven touchdowns.

Gophers Never Catch Fire

Indiana kicked away two scoring chances by fumble and pass interception and then needed aid from Minnesota to get an opening touchdown drive started. But the Gophers never caught fire. Under these circumstances, Indiana's blocking and tackling appeared perfect. It's actually impossible to tell how good Indiana is, for Minnesota was no opponent for measuring merit.

NO TITLE TALK—McMILLIN

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 11 [Special]—Indiana, only undefeated football team in the Western conference, isn't "going to think about a championship until the evening of the Nov. 24 game with Purdue," Coach A. N. [Bo] McMillin told 1,000 cheering students who welcomed the Hoosiers home today from their 49 to 0 victory over Minnesota.

"It has been a hard road and there is still a hard road ahead," McMillin declared. "On the next two Saturdays we meet teams which are capable of beating most any team in the country. Therefore, let's stop this championship talk and concentrate on winning these next two games."

BY EDWARD PRELL
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Cleveland, O., Nov. 11 — Four touchdowns, rain, and collapsing bleachers, all in the first quarter, gave the Cleveland-Green Bay football game a movie thriller setting today. Three of the scores were made by the Rams with startling suddeness, 73, 42, 84 yards, and the other one by a badly outplayed Packer team.

The result: A 20 to 7 Cleveland victory; seven fans in a hospital, and a rain soaked throng of 28,686 spectators.

After that wild first quarter there was no more scoring, no more splintering of the temporary wooden bleachers as the game developed into a comedy of pass interceptions and fumbles on the slippery field.

Rams Shackle Don Hutson

Green Bay fought on in the gloom to stave off almost certain elimination from the National league's western division race. But seven interceptions and three fumbles were too much of a handicap for a team which already was burdened with a 13 point deficit. The Rams put a halter on Don Hutson, too, and the main credit went to Bob Waterfield, the bright freshman star from Southern California.

There was wreckage, too, for the Packers, 1944 champions. This was their second straight loss and their third of the season against four victories. The chase for them is almost hopeless with only three games left to play.

3 Games on Rams' Schedule

Only the Chicago Cardinals, Detroit Lions, and Boston Yanks remain for the Rams to brush aside to gain their first league divisional title. The key contest could be the one against the Lions in Detroit on Thanksgiving morning, because at the end of the day's business the Lions still were tied for the top spot in the west with the Rams.

The Rams looked worthy to set themselves up right on the spot as successors to the Packers. Earlier in the year they whipped the champions—with a three touchdown trick in the fourth quarter. They have beaten the Bears twice to complete a perfect score against the two perennial western powerhouses. They have beaten the Cardinals once and will try to make it two straight next Sunday in Comiskey park.

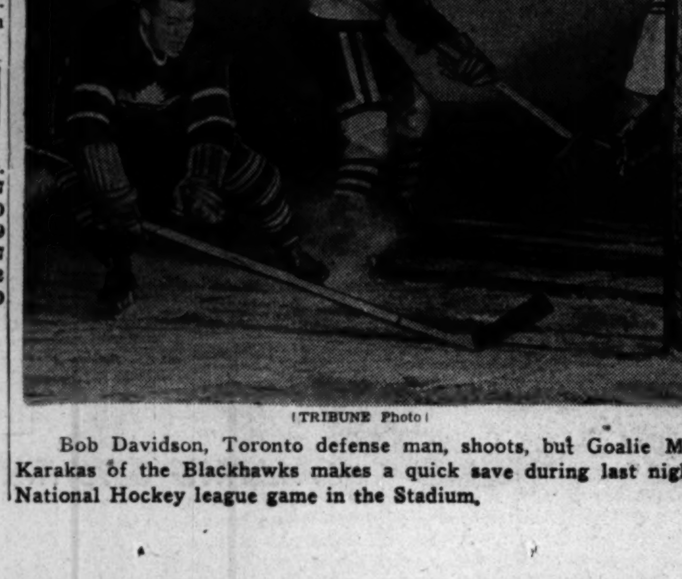

Waterfield Covers Hutson

Green Bay, with Roy McKay and Irv Comp usually harried by the powerful and quick Cleveland line, threw 38 passes and completed only 12. Waterfield stayed with Hutson all afternoon, frequently batting down passes. Jim Gillette intercepted three pitches in the third quarter, stopping three consecutive Green Bay series of downs.

Fred Gehrke, 190 pounder from Utah State, who was too scrawny to stay with the Rams in pre-war days, ran for touchdowns the first

BY WILFRID SMITH

For 44 minutes yesterday afternoon in Wrigley field, Chicago's Bears were masters of Detroit's Lions as they built up a 28 to 14 lead on four touchdown passes by Sid Luckman. Momentarily the crowd of 27,791 expected the Bears to turn the game into a rout which would drop Detroit from its tie with Cleveland for first place in the Western division of the National Football league.

The scoreboard already had announced Cleveland's triumph yesterday over Green Bay. Then, as if suddenly realizing the importance of victory, the Lions rallied their forces in the gathering darkness of the gray afternoon. Johnny Greene scored on a pass from Cotton Price. Bill Callihan threw another touchdown pass to Andy Farkas and, with only 1 minute 43 seconds of the game remaining, Bob Westfall powered 2 yards thru guard for the winning score.

Thus Detroit won its sixth league game, 35 to 28, and now continues tied with Cleveland. Each has been beaten once.

Luckman Has Banner Day

In any other game Luckman's forward passing—he completed 15 in 30 attempts while accounting for all the Bears' scores — would be the headline. Yesterday Detroit's team made it subsidiary.

Altho the Lions scored first and led, 7 to 0, at the end of the opening quarter, the Bears set up a 14 to 7 advantage at the intermission, led, 21 to 7, and again, 28 to 14, in the third period. Then the rally!

Luckman's 10 yard pass to George Wilson had established the Bears' 28 to 14 margin and less than 30 seconds remained in the third quarter. The Lions received. On second down Price passed far down field to Greene, who ran 23 yards for a total scoring distance of 63 yards. Bill Callihan's placement—he kicked all Detroit's conversions—set up the 28 to 21 count as the teams started the final 15 mnutes.

Ryan Makes Long Punt Return

After one exchange, Luckman punted on fourth down from Detroit's 44 yard line. Dave Ryan took the ball on his own 8, broke thru enveloping tacklers and sped down the west sideline. At the Bears' 36 yard line, confronted by a tackler, Ryan attempted a lateral to Jack Matheson, his end, who went on to the goal. The pass was forward, however, and thus illegal, so Detroit was penalized 5 yards at the point of the throw.

Starting from the Bears' 41, the Lions advanced to the 4 on a series of short gains. Callihan then passed to Andy Farkas, standing unguarded in the end zone, and Callihan's kick tied the score, 28 to 28.

Score Again in 5 Plays

Six minutes and 45 seconds remained to play. The Bears received, made one first down, and then Luckman had to punt. The ball rolled dead on Detroit's 40 yard line. Five plays later the Lions won the game.

Price opened with a 22 yard pass to Farkas. Faking a pass, Price then ran to the Bears' 24 yard line. Callihan smashed the line for 4 yards and then tore thru the Bears' collapsing defense to come within 4 yards of the goal. The Bears were penalized for roughness, which halved that distance. On the final play Westfall shot thru over guard.

The game principally was an air

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

NEW YORK, Nov. 11—The case of Paul Sarringhaus, Ohio State half back who came back to the campus early this season after two years service in the army, is certain to have an influence on other returning soldiers and sailors. . . . Sarringhaus was the leading ground gainer in the Western conference in 1942, his junior year with the Buckeyes. . . . While he was wearing an army uniform his class was graduated and he became eligible for professional football. . . . He could have commanded a substantial salary. . . . For one reason or another he returned to Ohio State. . . . Neither he nor his team has profited by his decision. . . . Coach Carroll Widdoes used him as his No. 1 left half back for a time, but soon dropped him down until last Saturday against Northwestern he was in the No. 3 spot behind Jerry Krall and Harold Daugherty, both freshmen. . . . Sarringhaus threatened to bolt the squad and it was only after a conference Monday between him and his coach that Sarringhaus agreed to rejoin the team. . . . Unless he finishes the season in spectacular fashion he cannot hope to earn as much money as a pro player as he could have before his collegiate brilliance had been tarnished. . . . There will be more Sarringhaus cases in 1946 as the number of returning service men increases. . . . It is difficult to enforce the same discipline upon a 24 or 25 year old soldier or sailor that you can on a 17 or 18 year old freshman. . . . College football will be better off to concentrate on younger talent. . . . Incidentally, Daugherty, who is one of the most promising backs that have appeared in the Big Nine this fall, had considered enrolling at Northwestern, but he lacked the credits for matriculation. . . . A half back of Daugherty's versatility would have given the Wildcats one of the strongest teams in the conference.

Herold [Muddy] Ruel, newly appointed assistant to Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler, began keeping office hours on Nov. 7 in the Chicago office of the commissioner, tho his contract does not become effective until Dec. 15. . . . If Herold's first name is spelled correctly on the new stationery, the engraver will score a scoop on a lot of printers including the one who composed Muddy's name in the Chicago suburban telephone directory. . . . Bob Lewis of the Cubs, after defending the sanctity of the ladies' restroom at Wrigley field during a recent football game, told the judge in appraising the fistic skill of his adversary: "In five minutes I was sicker of that guy than the Packers were after 60 minutes of fighting the Bears." . . . The Detroit Lions have made money on all games this season except the one with the Cardinals in Milwaukee. . . . All reserved seats in Briggs stadium have been sold for the Lions' contests with the Cleveland Rams and Green Bay Packers.

GRAND CHAMPION OF HORSE SHOW: SWEET RHYTHM

Cuneo's Entries Capture Most First Places

BY JAMES SEGRETI

Sweet Rhythm, 5 year old brown mare, owned by the Dodge stables of Rochester, Mich., last night was crowned grand champion of the second annual Chicago horse show by winning the final division of the $10,000 Championship stake before 7,500 in the Coliseum.

The new champion, by winning the big event from Moonlit Hour, owned by Jean McLean, Portsmouth, Va., reversed the result of the $2,000 qualifying trial held for mares last Sunday night. Moonlit Hour, which was purchased in the Coliseum ring last year for $12,500, had captured titles at Louisville, Ky., and Tulsa, Okla., before taking the trial event last week.

Over Again Retains Title

Over Again, 1944 champion jumper owned by F. J. Anderson of St. Paul, Minn., retained its title by winning the $2,000 championship stake in the evening program opener with perfect jumps over five barriers. Buce, which cost its owner, Mrs. A. C. Thompson of Maywood, only $150 and already has won more than $5,000, placed second, while North Woods, also from the Anderson stable, was judged third.

John F. Cuneo's Hawthorn farms, Libertyville, won the show's largest number of first places with 13, one more than the Dodge stables, winner of the honor last year. R. C. [Doc] Flanery of Northbrook topped all drivers with 15 triumphs.

Total attendance was approximately 86,000, an increase of more than 20,000 over that of 1944. Summaries:

Vikings Beat Hansas, 6 to 1; Win 3d Title

The Vikings won their third successive National Soccer league major division title yesterday, defeating Hansas, 6 to 1, in Weber stadium. Hakoah-Centers lost to Schwabens, 4 to 1, at California and Roscoe, but finished runner-up to the Vikings. This was the Hakoahs' first season of competition in the Major league.

The Slovaks upset Necaxa, 4 to 2, in Sparta stadium, to tie the latter for the first division title, thus necessitating a play-off.

George Nemchik scored two of the Vikings' six goals and assisted in another by making an opening for Don Bain's tally, the first of the game. Soon after Jimmy McDermott and George Gibbons followed with one each, and the first period ended with the Vikings leading, 3 to 0.

Nemchik gave his team a 5 to 0 advantage a few minutes after the start of the second half, and Hal O'Hare came thru with the final Viking goal after Bill Benish had tallied Hansas' lone marker.

Pacing the Schwabens' victory over Hakoah were Vic Absil, Tom Soufal, and Max Jordan, who did the scoring, Absil tallying twice. Bill Brandt registered the Hakoahs' score on a penalty.

PREP TITLE WON BY ST. IGNATIUS; TIE IN SOUTH

Fenwick and St. George Face Play-Off

Fenwick and St. George will meet in Soldier's Field next Sunday for the football championship of the south section of the Catholic High School football league, and the right to meet St. Ignatius of the north section for the league title.

The need for a playoff game to determine the south section winner was created yesterday when Fenwick defeated Leo, 49 to 6, in Hanson park and St. George whipped St. Rita, 20 to 9, at Shewbridge field in the concluding games of their regular schedules.

St. Ignatius Clinches Title

While this deadlock was being forged, St. Ignatius was clinching the north section title by defeating St. Mel, 21 to 6, in Key Branch stadium for its sixth triumph in seven starts.

Roger Brown and Bill Crowley scored three touchdowns each to lead the attack in Fenwick's triumph over Leo. Brown tallied on an end run of 20 yards, and sprints of 80 and 50 yards after pass interceptions. Crowley plunged 1 yard for his first score, and 4 yards each for the others. An 80 yard pass play in the fourth quarter averted a Leo shutout.

Larry Coutre returned a St. Rita kick-off 60 yards for one St. George touchdown and ran 70 yards after intercepting a pass for another after opening the scoring on a 10 yard end run. Jack McHugh ran 65 yards for the St. Rita touchdown.

Rotunno, Grimes, Guay Score

St. Ignatius scored in each period except the second against St. Mel. A Lou Hadek to Ed Francoeur pass set the stage for a 1 yard touchdown plunge by Joe Rotunno in the first quarter; an errant pass from center by St. Mel for a safety and an 8 yard drive into the line by Bob Grimes added to the winners' total in the third, and Bill Guay's 26 yard run after a pass interception topped off the scoring in the fourth period.

St. Philip whipped St. Patrick, 46 to 0, and Weber defeated De Paul academy, 22 to 13.

Cards Fail to Stop Dudley; Steelers Win

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 11 (AP)—Bill Dudley celebrated his return from the war today by scoring two touchdowns and adding the extra points as the Pittsburgh Steelers tallied three times in the final period and defeated the Chicago Cardinals, 23 to 0, in their National league football game.

The former University of Virginia star showed all the brilliance of his 1942 freshman year as he paced the Steelers to their first home victory in two years.

Heavy fog and a cold, steady drizzle held the crowd to 13,153. The muddy field made caution imperative and there wasn't a first down registered until the middle of the second quarter.

Redskins Roll Over Yanks to Retain Lead

Washington, D. C., Nov. 11 (AP)—Avenging an early season defeat, Washington's Redskins today tamed Boston's Yanks, 34 to 7, before 34,788.

Avenged is the precise word to describe the Redskin football victory, for the contest quickly developed into a fray where every man had to protect himself.

The triumph enabled the Redskins to retain leadership of the eastern division of the National Football league.

Field Goals Open Scoring

After two periods that were marred by roughness and penalties, two field goals by Redskin Joe Aguirre from the 23 and 37 yard lines represented the only scoring.

But after the second half kick-off the Washington passing combination, Sammy Baugh to Steve Bagarus, clicked for a touchdown. Baugh flipped the ball to Bagarus in the flat and the former Notre Dame back dodged 41 yards for the score with only 50 seconds gone. Bob Seymour then shook loose for a 23 yard run for the second touchdown.

The Redskins also went over twice in the final period on 66 and 57 yard drives. Merlyn Condit smashed thru the last 20 yards for touchdown No. 3 and Wayne Milner took a 7 yard toss from Frank Filchock for the last one.

Martin Comes Close

Johnny Martin, specialist at running back kick-offs, threw a switch on Boston's lone successful offensive. Martin sprinted back 45 yards and only a spectacular tackle by Filchock prevented the Oklahoma product from going all the way.

Donald Currivan, former Boston college end, fielded passes by Ace Parker and Bob Davis, one for 41 yards and another from the 8 yard line, to save the Yanks from a shutout.

The Redskins were penalized 120 yards to Boston's 55, and the fans took their dissatisfaction out on the officials. The Yanks earlier had beaten Washington, 28 to 20. Lineup:

College Football's Fighting Men

Purdue's Maloney Earned Three Battle Stars

[This is another of a series recounting thrilling war experiences of athletes who have returned to midwestern colleges. Today's hero is Norman (Ned) Maloney of Oak Park, Ill., Purdue right end.]

BY EDWARD PRELL

NED MALONEY, machine gunner, had 126 days of combat against the Japs. He was among those in the first wave at Bougainville. On the seventh day of the battle his marine platoon of the 3d Raider battalion was pinned down while on advance patrol and 17 of the 30 were killed or wounded.

Norman Maloney

Settled in his fox hole one night on Bougainville, Ned welcomed a visitor in effective fashion. He whipped out his Kabar knife and there was one less Jap to worry about. Later—Nov. 26, 1943—Maloney was assigned in a company to silence Jap coastal guns which were firing on the airstrip 18 miles off Bougainville. The Japs were waiting and the Americans advanced only 300 yards in a 24 hour battle. It finally was necessary to evacuate the Yanks because of terrific Jap mortar fire.

After 76 days on Bougainville, Ned returned to Guadalcanal to recover from jaundice. Then he rejoined the Raiders and was in the first group which went ashore on Emirau Island. After this spot was conquered, he commuted back to Guadalcanal where the 4th marine regiment, made up of four Raider battalions, was prepared for action. He was with the first wave on Guam on July 21, 1944, and participated in the struggle for the air strip. He was on Guam 30 days before being summoned to Pearl Harbor for V-12 training. Then Ned was assigned to Purdue last March after earlier training at Camp Le Jeune.

Maloney starred at Fenwick High school in Oak Park and captained its eleven in 1941. He enlisted in December, 1942, after having won a minor letter at Purdue. He wears three battle stars on his Asiatic-Pacific ribbon, along with a special unit naval citation.

Lions Defeat Bears, 35-28; 21 Point Rally

duel, for the Bears made only one first down by rushing to Detroit's four. The Bears had an advantage in yardage gained by passes, 279 to 186, but the Lions overcame this by returning Luckman's kicks 144 yards.

Detroit's first period touchdown drive started from the Bears' 36. Ryan passed to Greene on the Bears' 24, and then threw to the same receiver, who scored.

Ryan's short punt which was almost blocked by Jim Daniell and went out on Detroit's 38 yard line, set up the Bears' first touchdown in the second period. On the first play Bob Margarita outran the secondary to take Luckman's pass for the score. Pete Gaudaukas' place kick tied the score at 7 to 7.

Bears Forge Into Lead

Eleven minutes later the Bears went into the lead. Two passes from Luckman to George Wilson were key plays in an advance from the Bears' 38 to the Lions' 30 yard line, and Sid then passed to Kavanaugh for the score.

The Bears went ahead, 21 to 7, in the third period on Luckman's 36 yard throw to Hugh Gallarneau. Detroit countered with a 71 yard drive fashioned around Farkas' 27 yard run, a penalty on the Bears for roughness, and Westfall's plunging. Westfall got the touchdown.

Sid's Passes Connect

Thirty seconds before the end of the third quarter the Bears established their 28 to 14 lead. After consecutive passes to Ken Kavanaugh put the ball on Detroit's 10 yard line, Luckman threw to Wilson for the touchdown.

Then came Detroit's winning rally.

EAGLES DEFEAT GIANTS, 38 TO 17, TO STAY IN RACE

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 11 (AP)—The Philadelphia Eagles struck for 64 yards on the first play and unleashed a powerful aerial and ground offensive to whip the New York Giants, 38 to 17, today in a National Football league battle in Shibe park.

A crowd of 30,046 sat thru a murky drizzle to watch the running of Steve Van Buren and pro football's newest brilliant passing combination, Roy Zimmerman and Jack Ferrante, pile up an avalanche of touchdowns.

Five Straight Passes Good

The Zimmerman-Ferrante combination was successful on five passes out of five, two resulting in touchdowns. Van Buren scored after taking a wide lateral from Zimmerman and on a swift 22 yard run around his own right end. Gil Steinke added a fifth Eagle score in the final moments of the game with Zimmerman contributing a field goal and five placements to the Eagles' total.

Steve Owen's eleven battled well, led by Howard Livingston who set up and scored the Giants' first touchdown. The second came with only one minute remaining, on a pass, Marion Pugh to End Frank Liebel. Ken Strong kicked a field goal and add the extra points.

The opening play settled the issue in the minds of the partisan Eagle fans, who saw their favorites mark up their third straight victory to remain one game behind the Washington Redskins in the Eastern division title race.

Score on Pass

After Van Buren ran the kickoff back to his 36, Zimmerman arched a 41 yard pass to Ferrante who ran the last 23 yards unmolested.

Besides his expert pass catching, Ferrante was a defensive stalwart as he, along with Vic Lindskog and Al Wistert, continually tossed Pugh for losses as he attempted to pass.

Pugh was injured and probably will be lost for the rest of the season. Dr. Francis J. Sweeney, Giants' physician, said Pugh, who hurt his left leg late in the last quarter, suffered a displacement of the head of the fibula and torn ligaments of the knee.

George Franck was back in uniform for the Giants most of the second half. Lineups:

Archers Hunt Allegan, Mich. Area for Deer

BY BEN MARKLAND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Allegan, Mich., Nov. 11—If the Ottawa Indians who once stalked deer and speared trout in this lower Michigan county should suddenly return here, they would feel a distinct kinship with the modern hunters who have been sneaking thru their timbered areas this fall.

The 1945 hunters have forsaken high powered rifles in favor of bows and arrows. The arrow tips are of fine steel instead of flint, but otherwise the equipment and method of hunting is the same as that used by the Indians.

Arnold Haugen, of the Michigan department of conservation, last night told sportsmen at the Allegan Archer's jamboree that their method of hunting is not effective, and produced figures to back his statement. Hunting records tallied by the state department show that only three of every 100 archers who hunted in Michigan last year took home a deer, whereas 31 per cent of the rifle hunters brought down a buck. None of the 225 archers who attended last night's party will agree to discarding their Robin Hood equipment, despite Haugen's figures, because they all insist they have more fun with the primitive weapons, and further state rifle hunting is "too easy."

The 55,000 acre Allegan state forest has been open to archers for the last 40 days, and arrow hunting will continue thru all of November. So far, ten deer have been killed by archers, the last being the 10 point buck dropped yesterday afternoon by Bob Roberts, Kalamazoo, Mich.

RAMS DEFEAT PACKERS, 20-7, IN MUD AND RAIN

two times he was fed the ball by Quarter Back Waterfield. The other score came on an 86 yard pass by Waterfield to Jim Benton, who ran 52 yards after making the catch.

The Packers toted the opening kick-off from their 28 to the Rams' 49, where McKay had to kick on fourth down. The ball went out of bounds on the Cleveland 27. On the first play, Gehrke slanted to the left, bounced thru Green Bay's right side, cut into the middle, eluded the secondary without too much difficulty, and went over standing up. Waterfield kicked the extra point.

Gehrke Scores Again

Again the Rams kicked off. Again the Packers couldn't gain and had to punt. Waterfield, whose exploits today included three fine punts, kicked 54 yards over the Packer goal. McKay started hurling again but Waterfield intercepted his third down pass on the Rams' 31, fell, then scrambled 37 yards to the Green Bay 42.

On first down, Waterfield slipped the ball to Gehrke, who again ran thru the startled champions for a touchdown at 8:40 in the period. It was just before this dash that a section of the bleachers along the right center field wall of old League park collapsed. But the game continued, while the uninjured fans jumped to safety. In addition to the seven taken to the hospital, 15 were given treatment in the first aid room.

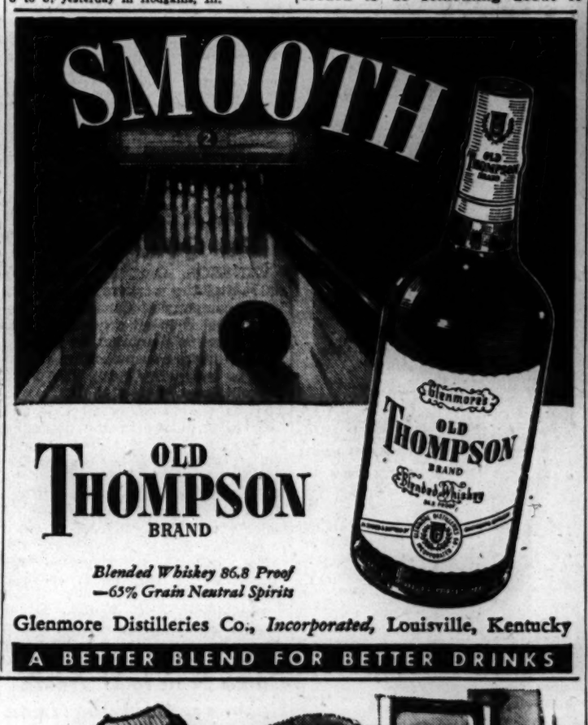

Goodnight Scores for Packers

Waterfield's kick for the extra point was blocked, but the Packers were 13 points behind. They proceeded to do something about it when Joe Laws hustled up to the Green Bay 21 after fumbling the ball 5 yards back. Don Perkins slashed for 4 yards. Then Camp pitched a long pass to Clyde Goodnight, who took the ball on the 2½ and ran on without any serious opposition. Hutson, the league's leading scorer, converted to bring his total points for the year to 79.

KEEPING A WARTIME PROMISE

CN-1 SETS A RECORD

CN-1 is an Illinois Central freight train . . . one of a great fleet of fast, scheduled carriers operating in 14 Mid-American states.

CN-1 is now rolling on a new, record-breaking schedule — providing shippers the fastest scheduled carload freight service ever offered from Great Lakes to Gulf. A northbound companion train —NC-2—makes the same fast run from New Orleans to Chicago.

Many other Illinois Central carload and merchandise freight trains are now operating on new, faster postwar schedules. These faster schedules are a major step toward fulfilling the Illinois Central's promise of finer postwar transportation. Other advances will follow as swiftly as improved materials, equipment and operating methods can be put into use.

W. A. Johnston
PRESIDENT

THE PROMISE

After victory, the Illinois Central looks forward to providing finer transportation, thanks to new materials, improved methods and knowledge gained serving America at war.

JOHN WARNER TALKS ABOUT HAIR CARE

Our professional business is, in simple English, the care and treatment of the hair and scalp. First of all, let me be very blunt and say very simply but emphatically that we do not and cannot grow hair. And as far as we have been able to determine, neither can anyone else. Secondly, we wish to make it quite plain that our only function is to provide men and women with a simple, sensible and effective method of treating the hair and scalp so as to keep it healthy, alive and attractive.

The some three thousand men and women who visit our offices each week are people who we sincerely believed could be helped. These clients know how we work and how effective our work is or they would not continue to come to us for treatment.

The best evidence of our integrity is to visit one of our offices to experience for yourself how we work. There is no charge or obligation for a private examination and consultation. If you decide then to take treatment, the decision is entirely yours. We employ no salesmen. Our treatments are at your convenience, and the modest fee we charge per treatment is payable only as treatments are taken.

The next best evidence of our integrity is to discuss the Warner method of hair and scalp control with any man or woman who has been a client of ours.

Hours:
11 A. M. to 9 P. M. Mon., Wed., Fri.

STRANAHAN'S 277 BEATS STAR PRO FIELD AT DURHAM

Durham, N. C., Nov. 11 (AP)—Frank Stranahan of Toledo, O., an amateur, won the Durham open tournament with a score of 277 today as golf's professional stars suffered their second successive defeat within a week.

It was the first time that amateurs had outscored the professionals in two straight open tournaments. Last Thursday, Lt. Cary Middlecoff, Memphis amateur, won the North and South Open at Pinehurst. Stranahan shot a 71 in the third round this morning to tie with Ed Oliver, Wilmington, Del., pro, for the 54-hole lead. Then in the final round, the 23 year old Ohioan fired a par 70 to win as Oliver's best was a 71.

Ben Hogan, Hershey, Pa., with a 69-71 today finished third with 279 and won $700. Toney Penna, Dayton, O., was fourth, with 72-71 for 281.

ASK STRIKE VOTE FOR 270,000 IN ELECTRIC UNION

New York, Nov. 11 (AP)—The CIO United Electrical, Radio and Machine workers announced today it had asked the war labor board to conduct a strike vote among 270,000 employes of the General Electric company, the Westinghouse Electric company and the General Motors corporation's electrical division.

The union, which has demanded a $2 a day pay raise for all the 270,000 workers, engaged in production of radios, refrigerators, washing machines and other electrical equipment, said it also had asked Labor Secretary Schwellenbach "to intervene personally in this situation."

Schwellenbach was asked to "participate in an early conference of the companies and the union to assist in breaking the deadlock."

James J. Matles, director of organization for the electrical workers union, said the application for a strike vote and appeal for intervention by Schwellenbach were made after a majority of the workers had petitioned for the $2 a day raise and expressed willingness to go on strike if necessary to obtain it. Matles said such a strike would involve 76 industrial centers in 22 states.

ASKS FOR HELP TO OBTAIN STEEL PRICE INCREASE

New York, Nov. 11 [Special]—Assistance of Labor Secretary Schwellenbach in obtaining action by the office of price administration to increase ceiling prices on steel products was asked today by Benjamin F. Fairless, president of the United States Steel corporation.

He made this appeal in a wire replying to Schwellenbach's request of yesterday that the corporation resume collective bargaining conferences with the CIO United Steel Workers union. He said the union is insisting on a yes or no answer to its demand for a $2 a day wage increase and that such an increase is impossible under existing price ceilings.

Fairless asserted the union's refusal to discuss modification of its wage demand is a violation of the spirit of collective bargaining.

Fairless also said that the company's contract with the union runs until next October with a no-strike provision but that "a strike vote is to be taken at the request of the union on Nov. 28."

ALL CANADIAN WORKERS ASKED TO QUIT TODAY

WINDSOR, Ont., Nov. 11 [Special]—Striking workers of the Ford Motor company of Canada plant today appealed to all organized labor in the entire dominion to stage a 24 hour strike demonstration tomorrow in sympathy with the Ford walkout, now in its 61st day.

Wires were sent to all CIO and AFL local unions in the dominion by Roy England, president of local 200 of the CIO United Automobile Workers, which represents the Ford strikers, estimated at 10,000. England signed himself as representing the UAW-CIO joint policy committee which is directing the strike, called over demands for higher wages and union recognition.

WAUKESHA MOTOR

Will you please give me investment information on Waukesha Motor company?—R. H.

Gasoline, diesel, and other internal combustion engines are manufactured by Waukesha Motor. They are sold to other manufacturers for use in trucks, tractors, buses, farm, and road machinery, and industrial equipment. The motors are also installed by the company in its line of air conditioning apparatus which is especially designed for use in railroad passenger cars. Cooling equipment is also made for buses.

Fuel oil engines, using spark plug ignition, are produced under license, and are said to rank next to gasoline motors, the top item, in Waukesha's sales. During the war, the company's products were used in military equipment. Its total sales increased from $6,763,000 in the fiscal year ended July 31, 1939, to a peak of $28,217,000 in the 1945 fiscal year.

Earnings a share on the 400,000 shares, sole capitalization, were: 1945, $1.52; 1944, $2.23; 1943, $1.56; 1942, $2.05; 1941, $2.66; 1940, $1.81. Earnings subsequent to 1941 are after renegotiation refunds or reserves. In the four years ended with 1939, the profits averaged about $1.70. Cash dividends have been paid each year since 1922. Since 1937, they have amounted to at least $1 annually, before deduction of the Wisconsin tax. Net working capital last July 31 was $5,751,000.

Prices of stocks of representative American companies, particularly those in the automotive field and others with favorable peace time prospects, have risen persistently and almost without exception since Aug. 1, 1940, when nazi Germany was at the height of its military might. A general market rise has been in progress since early 1942.

The strong demand for these and other stocks, accelerated since V-J day in August, has stimulated heavy trading on the New York and Chicago Stock exchanges. Saturday's turnover was the largest for a two hour trading day in four years.

Two Large Motors Soar

Relax Import Curb, Belgium Urges Britain

BY WILLIAM FULTON
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Nov. 11—Belgian demands that the British loosen their restrictions on imports into the United Kingdom have been made in official talks in London, it was learned from authoritative sources. The position of his country was stated by Belgian Prime Minister Achille Van Acker.

In discussions with British Foreign Secretary Bevin and other officials, Van Acker made a plea for measures to pave the way for resumption of trade and also for a sizable Belgian share of reparations from Germany and coal from the Ruhr basin.

Meet License Difficulties

Belgium has been importing food, machinery, and raw materials from England and paying cash. Now that some Belgian industries are starting up again they hope to export textiles, felt, cement, prepared foods, zinc, and other products.

The Belgians contend they are meeting a stone wall in obtaining import licenses from the British board of trade. On the other hand, it is comparatively easy to ship diamonds cut in Antwerp because the British, who control the world diamond market, buy gems and export them to the United States to add to their dollar reserves.

Belgium is not seeking a loan or credits since her sterling and dollar balances are large. Thruout the war the riches of the Belgian Congo were poured into the hands of the allies.

Coal Held Recovery Key

The Belgian prime minister also was reported attempting to impress the British government with the justice of Belgium's reparations claims. By the Belgian accounting, their total losses in industrial and commercial assets amount to 765 million dollars, and they reckon the damage to their transportation facilities at 160 millions. A half billion more is claimed in damage or destruction of 465,000 dwellings.

Van Acker was understood to have told the British the key to industrial recovery in Belgium lies in coal supplies and the country needs a share of the Ruhr production. In normal times Belgium produces more than enough coal, but her bins are empty because of the war.

BILLION ANNUAL JAP EXPORT TRADE, MUCH WITH U. S., WIPED OUT

Japanese exports, which in 1901-'05 averaged slightly more than 142 million dollars, amounted to almost a billion dollars in 1939 and averaged 841 millions in 1938-'39, American Exporter, trade journal, reported yesterday in a study on Japan.

Japan ranked sixth among the world's exporting countries prior to the war, the study said. Many commodities were offered in competition with the United States. Its export trade totaling $918,483,000 in 1939 has been virtually eliminated.

Under the conditions of surrender, some of the items which Japan exported no longer can be manufactured, it said. A long time will be required before other items can be produced in volume.

In 1939 the United States consumed 18.2 per cent of total Japanese exports; Latin America, 3 per cent; Great Britain, 3.7 per cent; Germany, 0.7 per cent; China, 27.7 per cent; India, 6.2 per cent, and Australia, 2 per cent. Other European and Asiatic countries took 2.3 and 3.1 per cent of the total respectively.

Exporters have speculated on how much trade in certain items Japan will be able to recapture.

REPORT INQUIRY ON SALES DELAY TO HIKE PROFITS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 11 (AP)—The civilian production administration tonight was reported investigating whether some makers of civilian goods were deliberately withholding them from market until 1946, delaying sales in expectation of larger earnings after repeal of the excess profits tax.

"Altho this may be a factor, no clear cut evidence has been found in the case of washers, refrigerators, electrical appliances, or other durable goods," said the spokesman, who requested that his name be withheld.

In certain cases products are being made and not sold, he said, but the reason generally proved to be absence of a price ceiling or dissatisfaction with the ceiling set.

Reconversion Director Snyder has interested himself in the inquiry, but it was begun by the now defunct WPB to learn if the tax cuts might account for the textile industry's slow response to its low price clothing program.

KAISER ADOPTS A-BOMB IDEA TO HUNT BARGAINS

BY WALTER TROHAN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 11—Henry J. Kaiser, leading war time industrialist, has adopted the atomic bomb as an argument for his program of acquiring government financed war facilities at bargain prices.

The man who operated extensive plane, ship, magnesium, and steel plants with government money during the war appeared before congress during the week to argue that the discovery of atomic energy makes it necessary to decentralize industry, especially the steel industry, for the nation's welfare.

Kaiser made no mention of how decentralization will affect his personal fortune, built up largely because he was willing and anxious to enter any field of production as long as the government would put up the money.

Assured a Profit

He did produce many ships and made a great deal of money in the process. He entered shipbuilding at a time when the maritime commission was awarding contracts on a fixed fee basis, a system under which a shipbuilder was assured a profit. Kaiser's profit was reported scaled down from $160,000 to $60,000 a ship as volume was attained.

Other Kaiser ventures were not so profitable. Early in the war he convinced President Roosevelt that there should be a steel plant on the west coast to facilitate shipbuilding in that area.

The Reconstruction Finance corporation was instructed by the war production board to finance the Kaiser project on a hog farm in California. Kaiser borrowed in all $111,800,000 from the government on a capital stock of $100,000.

Despite the fact he was not working in a competitive market, the Fontana plant showed a substantial loss at the end of the war. Last August the RFC insisted on placing its loan on a business basis.

Kaiser roared in protest against the RFC program, threatening to appeal to congress. He demanded that the government compromise his debts at less than 50 cents on the dollar to enable him to compete with existing steel companies. The atomic bomb argument constituted part of his campaign against the RFC terms.

Gets Another 18 Million

Kaiser also sponsored a scheme to win the war thru giant wooden cargo planes.

Again WPB persuaded RFC in 1943 to furnish 18 million dollars which Kaiser said would be necessary. Three planes were to be constructed and tests made before more could be built.

After several months it was found that half the money had been spent and the first plane was only half completed. WPB cut off the money but not for long, as a new deal was arranged under which Howard Hughes, flyer and air line executive, was authorized to use the entire amount on one plane.

The plane has now been completed, but has yet to make its test flight. Its builders are seeking $500,000 to bring the giant craft to the sea in sectons.

Another Kaiser venture was in magnesium. When WPB called for increased magnesium output for plane production, Kaiser was on hand with a plan.

Unable to Produce

Once again WPB asked RFC to loan Kaiser money—this time more than 30 million dollars. His Hansgriff process proved dangerous and expensive. Explosions were frequent. For a year Kaiser received a subsidy above ceiling price of 1 million.

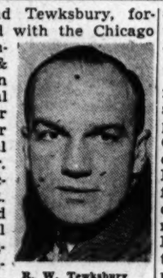

Before the end of the war Kaiser stopped making magnesium, as the plant was unable to produce at the quantity or price promised. Dust from which the magnesium was produced under the process was sold for incendiary bombs. Later more effective bombs were developed by the oil industry.

Another chapter in the Kaiser government in business saga was his venture into the Brewster aircraft tangle. The navy had difficulty in obtaining production quotas, so Kaiser stepped in.

Five months later Kaiser left Brewster more quickly than he entered the plant, and with less publicity. It was announced that Kaiser had met production. However, it was later learned that the contract had been altered favorably for him.

PEOPLE AND EVENTS

Atty. Raymond Tewksbury, formerly associated with the Chicago legal firm of Winston, Strawn & Shaw, has been appointed central regional director of properties for Transcontinental and Western Air. Tewksbury succeeds A. R. Thompson and will handle real estate negotiations in the central region. Tewksbury, a graduate of the University of Illinois, lives in La Grange. R. W. Tewksbury

Dr. Reuben G. Gustavson, vice president of the University of Chicago, John K. Langum, vice president of the Federal Reserve bank of Chicago, and James F. Stiles Jr., president of the Illinois State Chamber of Commerce, will speak at the economic conference of the Chicago chapter of the Chartered Life Underwriters in the La Salle hotel Tuesday.

Diamond studded gold emblems in recognition of 25 years or more of service with the company will be presented to 241 employes of the Chicago milk division of the Borden company at a dinner tonight in the Palmer House. Similar service pins for 28 employes of the ice cream division will be presented at a dinner tomorrow in the Congress hotel. Harry Shiffer, an assistant in the treasurer's office, has the longest record, 48 years.

Appointment of John D. Clark as assistant traffic manager was announced by the Chicago Association of Commerce. He had been commerce counsel of the American Trucking associations, and before that was with the Norfolk and Western railway 18 years.

Opening of a new branch office at 4532 Broadway was announced by the Universal C. I. T. Credit corporation, whose district manager will be Arthur P. Wurtlin, former sales manager. George A. Patterson is branch office manager.

SUGGEST MAJOR U.S. TRANSPORT POLICY SHIFTS

The transportation committee and the industrial traffic council of the Chicago Association of Commerce today will recommend major changes in the national transportation policy, including unified regulation and the elimination of fixed "differentials" in rate making.

Other recommendations, drafted in response to the national transportation inquiry by the house of represenatives, call for elimination of all subsidies, removal of arbitrary restrictions against consolidations and coördination of several types of carriers, and exemption of all carriers from anti-trust laws in determining reasonable rates.

Would Increase Efficiency

The association groups said a more efficient and competitive system of transportation would result from unified regulation, especially in view of the danger of over-expansion because of large scale government financing of such activities in the last 10 years.

Use of "differentials" on any basis other than differences in services and cost, said the report, denies the public the advantages of each mode of transportation and places the regulatory authority in a position of allocating traffic among the different types of carriers. Rates for each type of carrier should be stated specifically to cover the cost of service performed.

Better Service Set as Test

Coördination of facilities and consolidations of carriers should be permitted and encouraged where the result will be better service, but such transactions should be subject to the approval of the interstate commerce commission under proper safeguards, the groups advised.

Exemption from the anti-trust laws in determining reasonable rates could be provided, they said, by legislation authorizing carriers of the same type to confer and consider rates and services subject to regulations prescribed by the ICC.

ESTIMATE 350 BILLION INVESTMENT NEEDED FOR 50 MILLION JOBS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 11 (AP)—The Chamber of Commerce of the United States today estimated that total investment of about 350 billion dollars would be needed to provide jobs for industrial workers, each job representing a $7,000 investment.

Existing production capital aside from farm plants was estimated at 250 billion and would indicate, the chamber said, that "the country has a major investment task before it if it is to raise its standard of living to the level of which it is capable."

The survey brought out that capital investment is essential to maintenance of a high standard of living. Said Ralph Bradford, general manager of the chamber:

"If we are to have more jobs and if these jobs are to yield higher wages, we must have more capital investment. We must not all try to get on some one else's pay roll. We need more pay roll makers."

GUNNISON HOMES, INC.
LOUISVILLE

GUNNISON HOMES, a subsidiary of the United States Steel Corporation, manufactured during the war pre-fabricated homes for the atomic bomb project at Oak Ridge, Tenn., and hospitals and barracks for overseas shipment. Gunnison Homes now looks forward to early resumption of mass-production of homes on an even greater scale than its prewar experience.

Millions of Americans enter the peacetime era with plans to own homes of their own, or a desire for home ownership which may well be realized in the near future. The pre-fabricated home industry has now assumed an important position in the housing field, and may be expected to supply a substantial part of this demand. Gunnison Homes, as a pioneer and leader of this industry, is optimistic over the role it will play in this postwar production job.

As evidence of its confidence in the future, Gunnison Homes has announced plans to build immediately in the Louisville area, at a cost of $1,000,000, one of the largest and first completely mechanized plants in America for the mass production of homes. We are looking forward with pleasure to our relationship as a member of Louisville's postwar industrial family, and an opportunity to serve the housing requirements of its citizens as well as adding greatly to employment opportunities.

You Cannot Be Sure
Of a New Home for Two Years
Unless now you get your house design and specifications under way.
There are, and will be, nowhere near enough materials and man power to meet demands, let alone enough quality sites such as we have in Prized East Glenview and in distinctive North Northbrook.
Based on the tested experience of providing two generations of discriminating North Shore families with quality homes and protected sites, we are able, for a limited number of alert families, to provide site, financing, to procure design, and to provide building supervision of houses in the price range of $10,500 to $25,000 on 60' to 90' lawns, or on ½ to 2 acre knolls—out where the hills begin—in East Glenview and in North Northbrook.
